In a special assembly in the chapel, Dr. M. H. Marvin, who took Prof. Davis' classes while he was attending Senate, was presented with a hand-made coat of their appreciation of his presence here the past eight weeks. Harold Hong made the presentation speech.

Dean Morton told of the inspiration Dr. Marvin has been to the faculty as well as the students. Marmaduke Dudworth also spoke for the students, proposing a renewing yell for Dr. Marvin, which the Student Body enthusiastically gave.

Dr. Marvin responded, expressing in his usual modesty delight in being here. But as he said that "his heart was too full for speech" then, we will remember him as a parting message thru "The Trail."

"Write something for "The Trail?" Certainly! It opens the door of opportunity to say some things which were not said because the thumping of my heart in glad emotion sent my words wool-gathering that last day in Chapel. Then it is a good chance to speak where certain ready-tongued students have no opening for a come-back! It is like being a parson again.

The things I failed to say come first. Thanks to the two score students and faculty who at one time or another have helped me on and off with my overcoat. Paul talked in a weighty epistle about a cloak he needed very badly, so it cannot be unkindly for a Methodist parson who is on the discard to follow suit. Thanks for the patience and steadiness of the classes, which declined more than one good imitation of the 'long columns to marching back.' After song was sung, until the ringing of the school in the singing. A song in the campus, onto the ball field, singing of the score at the end of the game.

The farce was directed by Maurine Martin, the linerickas being written by Vera Sinclair and Fielding Lemmon. The members of the cast were Mabel Amende, Winifred Wayne, Marion Myers, Maude Shunk, Bessie Bean, Charles Fisel, Charles Fisel, Vera Sinclair, Marmaduke Dudworth, Ed Longbright, Fielding Lemmon, Lewis Craver, Harold Young and Percy James.

Lively songs and yells concluded the program.
The SIXTEENTH WASHINGTON LEGISLATURE

By Walter S. Davis, Senator 27th District, Tacoma.

At one a. m. Friday morning, March 13th, the Sixteenth Biennial Session of the Washington Legislature adjourned sine die and the story of its record became a part of the history of our State. Then Senate and House journals will say that the Legislature adjourned at 11:59 p. m. Thursday the 13th, but a few minutes before that time, according to custom, the flag about the clock above the desk of the presiding officer was dropped over the face of the official time piece which records the flight of the irrevocable hours, a pardonable bit of camouflage.

The sixty days biennial session of the legislature form a welcome oasis in the quiet desert life of our Capital City. The city at once feels the pulse and thrill of new life. For besides the forty-two members of the Senate and the ninety-seven members of the House and their friends and families, there come a vast throng of interested spectators, citizens of the state, newspaper men, tauchers with their pupils and even women interested in the passage or defeat of some measure. With the final adjournment the town resumes its accustomed quiet and all the air a solemn stillness holds for two years.

It is a great privilege to be permitted to take part in the making of the laws of one of our great American commonwealths and I can say that I both fully appreciated the honor of membership in the Senate and with its resulting high obligations and also that I have thoroughly enjoyed this work. It is something to which I have long looked forward. I believe the same may be said of the majority of the membership in the Legislature with the motive of serving, not some special interest, but the people of the entire state is an aspiration worthy every citizen of our State.

Our citizens should see that future Legislatures are free from partitio n and organization control and that all measures be considered on their merits. Not until then will we have a Legislature and legislation in every way worthy of our great State.

The works of the Senate will be better understood by knowing that about twenty-four old line Republican members constitute the organizing majority in both houses, with the resulting high obligations and also that I have thoroughly enjoyed this work. It is something to which I have long looked forward. I believe the same may be said of the majority of the membership in the Legislature with the motive of serving, not some special interest, but the people of the entire state is an aspiration worthy every citizen of our State.

The city Y. M. C. A. was host to a group of college girls at a jolly party given in the Y. M. C. A. last Wednesday evening, honoring the Overseas Men. The evening was spent in music, bowling, and in dancing to records. Delicious refreshments were served. The college girls who were the guests of the evening were Miss Martha Almond, Maude Shunk, Madeline Myers, Ruth Woods, Frances King, Elizabeth Pangburn, Emily Frederickson, Ada Todd, Thelma Hamilton, Vera Sinclair, Holle Hickok, Hodelia Kilborne, Olive Martin, Edie Chapman, Helen King, Laura Neville, Hazel Brasilin and Alta Jeffers.

Miss Olive Hickok entertained her sister, Miss Pearl Hickok, of Marysville, over the week end.

Mr. Marsh was one of our chapel speakers last week, giving an interesting talk on "Birds."

Mrs. H. E. Wishamsey, of Seattle, was the guest of Miss Lois Noble last Sunday.

The U. W. visitors at C. P. S. last week included Miss Mae Birky, Miss Helina Bills and J. Francis Lemmorr.

Mrs. Martelle Davis gave an address on "The Centenary Movement" at the First M. E. Church last Sunday morning.

New Cabinet Honored

The Y. W. C. A. at Advisory Board met at a luncheon in the Home Economic Room on Friday, March 28. The luncheon was prepared by the Y. W. C. A. girls. The luncheon was followed by the installation of the new cabinet officers which was very interesting, showing how far work has extended last year. The latter has since been obliged to drop her absence will be sincerely regretted. Mrs. Davis has since been obliged to drop her back with us soon.

Generalization ----------------Iren Dorcan

Among the reports given, the treasurer's was very interesting, showing how far work has extended last year. A few items from the report are of special interest.

THINGS WE WOULD LIKE TO KNOW

How does Ed know "The Fur Coat" is so soft? How long did it take Magnussen and Hong to create the "Anonymous Attractor"? Has Miss Jeffers learned the answer to the all important question? Could C. P. S. stand the aftermath of a proposal which was given in a well planned manner? Do Stone and Anderson like wein? How does a stolen lemon pie taste? Why did Lemmorr's countenance become the hue of early dawn when the "clap" walked in?

The Frenchman did not like the look of the barking dog barring his way. "It's all right," said the host, "don't you wish you had been there? Of course you did!"

Amphicton

Ampic had a program of unusual interest to members and outsiders March 31, which bore the happy and distinctive title of "Memories."

The program of the H. C. S. Society Monday, March 31, was of intense interest to its members and visiting friends.

Next came our S. A. T. C. representing Mr. Sten Doherty. Mr. Sten Doherty gave a very interesting and instructive talk on his two years experiences in Alaska. Mr. Hong dwelt at length on the fishing industry in Alaska, and gave a clear exposition of the labor problems with which the canneries have to contend. The members were interested to learn that good labor conditions in Alaska have for the past five years been steadily in the ascendancy. Mr. Hong attributes this to the ever increasing intelligence of Beavis Pleasants Conference Chairman ------------- Florence Todd

Easter 1919

Easter will take on new significance this year. For over four years the Nations of the earth have been at war. Amidst the din of the war's activities, Easter has seemed to provide new opportunities for some fresh form of Frightfulness. We ourselves have been living upon such heights of spiritual experience, we have been elevated so far above the ordinary affairs of human life, that the Red Letter days of the Christian war has almost rolled past. We are slipping into old grooves. The tumult and the shouting of the valley of sorrow? We most need. It tells of a smiling heralds of the dawn of a brighter, more important than Immortality. What we need most now among men is the reign of Righteousness and Justice. We want selfishness banished. We want wars to cease. We want the practice of the exploitation of human life for profit to be brought to an end, and Easter bids us Hope for these things.

The war has ended. The bogy of Bolshevism which hides every real menace is affrighting us. We hear the rumbling of a new social conflict, but in spite of all these things Easter bids us Hope for the better day which will surely come. It directs our eyes to that day when "The Kingdom of this World shall become the Kingdom of our God and of His Christ."

PROFESSOR MARSH

A letter has been received from Prof. Arthur L. Marsh, former dean of the College who is spending this year in Columbia, telling of his decision to become director of schools in Toppenish. Prof. Marsh has filled a great place in C. P. S. life for many years, and it is with regret that the student body of his resignation from the College faculty. But the good wishes of every student will be with Prof. Marsh in his new work, and we are sure that he will be successful.

We are glad to be able to print the following letter from him:

523 W. 123rd St., New York City,
March 22, 1919.

Dear friends in C. P. S.:-
It occurs to me that I owe my friends in "Puget Sound" a "swan song," as I have just signed a contract which will necessitate my resigning from membership in the College faculty. On July 1st your former dean and dealer in dead dialects is to undertake a live job directing the public schools of Toppenish, Washington. As in all probability I shall not reach Tacoma until after Commencement Day, may I take this means of saying my formal adieux. It is not easy. I assure you to break the associations, connections and habits, which my years of life and service in the College have formed and to reach the decision to do so required no little deliberation. In my years here I have seen nearly a score of class members with the College I have come to love both the institution for its splendid spirit and ideals and the many students and faculty members who have come and gone. While not very aged yet in years I have grown old—the oldest of the present faculty—in service; and now that I come to breaking these ties of years I find that they are marked and strong. I have little expected back in 1904, when asked to fill an emergency gap in the faculty, or when at another emergency thrust the deanship on my diffident shoulders in 1913, that the years would lengthen these responsibilities as they have. But as long as these responsibilities have rested as manifest duties on me, I have not hesitated to express my loyalty and love to my Alma Mater in sacrificial services.

The time at last came that I was not needed in any vital way. I felt free to "choose and see my path" of professional service; and I am now executing my long deferred choice. If you have followed my "song" so far, permit me to pause here to explain that I have gone to this length in accounting for my move at the risk of seeming presumptuous in order that my motive may not by any chance be misunderstood. I want to leave no room for inference that I have either lost confidence in the future of the College, or am in any sense "deserting the ship." An institution that has weathered the storms of "Puget Sound" has survived is indestructible and can face the future with the utmost confidence. I know my place as dean would be so ably filled by Dean Norton that I need have no concern for the administration of that College. My only regret is for the loss of an opportunity for the personal service which are behind." Rather I shall be sufficiently Janus-like to keep you and my many years of happy experiences and service in C. P. S. very distinctly in memory. I shall always remember with particular pleasure the happy surprise you tendered me when you invited me this next month, I expect indeed to be drawing dividends for many, many years from my investment of time and effort in the College of Puget Sound. Moreover, not only has C. P. S. given me my general education and all of my professional experience thus far, but in C. P. S. I have gained my family and friends, who constitute my life's richest blessings. I—and you too in turn—come and go, but may "that something" which I can ill express but which all who love the College so well understand, —that soul of C. P. S.—go on forever in its course of blessing. This is my prayer as I leave her employ. I am indeed grateful that one relation I shall not have to sever—I shall continue to be loyal alumni of my beloved Alma Mater.

AN EASTER MESSAGE

Dean Ira A. Morton

It may not be wholesome to dwell upon the thought of what might have been, except as it may give insight into what we do. But I think what might have been these words of Christ inspire us in great gratitude that he uttered them and fulfilled them: "Because I Live Ye Shall Live Also." The demand for life beyond this earthly career seems to be as universal as the Hopemanufacturing. But the fact of a living Christ, who is alive though he were dead, confirms the doctrine of life after death. And this is at me the great message of Easter: the message of immortality for every man. As it seems to me now, it would be a bitter disappoint-ment to be compelled to surrender all prospects or possibilities of service to death approaches. One grows so increasingly fit as years advance that an economy in which all this fitness and prospects or possibilities of service to death approaches. One grows so increasingly fit as years advance that an economy in which all this fitness and service in C. P. S. very distinctly in memory. I shall always remember with particular pleasure the happy surprise you tendered me when you invited me this next month, I expect indeed to be drawing dividends for many, many years from my investment of time and effort in the College of Puget Sound. Moreover, not only has C. P. S. given me my general education and all of my professional experience thus far, but in C. P. S. Word has been received from Frank Young, a former student here, who has been in France in hospital work, that the Government is sending him to Colorado for research work in the sugar beet industry.

Prof. Davis received a card and a copy of "The Stars and Stripes" from Lauren Scheffer, who has been in France for about six months.

He wrote: "Just arrived in Italy to see the sights, and it is great. The Red Rocks Museum is of great interest. It's real summer-time here."

ROUND TRIP TO FRANCE

Vincent Hart, who returned recently from France where he has been spending the last six months with the 74th Engineers, is again registered at the College.

He is glad to hear some of his experiences are being told to us in his letters.

It was here that I first noticed the methods of washing clothes. There is, as a rule, a public wash house with a large pool of water often about eight inches deep, with a wooden paddle. They may get them clean by system of soap and water. At times the water gets somewhat soiled. The water is always cold and few bring warm water. They clean the clothes by a system of soap and water and beat them with a wooden paddle. They may get them clean but I washed my own. When a river is handy you find them using the banks instead of in the wash room.

Leaving Langres about Sept. 15th we started for school at Fort St. Menge to take up the work that we had carried on while at the front. Our work was practically new, there being only one line of work that we had been able to continue in the U. S. Army. It was that of Flash and Sound ranging, or ranging the German guns by the flash of the gun and the sound of the report. We spent six weeks there and then were sent to the front. We rode to Toul, from which the Toul Sector got its name, by train where we spent the night. Next morning we were loaded into trucks and taken to the Metz front where we arrived on the evening of the 19th of October in a rain storm. We pitched our tents in the dark and rain and went to bed with almost no supper. In the distance we could hear the German guns and our own were firing all around us. It was a new lullaby for me to go to sleep by. We were up at day light in the morning and soon after were on our way to our billet and our observation posts. Our billet was stationed about a mile behind our front line trenches but out of sight of the enemy. All was quiet and in ten minutes that had been going to last until dusk that night it
CONGRESSMAN JOHNSON ADRESSES STUDENTS

States He is for a League of Nations. Congressman Albert Johnson, in an address to the students of the College, in the Chapel Tuesday, March 25, announced that he was for a League of Nations, and that he is firmly convinced that such a league will be approved by the U. S. Senate. Mr. Johnson is in Tacoma visiting and conversing with his constituents concerning their needs and views on legislation to be proposed when Congress assembles.

"I am satisfied," he said, "that the world will have a league or alliance of nations. It may not be just as outlined now and presented by President Wilson, but there will be a perfect combining force of the larger and smaller nations."

Mr. Johnson will be Chairman of the important Committee on Immigration, and he explained the position he takes in the matter. He urges the great necessity of congressional action, looking to the early deportation of all persons who surrendered first papers in order to avoid the draft.

"If the countries from which these undesirables came, refuse to receive them back, we can refuse henceforth admission to all persons from those countries," he said. "I hope the Rules Committee of the House will quickly authorize consideration of the immigration suspension bill recently reported from the committee of which I have the honor to be a member. I hope that a clause covering in these first-paper draft swimmers be added, and that the deportation of undeliberable aliens will proceed rapidly. I hope the United States will make progress with the house cleaning that the war has demonstrated we need. We should be rid of all non-Americans among us who either cannot or will not become citizens. We should be true with the philosophies they bring, the revolutions they preach.

"The United States is a government of the people, and by the people, but it must be a Government directed by its own people, and not a Government directed in any part whatsoever by those who come among us not to help sustain our Government but to wreak and tear it down. Nor can we keep among us, to be citizens at some future time, those who decline the call to shoulder arms alongside our own true citizens, both native and adopted."

Congressman Johnson was introduced by President Todd.

Y. W. devotions on Thursday, April 3, in the Rest Room, was one of the finest of the year. Every girl agreed that the Y. M. is all right and we extend to them our sincerest thanks for the splendid program.

Mr. Burd, Mr. C. C. James, Mr. Graham and George Lemon were the Y. M. men who led Y. W. Mr. Burd was official chairman, Mr. Wil- limore was chairman, James and Mr. Graham each gave talks that were full of zest and earnest conviction and left something for us to think seri- ously about.

Next week Miss Anne Holmes from the University of Washington is com- ing to talk to us of the Evanston, Illinois, Student Conference. Every one is welcome!

ANONYMOUS ATMOSPHERE

The Unperceived has an idea that she knows who writes this atmos- phere, but if she does she knows more than any of the three contri- butors to this space know. Not one of them have become acquainted with himself. We will relieve her by telling her that her solution is entirely wrong and she does not know who writes these articles.

Magnuson—Nobody even saw me making love around this school. Hong—That may be, but very likely somebody has seen you making love around the girls. I like the light little Todds And the dark little Todds But any little Todd will do.

Said—An empty package of dates at the Point?

Guess it once and guess it twice Guess again and make it thrice, Guess in evening; guess at night, Guess again at morning light, Stop a guessing, your time you donate, For you'll never know who writes this space.

The Unperceived still roams around On every college day; Still unperceived, and yet each time She speaks she gives herself away.

Heard in the library—'Eight's my point.'

Who was the Theta girl out on the water with a Stone?

If I were a coottie (by golly I would) I'd bite everybody I possibly could. There would be no difference twist student or Prof, I'd make fair ladies giggle and old maids cough; I'd bite all the seniors (O my how they'd cuss) I'd get on each junior and kick up a fuss, And then the sophomores (O how they would roar) They'd jump in the air and fall on the floor, I'd let the fresherettes off easy for I am one too. But it looks right now like my plan would fall thru. For a coottie's a coottie and a frosh is a frosh. So now I'll quit 'lfing,' I'll have to, by gosh.

Wanted—Something sensible to write about next edition?

Item—There must have been a jewelry sale someplace, or else where did all the rings come from, especially the green stones?

Extract—"Some day I'll introduce" Nothing I say do I rue.

Professor Davis declares we marry on faith. If faith is a requisite, we can put our hand on one back-slider.

Miss Reneau declares that no one can write love stories without ex- pression. In looking over my list, I find that Magnuson is a pre-journ-alism student.

Professor Harvey and Reynolds were working with the bells and wires a while back. One can never tell what a live wire will do.

"ALWAYS WILLING"

An out-burst of longing; Gee, I wish I had a fellow! Twas thus the maiden spoke, E'en tho his hair were' yellow She: "Oh, I don't think there's a gentleman around this school." The government decreed that the boys wear "Olive drab," but it seems that one of our boys has shown a preference for "Olive Brown."

He: "You can't judge a man by the way he dresses." She: "Oh, I don't know! I can tell a gentleman by his get-up in a crowded street car."
ASSEMBLY HELD HONORING DR. MARVIN

A host or good things. That President Todd may find ample room for the exercise of his genius in separating the Capitalist from a large part of his surplus wealth. This for the good of the capitalst as well as C. P. S. That a commodious, stately structure of stone and bricks may specially arise on the College Campus. That the library may soon be made adequate to the demands upon it. That student enrollment may hit the five hundred mark. These and other external needs readily suggest themselves as devoutly to be wished. The writer sinks the plummet of his desires for C. P. S. deeper than the externals. He craves an intensification and expansion of the spirit of fidelity to truth already in evidence. The spirit of a great adventure is in the air. The Greathearts of life do not always play safe. They frequently take long chances. In this they follow the Man of all Men, who, battered, bruised, and beaten of body, went to the Cross with unconquerable spirit. The keenest craving of this writer for the Students of C. P. S. is not better accomodations, but that they may grasp the meaning of the new era in which the spirit of the cross emerges out of the wreckage made by the Spirit of the Sword. "This challenge of the Cross is the call to-day. It is the battle of all battles. It is to the highest. It must be played according to the rules of the game. To succeed by hitting below the belt is to fall. Failure of spirit is the only real failure. May C. P. S. always triumph in the spiritual realm of life." LECTURE GIVEN TO STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

Mr. Christofferson, a missionary who has worked in China for twenty-five years, gave an interesting talk to the Student Volunteers on Thursday, March 27, in the Chapel Annex. He spoke in a pleasing manner about the difference between the present day China and China twenty-five years ago. While the doors were then practically closed to any foreigners and the tribes which they sought to introduce, the Chinese now are eager to learn Western ideas and customs. China is becoming despondent in waiting for some one to come to tell the story of Jesus. Commerce and politics are rapidly being introduced, but the Chinese are not satisfied with these material things, according to Mr. Christofferson. Mr. Christofferson told of a Chinese to whom he had related the story of Jesus' life. "Did your grandfather know about this Jesus? Why did not your grand-tfather tell my grandfather? My grandfather died without knowing Him." "Did your father know Jesus? Why did not he tell my father?"

Mr. Christofferson explained that the past situation was unfortunate, but that he was there to tell him that his children might know the way, the truth and light. But in China there is only one missionary for every 400,000 natives. Do you want room to grow?

A Blowout

"The Smiths had a big blow-out the other night."

"Was it their daughter's birthday celebration?"

"No, it was their automobile tires."
CAMPUS PERSONALS

Prof. Davis (in Economics): "Miss Vugus, when you and I were boys together, how did it used to be?"

"Tis Springtime
Lois B. (translating in French): "She was hopelessly in love.
Mrs. Davis: "Margaret, will you nish the translation?"
Margaret Sayre: "I haven't got that far yet.
Mrs. Davis: "Which did you mean?"

In Physics
Prof. Harvey: "Miss Doran, give me an example of a tendency of liquid to take a spherical form,"
Mrs. Harvey: "My husband is, as usual, in his laboratory conducting experiments. The professor expects to go down to posterity."
(From the laboratory): B-r-r-r-T Bang!
Visitor (startled): "I hope the professor hasn't gone."

Why They're in College
H. H. —To chew the rug.
Winifred Wayne—To talk to all the boys.

Laura—"O gee! Nobody loves me."
Alma—"I wouldn't like to be shot up to the moon."

TRAGIC UTTERINGS OF THE SACACAJAEAS

SEEN FROM THE LIBRARY WINDOW

Since there was so much "mud" thrown at the Library Window in the last issue of "The Trail," I have been unable to see clearly the passing events.
I have asked Kinch to use the ladder given him in the same issue and by the time the next "Trail" goes to press he will have climbed to the top of above mentioned ladder and will have washed my window for me.
I may also add that in the last issue of "Trail" there will be a picture of the Library Window and—(?) presented by th' unpercieved.
