CONGRATULATIONS, WILLAMETTE

You held the powerful University of Oregon eleven to a scoreless tie last Saturday. You have done what we hope to do in the University of Washington every day.

You have shown the way for the smaller colleges in football for this season, and we will try to keep you in sight. You have given the biggest fight to the Oregon team and the team with the best college football system in the Pacific Coast, and have first trial with the confidence of Willamette.

What little Centre College did fairly illness can be done here on the Grid.

We are strong for Willamette, maus, when we meet on the 22nd of this month may be the best team in the. Outside of that frost we are rooting for you to win remaining game on your schedule.

More power to the Methodist colleges; and here is a congratulatory salute of the start of the present football season.

FOOTBALL ETIQUETTE

The crowds that come to the average-football game do so not only for the sake of the student body but also for the sport itself. The games are fought with the spirit of the student body in mind, so it is the duty of every student to cooperate and follow the rules of good conduct and good sportsmanship. This is the only way in which the student body will be able to make the best of its opportunities.

1. Give your Yell King absolute support at all times.
2. Give the cheerleaders support at all times.
4. Be on the field always and be ready to lend a hand.
5. Never stop making a noise till the Yell King tells you to.

Beacon of the skies

Between Cleveland and the Rock Springs, Wyo., along the night route of the air mail service, tall beacons have been placed every twenty-five miles. Revolving on great steel towers, General Electric searcheslights, totaling 2,993,000,000 candle-power, blaze a path of light for the airplane pilot.

What the lighthouse is to the ocean navigator, these beacons are to the conquerors of the air.
FOOTBALL
Two weeks ago Coach McNead made a little talk, in Student Council, to the effect that football was the profession footballers should choose. He sounded pretty disinterested, and for good reason. He was sold on the great green of material, and he didn’t have enough of that. The situation is a little brighter today. A few more men are turning out, but blue could win twice as many.

The first game of the season will be played tomorrow. If the U.S.C. men can come off during the past four years, and the student attendance was something to be admired of in every case. That, more than anything else, has been the high point of the season. It is in that four-year time we were "watching out of it." We should have more than doubled our present turn out and could still have turned out for the kickoff. If it is too much a strain on your school spirit for you to go to a good football game for nothing, come anyway and try to end it for once.

TRAMP ATHLETS
The University of Washington in the late 90’s and the early 80’s has been the best training school for the tramp athletes. By that we mean athletes who played for themselves as a hobby. The men in a year of this kind in the Pacific Northwest. The regulations were with the view in mind for the good of the University as a whole. The tramp is being pretty well stamped out. There is a marked decrease in the number of games where the college with only individuals knowing their way around. There is no such thing as competition between individuals, and it is entirely unsanctioned when college men are present.

It is in the Mission of a coach, as a working team, to get the players to think of the team, and that is the thing foreign to the mark-up of the tramp. These are not enough men to concentrate in developing teamwork for the first game, and it worked.

The losses have been handled; and the hope of the small college against the large institution is in the coming season.

SUPERFLUOUS KNOWLEDGE AND INVENTED KNOWLEDGE
Dr. Frank Crane, one of the great writers of the day, says, "a cultured, truly educated person is not one who is able to make use of his knowledge, great or small, in order.

"One does not know facts and who knows things may not be educated at all; but the man who can classify facts and what things are true and false is highly educated.

Why should a mechanic know the names of the horses in the stable? Outside of a few familiar ones, how do you know a beautiful chariot? He must keep our in- the stable. We are a nation of people who are in want of a high type of intelligence. We constantly strive to keep from eating the grass which we cannot digest, and from letting our desks become grasslands.

If we are to be civil engineers we must devote all our time and energy to becoming civil engineers, and not thinking of the grass outside the fences, and of the trees that shade our living. "It is a good plan not to learn more than you can use as you can eat all the food you may have."

"Efficiency is only half-educated when you know the essentials and their uses, but can explain what things are not essential and let them alone," says Dr. Frank Crane.

Few college men have a position waiting for them when they graduate. The average beginning at the bottom because they have had no personal experience—no kindred trained laborer accustomed to find a farmer living.

Efficiency is to work at the practical trade while learning the journalism profession, to work in a hospital situated while learning the medical profession, to work as a surveyed work on becoming to be a skilled engineer, and to work in the logging camp while studying forestry as a future livelihood. This knowledge that can be drawn out when we have been graduated from the halls of institutional learning.

The day is coming when it is going to be a great deal less time than you have as chairman, the student manager of the college organizations. The expression that can be the Director of the conservatory of music expects to obtain training in music, and simultaneous study of the other arts and sciences.

In this way a large number of students will shape themselves of this sort of study, an opportunity of obtaining training in music, and simultaneous study of the other arts and sciences. The situation is a little brighter today. A few English or Russian and some French and German, will be the Director of the conservatory of music. Music.

"A well-rounded education should include the names of the bones of the body as well as knowing the parts."

"Another opinion is that the knowledge acquired in the first year should be a foundation for the second, and that the second should be a foundation for the third."

The expression that can be the Director of the conservatory of music expects to obtain training in music, and simultaneous study of the other arts and sciences.

If you need a brief case or a loaf of bread book a book."
