BARNYARD GOLF FAD STRIKES CAMPUS

A craze is sweeping C. P. R. this year that is certain to reap a flood of applause from the fans of the game.

In the new home of the club, there is now a golf course with nine holes. The club is open to all members of the faculty, and the game is played every Saturday afternoon.

The golf course is located at the edge of the campus, and is surrounded by picturesque views of the surrounding countryside.

The game was introduced by Professor Brown, who is a keen golfer himself, and who has been working on the project for several months.

The golf course is open to all members of the faculty, and is run under the supervision of the course manager, who is a professional golfer.

The game is extremely popular, and is attracting a large following every Saturday afternoon.

The club is planning to expand the course and add additional facilities in the near future.

This is the first time that golf has been introduced on the campus, and it is expected to be a great success.
