Heavy Sport Program Lined Up for Loggers Next Year

Post-Season Game With California School New Being Sought in Addition to Eight Other Scheduled Contests

When the football team leaves the College of Puget Sound to represent the Northwest Conference to play the University of Washington next fall, the former president of intercollegiate football in the Northwest Conference, which will probably be held in Portland, Oregon.

The basketball schedule has not yet been arranged, but it is now certain that the Mountaineers and Whitman will meet again at the Northwest Conference tournament, and a number of strong non-conference opponents, including a number of post-season games with some California school, are now being made for the athletic department. The same schools will be used in basketball, and a large number of independent teams of this position. The basketball practices are still going on for the members of the squad.

SUCH BEAUTIFUL AT SCHOOL

SPORTS EDITOR

The College of Puget Sound ended its athletic season last Friday and Saturday with their conference meet at Walla Walla. Throughout the year, the duties of the teams of the Loggers have been shared by the competitive conference schools.

For Coach C. W. "Cap" Hubbard, we have only praise and appreciation to offer. He has had no backs when his days have not been marred by his ability, but his knowledge of all sports has been given freely to the members of the team he has coached. For this, the members are thankful, for many of not will use what they have received when the season is over.

In football, Coach Hubbard had as assistants, Assistant Raymond, Madson, Wright and Edward Seaward. These men gave time from their work that the Loggers might have a better team. Post, Seward and Coach Hubbard, jointly guided the track squad, and for the showing of the team they deserve credit.

Mrs. Wainwright in charge of women's sports has done a masterful job for an extensive program that women's athletics is a higher level than ever before. Intercollegiate competition was begun with a bonus trip into Oregon, and plans were made for an interest in athletics has been aroused by these events. The umpires have been larger than ever before, and teams have been on their best behavior.

For all you people who read the College of Puget Sound Coach Hubbard, Seward, Wright, Schwartz and Warm, we thank you.

More Women Participate in Intramurals

In 1927-28, women's athletics of the College were expanded and improved. Women have always been accepted in past years in limited numbers and have been engaged in extramural sports. Now they are an integral part of our sports program. The Intercollegiate Women's Physical Education Department has been organized and is headed by Miss M. E. Landis, associated professor of physical education. Women have participated, and a women's intramural program has been announced by the student athletic council.
