NEW REQUIREMENT RAISES STANDARD OF SCHOLARSHIP

Higher Grades Will Be Necessarily Maintained by Undergraduate Students

Important changes in rules regarding academic performance were made at the meeting January 9th, on the recommendation of the Scholarship Committee. Probably the change of most significance is the rule that a student's average must be 75 in the entire academic year in order to remain in college. College of Puget Sound requires that his average be a "C" average, for graduation. This marks a further step toward making a student's attendance and self-motivation an essential part of his education. A student who will be allowed to continue to the 7th year of college must be authorized in his first year if he cannot approach the 75 average the college requires for graduation.

Such a higher standard than that which prevails in their registered books for college is an evidential of the administration's desire that the college's average be a "C" average. Grade will be not be re-graded. Because of the high standard for graduation the college will not be dragged at the end of the term to make 'C' marks. Under this new rule, each student who has been found to be satisfactory in the first year must be authorized to continue to the 7th year of college. If he is not found satisfactory in his first year, he will be dropped from the college's rolls.
