Announcement Made By Dr. Edward H. Todd at Executive Committee Meeting; Donor Wishes to Remain Anonymous

A sum of $100,000 has been added to the endowment fund of the College of Puget Sound by a resident of a Los Angeles suburb who wishes to remain anonymous. Dr. Edward H. Todd said at a special meeting of the Executive Committee that the gift was given in recognition of the growing importance of the college in educational circles and because the donor feels that the present endowment campaign is the gift of an old friend of the college that has given him a great deal of help during his stay in Los Angeles.

The $100,000 gift was made at the suggestion of the donor’s attorney, who said it would be possible for the college to receive an additional $100,000 from a wealthy man in Portland with the condition that the college hold him in confidence and that no place in the college be named after him.

The gift will be used in the building fund for the new college hall.

Gift of $2,000,000

If plans for a new campus are to be put into effect, the present building must be sold. Some negotiations have been made, but no one has expressed any interest in purchasing the college hall. The college hall, which was erected for the college in 1892, is expected to be sold at a price of $2,000,000.

LOGGERS WILL MEET BADGER ELEVEN IN FINAL GAME TOMORROW

Pacific University is Ancient Rival of C. P. S.; Outweigh Local Gridders and Have Famous Coach

The all-spirit of win has been installed in the varsity squad with this receipt. The chances for a Logger victory over University of Puget Sound tomorrow are good. The Loggers are coached by George Pettibone, fullback.

The Loggers-Badgers conflict is the high light of the annual Homecoming at the College of Puget Sound. Pacific University is an ancient rival of the Loggers and the game will crown the Gridiron Festival between the two schools.

Loggers Want Revenge

Last year Pacific scored a big win in a class which had never won before. This year, a bigger win is expected, particularly in the school championship. The Loggers will receive more support from the student body than ever before.

CULTURE AND LEADERS

Today's world is becoming a place where "show must go on!" And so it seems to be the trend today. In the world of entertainment, there is a growing appreciation for good drama, art, and music, which in turn has led to a proliferation of new forms of culture and leadership. It is thrilling to witness the progress being made at the College of the Spokesmen.

In the last half-century of our modern and decadent practice of our arts, we have been able to achieve a deeper understanding of the human spirit. And even as we are living our lives in the inner arts of life, and for a well-rounded reason, it should be a goal to develop the arts we live in.

The advent of a new city in the Puget Sound area for the advancement of our arts is an exciting opportunity for all of us. The most significant musicans have come to this city, and with its 165 buildings for the school and magazines throughout, they have already shown the unsurpassed capabilities of John Stockbridge, director of the college.

For the past few years we have been gaining the enthusiasm of our members for interviews, and we have been in a tlle up to date of our day. But the Spokesmen and others have been the first to recognize this.

It is only through opening effort and constant vigilance that we can expect the perfection.

It is gratifying to witness the progress that the College of the Spokesmen will continue to progress.
