Kappa Sigma Theta society held its annual spring picnic on Saturday evening, April 15. The evening started with a beautifully arranged spread of food and drinks, followed by a delightful performance by the campus drum and trumpet ensemble. Mrs. William L. Egleston, national president of the Kappa Sigma Theta sorority, was the guest speaker for the evening. She shared her experiences and insights on the importance of community service and leadership. The event was well-attended, with many new members expressing their interest in joining the sorority.

AND WE WILL CELEBRATE!

The publication of this week’s paper carries a three-fold purpose. Its primary reason is to participate in the celebration of the forty-fifth anniversary of the college. The administration is particularly anxious that every alum be notified in advance so far in advance so that he may become “Conscientious Concerned” and year to year during the week of festivities.

Elaborate plans for the entertaining of visitors have been formulated and the college means to make this commencement celebration of the forty-fifth anniversary of the college. The administration is particularly anxious that every alumnus be notified from a small book bound in soft leather. It came under the head of Taniana, the name of many dialects and was ber of years and is now field secretary of the Washington Education Association in educational circles in the State of Washington. Being secretary of the Washington Education Association he is looked upon as the many distinctions he possesses. Mr. Marsh is editor of the Washington Education Journal, which is considered one of the best journals of its kind in the entire country. Marsh was formerly the Dean of Men at the College of Puget Sound.

TAMANAWAS—INDIAN WORD SIGNIFYING GUARDIAN SPIRIT

Tamanawas—what is its origin? Thirteen years have passed since the name “Tamanawas” was first adopted as the title of the CPS year book but how many students during this time know the true significance of the word? Tamanawas, for which there are many spellings, was a universal word among the Indians of the Puget Sound and Columbia river tribes. It is supposedly taken originally from the Chinook dialect and incorporated into the Chinook jargon a “trade language” established by traders of the Hudson Bay Company. The jargon was a combination of many dialects and used by 50 tribes in trading posts throughout Oregon, Washington, British Columbia and Alaska.

To the Indian, Tamanawas signified a sort of guardian or familiar spirit. Anything supernatural, the spirits, ghosts, goblins, fortune—all came under head of Taniana. Among the Stomeshom Indian the word was used to signify the Great Spirit. In selecting the word as the title of the year book, which was first published in 1918 by the junior class, the staff said of it, “We were trying to imbibe into this ‘Tamana- wa’ something of the good spirit of the old tribes, passing the news page when I thought of any directions which they have given during the year.”

The first volume contained an explanation of the meaning of “Tama- nanawas” as given by Mr. Henry Morgan, an Indian resident of Tacoma. The Tamanawas has grown in 13 years from a small book bound in soft leather to a volume almost twice the size of the original.
CPS Association
Aids Graduates

Organization of Alumni Group Is Strengthened

Organization of the College of Puget Sound Alumni Association to a point where it provides material assistance to the college and its graduates has been attained.

During this year—more than in any other, perhaps—the alumni association has been brought before the mutual benefit of the college and its members. A drive has been undertaken to collect data even better organization of the graduates.

Regular meetings have been held for new developments of which the alumni association shall function as an auxiliary agent of the school. The fact that attendance this year at the annual alumni homecoming banquet was the largest in CPS history is significant of the alumni organization which are being carried out.

Officers of the 1932 CPS alumni association are: Arvon Beautt, president; Everett Wadeith, vice-president; Marilyn Ann Wilson, secretary, and John Trotter, treasurer. These officials compose the board of directors together with Richard Wason, Dean Lyle Prud Druilak, Franklin Johnson, Alice Berry, Ted Bankshaw, and John Helmer. These men, as secretary of the college, who assist with alumni enrollment, is the Rev. John Bell.

While the college possesses an interest list of approximately 4,000 graduates, the alumni association's mailing list totals some 900 names. The mailing list is being supplemented whenever additional graduates are located and their addresses secured for reference.

An annual appeal has been voiced by officers of the association, however, the list will not be receiving alumni association correspondence in write to the college in order that names and addresses may be added to the mailing list. Alumni association headquarters are in the field office.

MEDICAL ALUMNI

Among the outstanding students of the University of Oregon Medical School at Portland is the Alumni of the College of Puget Sound. They are Thomas Dodson, Hope Austin, Jack Deal, John Gardiner, Ralph Brown, Elton Chinnor, Don Dearing, Pay Nace, and Glen Holmari.

Mr. Gardiner was prominent in sports activities while attending the college, and Mr. Chinnor was student body president.

AMOS BOOTH DELIVERS MESSAGE ON OUTLINES ALUMNI ORGANIZATION

"At the commencement exercises which will be held the latter part of next month, we will celebrate the 15th anniversary of the founding of an institution which has become a very potent factor in the educational life of this great Northwest. The College of Puget Sound, of which I speak, is destined to continue to greater heights, if not to assume the role of the greatest institution in this kind of work in this country."

President Administration

The result of the endeavors of the administration has been and is an Alma Mater of which we can justly be proud. We can look forward with confidence that we have at some time in the past attended this particular high institution of learning. The institution, or any college, directed by the college has always and undeniably will continue to do their job well, but I am afraid we who are classed as alumni or the products of the institution have fail as it were, in our obligation. No machine, organization or institution can or will be any stronger than its integral parts and unless we, as graduates, get behind the program of the administration and contribute our efforts there will always be a necessary omission which the machine cannot operate smoothly.

Criticism Retards Progress

"The one way to instill the essential confidence and faith in our college is to fall in line and help every project as it comes along. It is granted that mistakes have been made and undoubtedly will continue to so a certain degree, and in spite of the fact that the effects have been most serious,critics have taken place, which retards progress, rather than helps. En- deavored as we are by nature, we do not as readily criticize our own work, rather, we begin to look around for a better solution if a mistake has been made, which is as it should be.

ALUMNI IS EVERETT SUPERINTENDENT

Raymond E. Cook, Class of 1927, is the Superintendent of Schools in Everett. He went to Everett in 1932 from Lincoln High School in Tacoma, where he served as principal for several years.

Mr. Cook has served as an alumnus representative on the Board of Trustees for 16 years. Mrs. Cook is the former Lulu Barrett from the Class of 1906.

AMOS BOOTH DELIVERS MESSAGE ON OUTLINES ALUMNI ORGANIZATION

List 5000 Alumni

"Most people are greatly surprised to know that we have approximately five thousand names on file in the alumni office of people who have completed work along some line at the College of Puget Sound. It is hardly possible to conceive of the good which such a group of college-trained men and women could do if they were organized to the extent their efforts could be focused at any one point. Therein lies our weakness, lack the necessary unity which could be effected if each of us individually would co-operate and when the thing has gotten underway, as it is not a short time that we have in mind."

Boards Represents Alumni

"We elect a board of ten members who in turn elect the executive officers, and this body is responsible for the administration of the alumni affairs. Their work evolves back to a process of combining the individual efforts and without the aid of any of them we could not do as much. At the present we have about eight or nine hundred of the five thousand names catalogued quite accurately, this about one fourth as many as we should have."

When you get this or any other bulletin of the college or alumni association send in a word of appreciation with any suggestions you have to make, or the names of prospective students, also of vacancies which you may know about regardless of the line of work it is. I assure you that all such contacts will be recognized and appreciated. Send them to the secretary's office at the college.

ALUMNI ENJOY SUCCESS IN SPORTS FIELD

Knowledge Gained at C P S Proves Invaluable

Into the realm of sports have gone numerous College of Puget Sound graduates in recent years.

Without exception, they have established creditable and enviable records as college and high school coaches. The knowledge of athletics they have gained in CPS proves invaluable in the use of ability to organize and instruct young athletes.

Eimer Anderson, one of the better known coaches, is in charge of base- ball and football at the University of Washington, Port Townsend, taking over one of the most-sought-after coaching positions in the Northwest.

Charlie Leppehnau, who attended CPS for two years, is now head basketball coach at the College of Puget Sound, one of the members of the Pacific Northwest conference.

Robert LePenske has gained a very high reputation for his athletic work at the University of Washington, chief among his teams was a basketball quartet which scored big this season in its debut.

Claire Guest is now coaching at the University of Washington, having only recently left her position in Stevens Point, Wisconsin.

Aaron Van DerKirk from Kirkland, Washington, is the head football coach, and Bruce (Bose) Birnie, now at Port Townsend, has shown creditable teams. Birnie also gained considerable notoriety in recent years for his work at Mountlake, Washington. A try-out for the University of Washington, charge of athletics at Fiji High school, Chester Rhodes for two years has been in charge of sports at Seattle High.

Away back in 1909 and 1904, when a certain CPS football team won numerous games, the names of two of the players were Dr. George A. Moore and Reed Dakter, both of whom, too, are still active in athletics.
CAGERS ENJOY FAIR SEASON

Play From Japan in Feature Tilt

Loger cagers enjoyed a fairly successful trip and night out of 17 intercollegiate contests and all except two were won by the crew of the independent teams of the state.

After winning a series of preliminary games, the Marcon cagers dropped off during Christmas vacation and upon returning journeyed to Seattle to meet the University of Washington Huskies. Playing on a strange floor and with no conditioning in the previous week, the Loggers went down in defeat by a large score.

Defeat Japanese Team

The game was with Mt. University from Japan and the invaders were unable to give a fighting Japanese team much competition, losing 62 to 34.

In the highlight of the season the Marcon and White cagers met the Washington Huskies in a return game in the gym and after a fast and exciting game, in which the purple and gold players held to check in the final minutes, the visitors managed to garner win from the Loggers.

Divide Pacific

In the conference the CPS quintet disputed a strong and fighting team from Pacific University in two matches. Next the Loggers journeyed to Whitman and there outscored the Ephesians, the first by only a few points while in the second the Blue and Maize put on a strong showing and the second half to win from Pacific. Without question it may be stated that the next week end and managed to gather two close wins within its clutches. On the opening day of play the Loggers defended Alliance twice and Columbia. Games were also won from Pacific Lutheran college while St. Martins and Columbia University scored the Loggers.

"Come and help us make it the grandest commencement ever witnessed by the student. As president of the college, I invite you, most heartily to come. We want you to come. The students may feel the warmth of your spirit and know that they are related to men and women who are worthy of your help and prayers with a real asset to their college."

On looking about Mr. Bender's Ap- parel Shoppe, we found some very clever arrangements in dresses, suits, and shoes, and interesting style that he wishes to cater to the college cagers.

ART DEPARTMENT AQUITS PRINTS OF FAMOUS WORKS
Prints of famous paintings by noted artists have been purchased by the Art Department of the college. The new prints are by Rembrandt and Vermeer of the Dutch school; Velasquez of the Spanish and Holbein of the German. Rembrandt's second wife is the subject matter of one print and is considered to be one of the finest works produced by the famous Dutch painter. Vermeer is spoken of as a gentle painter or the use of homey and everyday scenes. The artistry of Vermeer has elevated commonplace things to a high plane. Mrs. Ida Cochran considers the prints the best available and ranks them very favorably with the originals. The pictures were purchased with the scholarship money received by Mrs. Cochran from the Carnegie Foundation. The new prints are being hung in the art room and Mrs. Cochran urges students and faculty members to see the new pictures.

ENGLISH TEST EXAMINATED
To explain the motive of the comprehensive English examination, Professor Julius P. Jaeger spoke of the senior majors in that department last Wednesday afternoon. The examination is to be given May 16 and graduation before graduation of English majors. "I will be glad to see any personally who were unable to attend the meeting," says Mr. Jaeger.
