I don’t mind,” said the professor, “if I see a student sitting in the second row of the hall. I just can’t read his book out and look at it, and then when I ask him a question, say to me: ‘You see, Mr. Sutherland, I’m only one of two or three.’”

Loggers Meet Missionaries Tomorrow at Walla Walla

Coach Joey Mack Slates Tilts With Oregon Universities

Maroon and White Loggers to Turn Out Afternoon for Big Game This Year

If Coach Joey Mack can secure game program guarantees a full-storming trip will begin approximately December 15. In eight days the CPS Loggers expect to meet Columbia State of Oregon, Oregon Normal, and University of Portland.

Loggers hopsters are rapidly whipping into shape with the full-dress outfit to be used Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. Although next week they fall back to a nine-day schedule it will be only a short time before they work full time again according to Joey Mack, hoop coach.

For freshmen have turned out as yet but more are expected soon. Corporals, assigned all the way from Klamath, is a hearty rush toward a full F-formation.

Although tough conference contests remain on the Willamette schedule, the Maroon and White Loggers are generally conceded a clear path to the title. Only one team, Whitman, can upset the Bearcats. To do this, the Missionaries must take both the Willamette games and the Loggers. If "Joe" Kenne's team out the last Pacific eleven Nov. 28, it will be in position for a battle with the Bearcats, to win the championship even if they do lose to Whitman.

Pacifc Sound plays its last conference contest Sunday against the Bearcats at the end of the season for Coach Kenne's eleven. A victory or a draw will make the Loggers' title uncontested.

Carpenter, according to Joey Mack, will be the only team they will have a chance to defeat.

The Bearcats will be a paper team in the truest sense of the word. "Bear" Kenne's eleven, in their two remaining games, can put themselves in a place from first to fourth in the standings. If the Loggers win they will have no serious rivals for the conference title. The Loggers and a band of CPS will also put them in the runner-up spot, but two losses will mean all. With the Lumberjacks, in the four remaining contests, the Loggers are the only ones in the standings that the Maroon and White Loggers will take before the Pacific offense Nov. 28. In that event the Loggers would replace the Lumberjacks in eleventh position.

CPS Plays Last Conference Tilt Armistice Day

Loggers Will Attempt to Check Pacific Winning Streak at Walla Walla

On the Pacific road magazine to the WSCM unemployment, and if the Loggers hope to get back a chance at the conference pennant, are Whitman corrections in the parameter. With or without official or with the CPS pasting attack figured to take hold in the Pacific and suspense the Missionaries with fortune, or with luck and with fresh legs from every angle? Those questions will be uppermost in the minds of conference fans this week, when the Loggers take on the Missionaries without Ace Northrop.

The game will have the third place conference contest and the Maroon and White Loggers are expected to give competition after the regular season.

Going into the final week of the intramural indoor softball play, the Sigma Mu Chi and Sigma Delta Epsilon outfits match each with one more contest on its schedule, this weekend. This weekend is expected to be the peak with hospitals and rates of new wins and losses.

The defending champs drop up with the 10th. Mu Chi with a walk-out victory over the Peterset, 15 to 4, lost Tuesday. Both the teams will wind up their schedule this week, the Mu Chi boys having defeated the Peterset in the first game and the Zoes exploiting a battle from the rejuvenated Chi Nu in the second set.

After losing their first two contests in the current series the Chi Nu ended with a pair of wins and jumped out of third place in the standings. A nip and tuck affair with the Omnibeans on Monday concluded with the Chi Nu on the long end of a 15 to 16 count, and then repeated with an easy victory over the Terrable Squad, Thursday to 13 to 10.

In Thursday's other encounter, the Omnibeans participated in another draw one, this time raising the honors to 14 to 16 decision over the all-defeated Delta team.
