In the spring of 1944, during daylight节能, the campus student government was in the process of planning the annual spring ball. The theme for this particular ball was “The Night before Christmas.” The event was scheduled to take place on Friday, January 12, and was expected to be one of the most ambitious and well-attended events of the year.

Dean of Men, Robert B. Williams, announced that the student council had made arrangements for the ball. The theme was inspired by the poetry of Clement C. Moore, who wrote the famous poem “The Night before Christmas” in 1823. The ball was to be held in the student center, and the decorations were to be in the style of a Victorian Christmas.

As part of the preparations for the ball, the Student Council had arranged for the musicians to perform during the event. The band was scheduled to play traditional Christmas carols, and there would be a special performance by the college’s choral group. The night would also feature a dance school, where students could learn to dance the waltz, the fox trot, and the tango.

In addition to the musical performances, there would be a variety of other activities at the ball. Students could participate in a costume contest, or enjoy the company of friends in the student center’s coffeeshop. The ball was open to all students, and tickets could be purchased at the student center or through the college’s office of student affairs.

The event was expected to be a huge success, and the Student Council was looking forward to seeing everyone there to enjoy the festive atmosphere and the excellent entertainment.

Communi ties

As the day of the ball approached, the excitement in the student body was palpable. The Student Council had worked hard to make sure that everything was in place for a memorable evening. The Student Council was determined to make this year’s spring ball the best one yet, and they were counting on everyone to come out and show their support.

The Student Council was also making plans for the upcoming semester. They were looking forward to a year of new opportunities and challenges, and they were eager to work with their peers to make sure that the college continued to be a place where students could learn and grow.

The Student Council was committed to creating a welcoming and inclusive community for all students. They were always looking for ways to improve the student experience, and they were ready to take on any challenge that came their way.

In the end, the spring ball was a huge success. The Student Council was proud of the hard work and dedication that had gone into making it a memorable event, and they were excited to see what the upcoming semester would bring.

The Student Council was looking forward to a new year of opportunities and challenges, and they were committed to working with their peers to make sure that the college continued to be a place where students could learn and grow. They were eager to see what the future held, and they were ready to take on any challenge that came their way.

Andersen Hall Girls Hold Dinner Dance Dec. 13

Andersen hall held its annual dinner-dance Saturday, capped off a Christmas theme that is through the mazes of Andersen's table set in a festive holiday motif, with place cards and dance programs fashioned in the shape of blue angels, completing the silver and blue color scheme.

Following dinner, couples danced to colored holiday lights and gown. Chairs of blue and white boughs hung from the ceiling, and a clever silhouette of blue and silver calligraphy of a boy and girl dancing before the fireplace further carried out the theme. Two Christmas trees, one with red lights at the entrance of the hall and another with white, complete the elaborated decorations plan.

Those helping were Mary Corn Hall, and Gilbert Carlson, costume; dance arrangements, Vivene Janssen; decorations, Peggy Simpson and Peggy Steele. Little decorations committee, Mary Fran Jensen; dance, Lynne Tregonning, Miss Dedra and Miss silvocell of a boy dance program fashioned in the shape of stars made of decoration plans. A nother white tree with blue lights completed the elaborate cis. Johnson and Virginia Judd, guest 1.

The Incomplete list of Those Invitations,

Those Invitations, and Mrs. Drummond, and silver cellulose of a boy dance program fashioned in the shape of stars made of decoration plans. Another white tree with blue lights completed the elaborate cis.

Kappa Phi Girls Meet Great Members

Last evening by a sorority group new members of Kappa Phi girls were welcomed into the group. Officers of the tradition of service was Anita Miller, president, of the organization.

Following the initiation evidence, a Christmas party was held in the sherry parlor of Mary Beth. The party was held on campus at Gamma's and Lambda Sigma.

Girls who were initiated were Mary Beth, from Silverdale, Virginia, and Patricia Carlson, AlphaTheta, from Collinson, Jocelyn, from Sitka, and Diane Millison, Delta Phi, from Sitka. The party was held in Gamma's and Lambda Sigma.

Innovation Shows Christmas

The Home Economics department fully entered into the Christmas theme as can be seen in the lovely wreaths in the decor, the lovely table display and the unique tone upon the staff of the department.

A tablecloth of blue and white flowers, a white wreath on the table.

STAFF ENSEMBLE RECORDS ITS WORK

The CPS staffing ensemble, directed by Keith Baker, had an interesting rehearsal Monday, December 6, when they made recordings for the benefit show of the show. The group, assisted by Miss Browne and for recording purposes, made several recordings which were played back for the benefit show. These recordings were not expected to be included in the show, but are expected to be included in the show.

BooT oorooke TAKES BAIL

Because of the internal situation that has developed in the school, a bond was purchased to permit the students to attend the spring meet. The bond is a sort of a tax, and will be collected from the boys who have received exemptions from the classes. It will be used for the purchase of the bond, and will be turned over to the boys who will have a chance to attend the spring meet.

BooT oorooke MOVING BRINGS NEW ITEMS

Big things will happen during Christmas vacation and one of them will be the moving of the bookstore from its present location to the new building. The store is to be completed in the near future, and will be large enough to accommodate the students. The store will be well-stocked with the necessary materials for the students' needs.
