C. Board Approves Changes

Central Board this week approved two major changes in the CPSB pop organization.

Chuck Oakley and Bruce Anderson will assist Bob Hager, CPSB's regional roll chairman. They will sit in for Yell Queen Cynthia Harris, who dropped out of school because of illness in her family, and Harry Lewis, who has gone to California to work.

The proposed amendments to the CPSB organization reads:

This change in the board and amendment to the CPSB constitution were approved by Central Board on Wednesday, subject to an emergency meeting approval, the by the faculty and student body.

The changes are expected to alter the foreign language requirements for many students. There will be a reorganization of the faculty into a new departmental organization.

Dr. Powell, Button At Guidance Meet

Two CPSP people, Dr. Powell and Button, will attend the Annual Conference of the Northwest College Activities and Student Associations.

The conference will be held in the Multnomah Hotel, Portland, Oregon, on Feb. 19-23.

The main theme of the conference is "Personal Work: Time to Take Stock."

Principles speakers for the affair are R. G. Williamson, Dean of Students, University of Minnesota; and Robert H. Braxton, Dean of Students, University of Chicago.

This would put the president on the Central Board along with the Executive Officers, the Dean of Faculty, and the Dean of Men.

Adult Education

New Courses Opened

Adult education, a phase of the College of Puget Sound educational program, has been opened for the spring quarter, according to Dr. Wilmer Tommy Williams, Dean of Faculty.

A number of classes will start Monday, with others being added as the public expresses an interest in them. Inquiries about classes will be handled by Dr. Wilmer T. Williams, who will be put in charge of the program.

A comprehension of the adult education program has been possible because of the flood of requests for classes. CPSB at the way's end. Classes that first unit of work to serve the department," said Dean Towner.

"But we've worked out the mechanisms of handling the large enrollment in our sixty-year history, enlarged our faculty and requested that you get ahead with evening classes." As outlined by the Dean, courses were to be opened in English, history, mathematics, music, psychology, and religion, in addition to physical education, business administration and recreational crafts.

Tentative plans call for courses in international leadership, marketing, and retailing. Literature and fine arts courses will be added to the offerings for spring quarters.

Most of the classes will be one night a week, one to two hours in length. They will run from eight to sixteen weeks, and will include credit and non-credit courses.

Of the courses to be taught are five new contemporary history, a Men's locker room for 200 students, and 200 students, taught by Dr. Wilmer Tommy Williams.

Clinical Psychologist Ann McCoy, of the Western State Hospital, is scheduled to be the speaker at the Alphi Psi Chi meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m. A standard graduate she will speak on "The Work of a Psychologist in State Mental Institutions."

At an election last week the club's officers for the spring term were named, President and Treasurer was returned to office, Victor Zimmerman, was elected vice-president, John Gideon was chosen, and Ken Adkins was appointed public relations chairman.

Jean Gudmundson Wins Honors
In Chinook's Ski Queen Contest

By CHRISS NICHOLAS

Hey guys, grab that grub and truck down to the Chinook's "Winter Carnival" dance. You say that isn't enough? Tell you what you're going to want to be in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, and Montana to see a beautiful queen there by name of Jean Gudmundson, and not one, two, but five hard-assed announcers.

You say that isn't enough? Well, there are two to be in your clan and his groovy Bob bommers. You say that isn't enough? What do you say if you're a diehard announcer? You better be on your game because comments will be on hand to satisfy the thirsty one.

Ok, so you want to know who the hell these boys are? Here they are: Rae Jeanne Neeley, Lesa Lohman, Dorothy Schweinert, Debrae Brown, and Janet Wilson.

But that isn't all the Chinooks are offering.

Why not plan to be on hand to watch the Chinook Ski team in their four hours of star gazing and easy listening.

So, you say that isn't enough. For a mere buck fifty you get all this, and with that certain dreamboat in your arms, a little bit of volume.

The affair is strictly informel, so if you want his arms to come your way. (That is, unless you're employed by the Chinook staff)

The doors of the Fellowship Hall will swing open at nine o'clock to the thrill of the music and the Chinook Ski team will keep them swinging for three hours of star gazing and easy listening.

Oh, so you want to know who the hell these boys are? Here they are: Sue Jeanne Neeley, Lesa Lohman, Dorothy Schweinert, Debrae Brown, and Janet Wilson.

Orphanage Drive Lags

At the end of last semester students signed pledges saying how much they would be willing to give for the support of the orphanage. When this semester began, the Knights set up a desk in Jones Hall, where students could redeem their pledges. A drive is being planned to redeem as many pledges as possible. To date, $330.65 has been collected in redeemed pledges and donations. Of this amount, $150 has been sent in CARE packages to the orphanage.

There still remains $291.25 in unredeemed pledges to be redeemed. The Knights will set up their desk again for two days at the beginning of March. Students who still have pledges to redeem can do so then. If any pledges remain after this, personal contacts will be made.

Students and faculty contributed $900 worth of CARE packages to the orphanage last year. Three shipments of 25 CARE packages were sent in February, March, and April of last year. The final shipment of 24 packages was held until this fall because food is more plentiful in summer.

The Knights plan an orphanage drive for the next two months and are taken into neighboring homes. They return in the winter when food is not as available at the various homes.

Recruit Youths - Need

Du Bois Secours is located in Paris. It supports 35 boys, ages 4 to 14. They are children of parents who have either been killed or are unable to care for them. This building that houses the orphanage was built 60 years ago, and needs extensive repair. Now it has not been made in the last 20 years because all the fees are used for the daily necessities of the children.

At the time the college adopted the orphanage, the boys slept in a large dormitory, a room with a twenty-foot ceiling. Each of the beds had a mattress, one sheet, and a blanket. These conditions were the standard of average living necessities as we know them. The room was not heated. According to Stephen Peider, the director of the orphanage, they have been having a basie cold epidemic.

Classroom Care

The classroom where the boys study is bare except for long benches and tables. There is the usual story of a shortage of textbooks and student supplies. Since the Boys School has very little recreation equipment, they spend most of the day in study.

Bill Armstrong visited the orphanage when he was studying in Paris. He brought back several pictures of Du Bois Secours. "This is the shortest orphanage in which the orphanage must operate," he said.

"But that is the world we work in. We hear every day of the needs of other peoples of the world. But this is the one way we have of aiding one small group in a very small way.

A majority of the students agreed to back the drive. Perhaps this is because they sympathized with these children. We also realize that money doesn’t grow on trees and that we have difficulties of our own. However, if your pledge has not been redeemed, it should be done as soon as possible. The money must be sent in lump sums (not a quarter at a time), through the Board of Trustees. Here it is in its own letter, and the students are asked to give for the support of the orphanage.

Loech Wins Top Spot In Debates

Speaking on the subject “What Should We Do About Communists and Commies?” George Loech took first place and 24 students from 10 different colleges in a contest held Monday and Tuesday in the Union.

Two other CSPS students, Bill Allen and Ken Campbell, placed high. Allen held the fourth spot, while Campbell came in eighth.

The orators spoke before 40 different audiences, some of which were made up of as many as 400 people. The audiences acted as the judges in each case. This is a unique form of extramural usual form of judging debates.

The method of selecting the winner has yet to be worked out.

Concert

By BOB PETERSON

Critics’ Opinions Vary

Opinions varied concerning the concert given by the CPS Tacoma Symphony on Sunday. A general opinion was that considering it was an orchestra of professional and non-professional musicians, the concert was acceptable.

Raymond Vought’s conducting is not practically up to par, yet another section of the orchestra gives him an opportunity. He seems intent upon producing interpretations and effects within the limits of the orchestra.

President John O’Connor, with a trumpet tone that is rarely attained, managed to give the standard, “Great Mormon.” The presentation was a compliment to the direction of Mr. Vought.

Another concert of interest to music lovers is to be given Sunday by Miss Eleanor Bass, CPS Student 4 Choir in Jones Hall. Miss Hill, an aspiring music teacher, is its conductor.

Dr. A. W. Martin

Dr. A. W. Martin, president of smithsonian, died Tuesday night, Feb. 3, at his home.

He was in his 60s. Funeral services were conducted this week.

On Campus Day is 1949 students who were diligent at cleaning the grounds were surprised to see a sign dressed in a Chinese ritual costume helping the campus.

Upon closer examination it was found that the small man in the oriental garments was Dr. Martin. He spent 20 years as a missionary in China before coming to CSPS.

The Campus Day incident was typical of Dr. Martin. He continues to interpret not managed to avoid being considered a campus character. In no group other than students where this is the case.

Dr. R. Franklin Thompson said of him.

"With the brains of Dr. Martin, the college has lost a great intellect, a loyal friend, and a powerful Christian influence."

In addition to this he said that through the years Dr. Martin kept on his part of the new volleyball player on the team.

Dr. Martin was born in Muskogee, Miss. He was educated in the east, and taught 20 years at Eminon College. He spent 20 years as a missionai in Chicago, before he was appointed to his present position by the president of the University.

Saint Sophia's Mosaics

Ancient Art Work Uncovered

Professor Thomas Whittemore, director of Boston's Byzantine Institute, arrived in New York this week, after spending 40 years in the Near East, spent most of his time excavating ancient Byzantine mosaics in Constantinople (now Istanbul), Jerusalem, and Amalfi.

Professor Whittemore believes that many of the ancient mosaics, which are located in churches and other buildings throughout the world, were destroyed during World War II. He also believes that many of the mosaics that have been discovered in recent years were actually created during the Byzantine era.

Sanctioned by Turks

The mosaics were discovered in the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, which is located in Istanbul.

Spring Course Has 2079 Students; Increase of 120
Registration totals have reached an unassumed high. Approximately 7070 students have registered, as compared to last fall's total of 1999.
"We expected a drop of from 100 to 500 students," said Registrar Richard D. Smith.
The figures include 95 extension students, 99 members of freshman classes, and 62 weaving students.
Extension courses are being offered at Ft. Lauderdale, Olympia, and Central School. They include audio-visual education and business law.
The lecture system initiated last month, a majority of the students had chosen schedules arranged two weeks ago. Stetson continued to register during the past week.

gals Battle Guys In Snow Frolic
The age-old controversy as to whether the brother was the mightiest one in a Sunny day of snowballs and telling bodies. Saturday, January 31.
The girls were against their traditional status of inferiority by staging a commando raid on the boys' dormitory early Saturday morning. The boys retaliated by taking a hostage. The hostage was released later in the afternoon, but the fighting spirit of the girls had been aroused and a lone imperiled fellow trying to make his way from the SUB to Todd Hall fell under the weight of their attack.
Battered and bruised, he made his way back to Todd Hall to call for help. A crowd of women was called and the following events ensued in the Anderson Hall girls:
"Greetings to all of Anderson Hall from the Knights of Todd Hall. This is a official challenge from the office of President Tuttle for all women to meet us on the battlefield of 4:30 p.m. to establish men and forget the supremacy of the Mighty Knights in Stetson and in the Little Ladies in Blue Jean.

The noon rose and sun the soon the men all lit up by the color moonshine. Textbooks and handkerchief were forgotten as the battle raged for two hours. Weary and wet, both sides finally retreated to nurse their bruises and dry their clothes.

The next morning the women were greeted by this taunting poem which they posted in Todd Hall and the SUB.

"To the Knights in Ready Armor from the Ladies of the Wet Blue Jean.

Defeat is hard to face we know that we have become a prisoner. We won the battle of the snow To us respect is due Our camp mates do deserve On your most recent loss So don't forget, we won, you know That was the first step back. Of course the boys refused to admit defeat, but it was rumored by the survivors that there were some extracurricular expects for a girls wrestling team.

Our favorite name for an organization is "Students Who Are Interested in History." Alas, he was not successful in raising funds for the University.

Miles Putnam, late of CPS, has composed one of the shortest terms of duty a young student has ever taken.
The composer in residence for CPS will give a series of eight lectures, during the course. Students who want to receive one-half hour seminar credit, the lectures are being offered to out-of-town students for $5 for the full course and $1.00 for the individual lectures. The time table to the lectures have not been determined.

Fincham Is Captain

"He's tall, he's lanky, he's smooth, he's handsome—he's married." Specifically, he is none other than Bob Fincham, probably one of the most talked of men in local and conference basketball.

As far as his war experiences are concerned, he participated in the invasion of Okinawa and was wounded in that battle. After recovering, he was sent more to the front where he was hit in the leg by shell fragments.

This ended his army career but it did not hamper his ability on the basketball court. Fincham is captain of the Pacific Northwest Conference with 22 points, a record that has yet to be equaled.

He was second in individual scoring last year led only by teammate Bob Anglin. Amassing 30 tallies more than Fincham's 270.

His achievements would take the rest of the column to fill, but the best way to realize his basketball prowess is to watch him operate in an actual match.

Known as one of the best team players on the squad, he has to be egged into shooting as much as he does. Not only is he a fine team man, but also a very good family man, as his wife, the former Nancy Winner, will testify.

The proud papa of a future coca cola artist, Bob takes great pleasure in telling his wife how much he enjoys playing college basketball. He rates eating hot dogs, being indoors next to basketball.

"He's a pretty good guy," says school officials. "And a good man is hard to find."

Everyone is bound to agree that whether on the court or in the house Bob Fincham is a good man.

Society Will Show Coward's Film

British-made "Dead of Night," a sumptuously photographed film, was shown last evening at James Hall. It was included of the CPS Film Classics series which will be presented throughout the semester.

"Dead of Night" is one big dream sequence, complicated by dreams, sequences of dreams, sequence of dreams, sequence of dreams, sequence of dreams, sequence of dreams, sequence of dreams, sequence of dreams, sequence of dreams.

Movie for next Thursday will be "Street Encounter," a British film dealing with a brief meeting that affected the life of a woman's life. The film was produced by Noel Coward.

Let The Chinos Fall... By CECIL REIMER, Sports Editor

Look as though the Loggers may step into a new league competition next hoop season. Loggers mentor Heinrick says that, ever since he's been here, he's been trying to get games with nearly all the Coast Conference teams and he's succeeded in setting contests with the University of Washington. Heinrick says that most of the teams didn't want to play us before, of course our inadequate playing facilities, he thinks that the chances for games with WBC, Montana, Montana State, Idaho and possibly some Southern Division clubs are very good. The coach says that this is due to the new field house.

Big Plant

Speaking of big buildings, Eastern Washington has one of the biggest in the Northwest. According to Bobbie Aguallo, the building that houses the Scavenger's athletics and cheerleaders is about a block long. Bob said that the huge structure was purchased as war surplus and used to be an airplane hangar.

Bob says that the building not only houses a big gym with a seating capacity of 2,000, but it also has room for another full sized promenade gym plus a swimming pool.

But that's not all that this huge bank of arched metal contains. Next to the practice gym, all the athletic department offices and classrooms are housed. Next to these is a 225-yard indoor track.

CLASS BASKETBALL CAPTAINS ELECTED

Captains for the interclass basketball teams were selected Monday. They are seniors J. Philip Hanar; treasurer H. Jansing; secretary E. Jansing; correspondent I. Greer; and members F. Beitzel; R. Beitzel; B. Beitzel; N. Beitzel and T. Beitzel.
