Dedication

To the spirit of the school -- to our students, our faculty and executives, our trustees and friends -- to all those who have exemplified and carried on the ideals that make our college worthwhile.
Achievement

This year, marking the forty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the College of Puget Sound has been an unusual one for our school. Through the untiring efforts of our President and his associates the college was recognized by the American Association of Universities. Our football team won the conference championship for the first time in history. The women’s debate team won the Pacific Coast Pi Kappa Delta championship. There was a record enrolment in the fall semester. Progress has been made in every department and in every organization connected with the school. Thus it seemed fitting that the theme of The 1933 Tamanawas be that of achievement and school spirit; and it has been the endeavor of the staff members to present to their fellow students a record of this achievement and to make this edition of the annual outstanding.

Conference Champions

College of Puget Sound, scoring 48 points, won the Northwest conference track and field championship at the meet held at Pacific University May 27. Whitman, defending champion, placed second with 42½ points; Pacific third with 38 points and Willamette fourth with 23 points.

Roy Carlson carried off individual honors with firsts in the javelin and shotput and a third in the discus. He set a net conference mark in the shotput and turned in a nice toss of 180 feet in the javelin. Rex Weick accounted for eight points with a first in the high hurdles and a second in the lows.

Logger athletes set new marks in the pole vault, 880-yard run and mile relay. Mark Whitman went over the 880-yard distance in 2 minutes 2 seconds, while Seversen vaulted 12 feet 1½ inches for a new record. Puget Sound's mile relay time was 3:31.2.

Tennis
Conference Champions

The College of Puget Sound won both the singles and the doubles championships in the Northwest conference tennis tournament, held at Salem, Oregon, May 26-27, defeating Whitman in the finals. Eugene Piety defeated Gordon Wright, Whitman, in the singles finals, 2-6, 8-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Piety and Teats won from Wright and Rigsby, Whitman, 9-7, 6-1, 7-5.
COACH Roy Sandberg and his Puget Sound Loggers started the second year of their partnership with a bang when they won the Northwest Conference football championship for the first time in the history of the college.

Although C. P. S. did not play any of the coast conference teams this year, the season was considered one of the hardest ever undertaken by the Loggers. The Maroon and White schedule, which was... known as the suicide schedule called for them to meet the four most powerful teams in the conference inside of 21 days.

The season opened September 20, when the Loggers met the Pacific Lutheran College Gladiators in a night game in the Tacoma Stadium. This ended in a 24-0 score in favor of the C. P. S. team.

The second game of the season was another night game, which was played on October 1. In this contest the Loggers renewed relations with one of their oldest rivals when they downed St. Martins College team by the score of 7-0.

On the evening of October 8 the Lumberjacks had their first taste of conference football when they clashed with the Badgers of the Pacific University. This game was the start of the suicide schedule and ended with a 13-6 score. The next weekend found the Logger gridsters at Walla Walla playing the Whitman squad, who were defending champions. Playing on a turf field for the first time this season, the Maroon and White men walked all over the Missionaries, but when they got into scoring territory the Walla Wallans tightened down and the Lumberjacks were only able to reach scoring turf once. The conversion was successful, making the winning margin of the game, as the Whitman squad scored but failed at conversion.

The C. P. S. men next met the College of Idaho, and, on the night of October 21, gained a 19-0 decision over them.

On the night of October 29 the Lumberjacks journeyed to Salem, Oregon, and there before a capacity crowd, which included 100 college rooters, battled to a scoreless tie with the Willamette Bearcats.

By finishing these four conference games without a loss the Maroon team accomplished a feat that critics had said could not be done.

It was at this time that Roy Sandberg showed his true worth to the city and the college and he and his team drew much favorable comment in write-ups and on radio programs.

After this part of the schedule was completed many of the starting lineup were injured and the second squad or “Minute Men” played the next game on the schedule, which was with Bellingham Normal. These players took their opponents into camp to the tune of 30-0 in a night game on November 4.

In the final game of the conference schedule, and the one which decided the championship, the team from Albany College, coached by a former C. P. S. star, Charles Lappenbush, came to Tacoma for a 32-0 defeat.

The final game of the year was with Columbia University in Portland on November 25, in which the college was defeated 7-0.

During the season the college was able to score a total of 133 points to their opponents’ 18. When the official all-conference team was picked nine Loggers were mentioned on the first or second teams or in the list of honorable mentions. Most notable among the all-stars was Captain Burdette Sterling, who was picked unanimously for the position of quarterback and captain. Many of the officials stated that Sterling was the outstanding gridder in the Northwest. Also picked on the all-conference backfield was Jimmy Ennis, flashy sophomore halfback. In the line the local squad placed three men. At the end position was Dean Pettibone, senior and former captain, who won a place for the second time. Bob Hurworth, another senior, and guard, and Park Gagnon, center, were the other two named. Both have been outstanding and inspirational in their playing.

On the second all-conference team were Earl Hickox, stocky guard, and Jack Slatter, steady and hard-working tackle. In the list of honorable mentions were Jack Sprenger, the "watchfob" guard, and Al Akam, a new man this year. Only three gridsters are graduating this year, and with a goodly crop of new material, the prospects for next year are bright. The men leaving are Pettibone, Hurworth and Ocky Johnson, fullback, who has been one of the mainstays for the past four years.

Coach Sandberg, who through his own hard work, has developed some of the outstanding gridders in this part of the country has won the respect of the other coaches in the conference. There is no dissension and fair play and sportsmanship are stressed.

Credit should also be given here to Jack Parodi, former Washington State gridder, who worked with "Sandy" on the line.

WITH a remarkable record of eight victories and no defeats to their credit, the College of Puget Sound women's debate team, composed of Ora Willmott and Jeannette Amidon, captured first place at the Pacific Coast Provincial Forensic Tournament of Pi Kappa Delta this spring. The tournament was held at the College of the Pacific at Stockton, California on March 24 and 25. In the final round the C. P. S. team defeated the women from the Stockton college and were presented with a silver loving cup by Amos Alonzo Stagg, nationally known athletic director, and now coach at the College of the Pacific.

In addition to the championship won by the women's team, the college men's team of J. Herman Mattson and Charles Thomas tied for third place in the men's division tournament. Their excellent record showed five wins and only two losses in a competition with 23 teams. First place in the Stockton tournament was won by the team from Fresno State College at Fresno, California.

The subject in both the men's and woman's divisions was "Resolved, that the United States should agree to the cancellation of inter-allied war debts."

Among the schools that the Logger representatives defeated were: Stanford University, Washington State College, Sacramento College, San Jose State College. Before taking part in the tournament the squad traveled to Los Angeles, where the men engaged the University of Southern California in a non-decision debate.

Much of the credit for the remarkable showing made by the College of Puget Sound debaters is due to the untiring efforts of Professor Charles T. Battin, debate coach, who accompanied the quartet on the trip to Stockton.

In the oratorical contest, held in connection with the tournament, Mr. Mattson won fourth place in a field of 20 contestants.

As a result of competing in the tournament, Mr. Mattson and Mr. Thomas have taken part in five major meets, winning first place in one, second place in one, and third in two others. In their three years of debate work they have competed together in inter-collegiate clashes 63 times with teams from 15 states. They won decisions in 75 per cent of these. At the conclusion of this semester the partnership will be severed as Mr. Mattson will graduate while Mr. Thomas has one year left.
HE College of Puget Sound varsity debaters closed another successful season of activity, which began with a banquet at the Modern Inn last fall and ended with a non-decision debate between the University of Southern California team and the C. P. S. duo of J. Herman Mattson and Charles Thomas before the entire student body on March 31.

In addition to the tournament held at Stockton the squad took part in one other major tournament, the Pi Kappa Delta Forensic Tournament, which was held at Linfield College in McMinnville, Oregon February 17 and 18.

In the men's debate, the Logger team, composed of J. Herman Mattson and Charles Thomas made its way to the finals, but lost a close decision to the Oregon State men. This gave them second place in a field of 30 teams. In the women's debate Ora Willmott and Jeannette Amidon placed third. First place in this division went to the Washington State varsity team.

Two other teams represented the College of Puget Sound in the competition, their members being Frank Heuston and Arthur Linn and Ruth Moline and Margaret Janes.

In the extemporaneous speaking and the oratorical contests, held in conjunction with the debating program, the Puget Sound representatives were also successful. Ruth Moline won second in the women's and Arthur Linn took second in the men's division of the extemporaneous speaking contest. In oratory, Gladys Neff captured second and Kenneth Powers reached the final round in the respective divisions.

The burden of the home schedule was carried by Frank Heuston and Arthur Linn, who engaged Weber College of Ogden, Utah in two non-decision affairs and defeated Pacific University of Forest Grove, Oregon and Fresno State College. In the two remaining home debates J. Herman Mattson and Charles Thomas lost to Gonzaga University of Spokane and engaged the U. S. C. team in a non-decision affair.

In addition to Professor Charles T. Bat- tin, who coached both the men and the women, Dr. John D. Regester served as advisory coach and general supervisor of the debate department. Charles Thomas held the position of manager during the season.

The freshman debaters, under the leadership of Dr. Marvin R. Schafer, were unable to line up a schedule and engaged in only three contests. Paul Wagley, Charles Zittle, David Wagner, and Joe Nicola made up the two freshman teams.

A Tribute to

TWENTY years ago Edward H. Todd became President of the College of Puget Sound. Some day a worthy historian will write a fitting record of those twenty crowded years.

Running through the years the personality of President Todd interposes at every point. His biography will be a history of the college. No man ever gave himself more whole-heartedly or unselfishly to a task than he did to the firm establishment of what looked like an expiring college. And that, too, in the face of repeated earlier failures and a none too optimistic constituency. His enlistment of that modest but princely giver E. S. Collins and his continued support; his leadership in the acquirement of the present campus at a time when it could be had; his attachment of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Jones to the destinies of the college and their splendid gifts; his persistent and successful cultivation of the General Education Board and the final triumph when success seemed utterly impossible; and lastly the selection of the college as the most worthy project to receive the Howarth bequest. These are but a few of the astounding achievements of these twenty years.

I count it the greatest opportunity and privilege of my life to have been associated with him in these worth-while events which mean so much to learning, good government and the Christian religion in the Pacific Northwest.

Every young person who receives an education at this college places a brick in this enduring memorial to a worthy man, my friend and yours, Edward H. Todd.

DIX H. ROWLAND.

Message

AN achievement is the attainment of a worthy goal. Forty-five years ago the founders of this institution said that it “should become a praise throughout the land.” The students of those early days wrote and sang, “In a few years more we’ll be heard from shore to shore.” Those ambitions have been realized.

But the achievement has cost something. In time, forty-five years have been used. In money, millions have been laid on its altars by sacrificial givers. In men, ah, here is the true cost! In the last analysis, all achievement depends upon the men who give direction to the enterprise.

The cost has been paid by rich and strong personalities. Only God can evaluate it properly. He has inspired and used them for his divine purpose.

Let us thank God for permitting us to share in this achievement. Let us praise him with willing service to our fellow men.

Sincerely yours,

EDWARD H. TODD, President.

A Tribute to Dr. Edward A. Rich

THE College of Puget Sound has lost a valuable friend and patron in the untimely death of Dr. Edward A. Rich.

As a member of the Board of Trustees, as a campaign worker and as a student of academic efficiency, he has served the College faithfully throughout the entire period of its growth. He was just as proud of the spiritual values that have been fostered by the College as he was of the academic rating recently attained, and looked upon the College of Puget Sound as the foundation stone upon which Tacoma might expect to build an acceptable cultural, social and scientific life.

His masterful service to the College, his concern about teaching standards and his belief that the rating of Tacoma as an educated community rested largely with the College of Puget Sound, is explained largely by his own intellectual eminence.

A beloved and revered friend of the College of Puget Sound, a great surgeon and a true citizen has been tragically removed from our circle, and an entire community mourns.

—H. J. WHITACRE, M. D.
School Life
THE launching of a revised constitution for the Associated Student Body of the College of Puget Sound has climaxed the work of the Central Board, the elective student governing organization. The revision committee included: J. Herman Mattson, Elsie Korpela, Jack Sprenger, Fred Renschler, Kathryn St. Clair, Pat Steele, William Le Veque and Dean Drewry.

A year ago this spring the following men and women were elected in student body elections and by their respective classes to serve on Central Board until March 29, when the officers for next year were installed: J. Herman Mattson, Elsie Korpela, Edith Gustafson, Frank Bower, Rex Weick, Jack Sprenger, Melville Brown, Katherine Mann, Margaret Janes. Mr. O. F. Hite, Miss Martha Pearl Jones and Dean Drewry served as representatives from the faculty. Last fall Charles Asbury was elected to act as representative from the Freshman Class. All of this group were not able to finish their respective terms in office and as a result the vacancies were filled by Mark Whitman, Fred Renschler and Pat Steele.

Probably the most weighty problem to face the board during the year was that of balancing the budget of the student body in such a way as to not impair any extra-curricular activity to a greater extent than necessary. This was accom-lished by a finance committee, headed by Mr. Hite, the general manager treasurer.

The problem of securing gold football medallions for members of our 1932 conference championship football team was faced by Central Board. Regular funds were not available for this project, but the grid awards were finally secured through the efforts of Jack Sprenger, Fred Renschler and Margaret Janes, who solved the problem by sponsoring a tag sale. Members of the Spurs and business men aided.

Because of the lack of funds this year the annual all-college banquet was eliminated and an all-college night substituted. Jack Sprenger and Dorothy Foxwell worked as co-chairmen to make arrangements for the affair.

Countless insignificant, but imperative acts were done by Central Board. Everything from ratifying athletic award recommendations to choosing a new Tamanawas editor, from changing names on the doors of the A. S. C. P. S. offices to “thanking the man at the Court House” for the use of the voting machines—these are the tasks of the Central Board.

Campus Day was still another project of the group. This year it fell under the supervision of the incoming members.

Commencement week, with plans for which Central Board is aiding began May 26. The senior class opened the festivities with Cap and Gown Day on Friday, the 26th. President Edward H. Todd held his reception for the graduating students that evening. The Color Post ceremony was Saturday, May 27, and all alumni classes held a reunion that day. This will be a new Puget Sound tradition.

On May 28 Bishop Titus Lowe delivered the Baccalaureate sermon in the auditorium of Jones Hall and on Monday, the 29th the seniors were graduated in the Jones Hall auditorium at 10 A. M.

The managers, who were elected last spring to direct the various departments of student activities, have completed a successful year’s work and are greatly to be commended for their accomplishments. Frank Bower was assistant general manager treasurer; Jack Evans, pep manager; Winifred Holm, women’s athletics; Leonard Moline, football; Preston Onstad, music; Morris Summers, dramatics; Charles Thomas, debate.
FEATURING the first dance ever to be held on the College of Puget Sound campus, All-College Night on February 21 was one of the outstanding events on the social calendar of the year. A program of stunts, put on by four classes, took place in the auditorium and then refreshments were served by members of the Women's Federation in the hall outside. The Junior Class stunt, under direction of Dora Langton and Ed House won the prize. Evalyn Mellinger, Carl McConnell, and Ethelyn Lewellen were the chairmen of the other three class stunts. Serving as co-chairmen were Dorothy Foxwell and Jack Sprenger.

Homecoming week-end was October 7 and 8 and was featured by a dance in the Elks Temple on Saturday night, following the C. P. S.-Pacific University football game and preceded by pep rallies and parades. An all-college play, following fraternity and sorority dinners and the traditional freshman bonfire, was held on Friday night. Jack Evans was the head of all arrangements.

Campus Day on April 22, under leadership of Bob Raleigh, was a success. Work accomplished included clearing around the tennis courts and leveling of the campus roads. It was climaxed by the third all-college dance, held in the gymnasium, which was decorated with spring flowers. Betty Fox was the chairman for this affair.

May fourth brought the traditional court to the college, with Elsie Korpela reigning as Queen. Charlotte Cook and Edith Gustafson were her attendants.

An interesting event of the spring was the Co-ed Frolic, held April 19 in the gymnasium for the purpose of promoting fellowship among the college women. Lorraine Sanders, as general chairman, planned the affair with Haru Semba, Marian Sherman and Marguerite McMas-ter as co-workers.
WORKING under a reduced budget, this year’s annual staff has attempted to make the 1933 Tamanawas both interesting and worthwhile to the students. Special stress has been laid on school life and as many pictures and names as possible have been included. The theme of the book is achievement, school spirit, and the dedication is to that spirit.

Prof. Julius P. Jaeger, new Tamanawas advisor, has aided in the production of the book.

The annual service contest, which selected Elsie Korpela and J. Herman Mattson as the senior woman and man who have been of the most service to their school, was voted upon by the entire student body.

Jack Matteson was elected Tamanawas editor and Richard Zehnder business manager last spring. Mr. Matteson left school at the end of the first semester and at that time Margaret Janes was elected to take his place.

The rest of the staff members and their capacities are: Kathryn St. Clair, Rudolph Anderson, associates; Marguerite McMaster, girls’ sports; Thelma Melsnes, classes; Dorothy Nadeau, features; Beverly Thompson, music and dramatics; Kenneth Ollar, Ralph Smith, snapshots; Robert Richards, photographer; Delmore Martin, Ward Alvord, art; Tom Grady, mounting; Howard Clifford, Douglas Bohn, men’s sports; Franklin Castillo, fraternities and A. S. C. P. S.; Elza Dahlgren, society; Arthur Linn, debate; Gert-rude Davis, Guy Kenney, Keith McDougall, business; Carl Faulk, typist; Fred Stockbridge, Charles MacLean, Gene Piety, proof readers.
DESPITE difficulties brought on by a reduced budget, the Puget Sound Trail has continued publication each week, except for three during the fall semester, and has showed a slight profit.

Starting with a tabloid size in the fall semester, it ran through the spring semester, when an additional cut in the budget forced another reduction in size. However, this was remedied in April and the staff resumed publication of the tabloid size.

In April, in conjunction with Alpha Phi Gamma, the Alumni Association and the faculty, a six-page tabloid issue was published. This was substituted for the quarterly alumni bulletin and marked the celebration of the 45th anniversary of the college. The paper was edited by members of Alpha Phi Gamma and 1500 copies were printed and mailed to alumni.

Students who have been members of the staff during the year are: Robert Sconce, editor; Fred Stockbridge, desk editor; Kathryn St. Clair, society editor; Arthur Linn, sports editor; Douglas Bohn, Jack Burns, Elza Dahlgren, Marguerite McMaster, Thelma Melsnes, Anne Pemel, Florence Tatman, Lois Twaddle, LeRoy Eggleston, Franklin Castillo, Louis Magrini, Helen Roberts, Betty Sherwood, Ben Robertson, Charles McLean, Bill Hipple, J. Herman Mattson, Douglas Bohn, Carl Faulk, Howard Clifford, Edwin Honneywell, Annabel Lee Biggle, Gretchen Hoyt, Beverly Thompson, Peggy Bradfield, Grace Stewart.

The business staff for the year included Franklin Walbridge, business manager; Charles Thomas, assistant business manager; Ruth McGovern, ad manager; Ralph Smith, Paul Wagley, Charles McLean.
The Adelphian Choral Society, under the excellent direction of John Paul Bennett, had a most successful year. Besides having many home appearances, they made a trip to eastern Washington, singing to packed houses at every engagement. It is estimated that, in all, the chorus sang to 10,000 people, making many new friends for the college from among these.

During the trip, which took place between March 31 and April 12, concerts were held in Yakima, Sunnyside, Prosser, Pasco, Walla Walla, Waitsburg, Dayton, Pomeroy, Clarkston, Lewiston, Moscow, Cheney, Spokane, Waterville, Cashmere, Peshastin, Leavenworth, Cle Elum, Kent.

The soloists were: Evelyn Bratrud and Annabel Ziggler, soprano; Eloise Tuell, alto; Loren Hollenbeck, tenor; Wilton Vincent and Robert Wilson, bass. Grace Johnson was the accompanist.

Under the direction of Harry W. Evans, an all-saxophone band, which has given several programs for various organizations in the city, was developed this year. The regular band played for all of the home football games and at the homecoming game put on a clever stunt. The annual spring concert was given May 15 with several members featured in solos.

The personnel of the band included: Lola and Lorraine Sanders, Bruce Persing, Gene Piety, Roy Norman, Carl Nelson, Charles McLean, Phil Carlson, Myrtle Dexter, Tom Willis, Murray Johnson, Paul Kohler, Del Jones, Wilbur Berger, Donald Olson, Howard Rickett, Margeurite Master, Bill Sherman, John Hopp.

A new addition to the Music Department was the spring ensemble composed entirely of freshmen: Lucy May Spencer, Virginia Gardner, Lois Farrand and Jack Morlock.
THREE big plays were put on this year by the Campus Playcrafters under the direction of Miss Martha Pearl Jones, speech department head. They were all well presented and played to capacity houses.

The first was put on in connection with the Homecoming Week-end activities on Friday night, October 7. It was a comedy, "Second Childhood," and followed the traditional bonfire and alumni dinners given by the fraternities and sororities. Gertrude Davis played the lead and others included in the cast were: Kenneth Powers, Ellen Jorgenson, Franklin Walbridge, Creighton Flynn, Gladys Neff, Kathry St. Clair, Mildred Grosser, Robert Eccles, William Beggs.

The most impressive production of the year was Charles Rann Kennedy's "The Servant in the House," which was given on December 9. This was the biggest play of the three and was presented before a full house. Morris Summers played the title role, his last important one of his college career. The other parts were taken by: Peggy Scudder, Jane Haas, Hollis Day, Warren Mahaffay, Robert Sconce and Foster Teevan.

The third all-college play, which was given on May 5, was "The Tightwad" by Robert Keith. Ruth Day and Warren Mahaffay had the leading roles. The rest of the cast included: Kenneth Powers, Charlotte Cook, Creighton Flynn, Carolyn Sue Hale, Franklin Walbridge, Carl Nelson, Marion Sherman, Grace Trompen and Paul Jeuling.

The Christmas and Easter plays were especially fine. The principals in the Christmas play, "Why the Chimes Rang," were Kenneth Powers, Creighton Flynn, Peggy Scudder, Marvin Carter, Alida Wingard, and Franklin Walbridge.

Those in the Easter play, "The Terrible Meek," were Peggy Scudder, Warren Mahaffay and Hollis Day. This was presented for several Easter gatherings throughout the city.

Other plays that were outstanding among the many put on by the dramatics department this year are three which were presented to the student body and two that were given for gatherings in the city. "What Men Live By" by Tolstoi was a serious drama, given during chapel this spring. "Murdering Selina" and "Farewell Cruel World" were the two comedies with which the playcrafters entertained the students at their Thursday meetings.

"The Brink of Silence," was produced for the Interdenominational Teachers' meeting this spring and "Suppressed Desires" was given for the Puget Sound alumni meeting in Seattle.

In the declamation contest, which was held on April 25, Eva Tuell placed first in the women's division, Gretchen Hoyt second and Peggy Scudder third. In the men's contest Kenneth Powers was first and Richard Zehnder second.

Miss Jones has been ably assisted this year in her excellent work by Morris Summers, dramatic manager. Both have worked together under the handicap of a greatly reduced budget and have furnished the student body and outside groups with a great deal of worthwhile and delightful entertainment.

The following students have worked behind the scenes at various times on the production staff: Jack Evans, Kenneth Powers, Gladys Neff, Franklin Walbridge, Jane Haas, Marvin Carter, Philip Keys, Ray Chard, Jane Bennett, Truman Bishop, Annabel Norton, Eva Tuell. Members of the Spurs have ushered at each of the all-college plays and music before the play and between the acts has been furnished by students from the Conservatory of Music.

NOTHER leaf is turned and another chapter is ended as the Class of 1933 joins the ranks of the alumni of Puget Sound. Four years have gone by; four years filled with effort, achievement, and the memories of college days.

Entering Puget Sound in the autumn of 1929 the class soon established itself as an energetic and progressive group taking an active part in all forms of school activity and laying the foundation for the school leadership which the class was later to assume.

As Sophomores the class fulfilled the promise of the previous year as the members were prominent in all forms of extra-curricular activities.

In its Junior year the class really came into its own as a factor in the social and scholastic life of the school with practically every event being marked by a preponderance of workers of the class of '33.

Their Senior year brought to a close the college career of many who had distinguished themselves in school life. Among the graduating students is Herman Mattson, long prominent in debate, and who has also served as president of the A. S. C. P. S. for the past year. Other graduating debaters include Pearl Disher and Melba Alleman. Dramatic art has been a field deeply marked by senior talent, and the list of graduates includes Ruth Carter, Charlotte Cook, Morris Summers, and Franklin Walbridge. Music, too, has claimed the efforts of many including Evelyn Bratrud, Louise Montgomery, Ethelyn Lewellen, Edith Harlowe, Morris Summers, Delwin Jones and Harold Dabroe.

Elsie Korpela, Edith Gustafson and others ably filled offices in A. S. C. P. S. Robert Sconce, who has edited the Trail for the past two years, is also a member of the class.

It is in athletics perhaps more than in any other phase of student activity that the Class of '33 will be missed. Football, basketball and track men who will graduate include many all-conference stars.

Departing, the Senior Class leaves behind it a record of scholastic attainment and a spirit of enthusiasm for school activity that is great and in keeping with the tradition of the college.

Freshman Class Officers

Those who should have been included in this group are: Loretta Altmann, Maralta Anderson, Ruth Barter, Stanley Bates, William Beggs, Iver Belsvig, Bessie Breloer, Melville Brown, Walter Brown, Phillip Carlson, Faye Sherwood, Albert Casperson, Ray Chard, Royal Coons, Frances Spencer, Julian Davidson, Roy Dunning, Robert Eccles, Mary Elizabeth Failor, Leonard Friedman, Park Gagnon, Ralph Gibson.

Junior Class

The green froshies who entered the college in the fall of 1930 are now members of the class of '34 and are looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to being next year’s “high and mighty seniors.”

To the junior class went the honor of winning this year’s prize for the best stunt at All-College Night. Dora Langton was chairman of this committee.

Both men and women of this class are prominent in sports. Nine men of the football squad this year were juniors and the captains of the track, basketball and football teams are members of the class.

The last event of the junior year was the breakfast given by the juniors as a farewell to the seniors on April 27 at Lake Wilderness. Seth Innis, Govnor Teats, Ed House and Dorothy Foxwell were the committee in charge.

Those who should have been included in this group are: Willard Gray, Sue Hale, Esther Harstad, Harold Buis, John Hopp, Grace Johnson, Oscar Johnson, Robbin Keir, Dora Langton, Ed LePenske, Brooks Lewellen, Jack Matteson, Elizabeth Padfield, Elsie Mitchell.

Those who should have been included in this group are: Bertha Neeley, Gladys Neff, Roy Norman, Yoneo Obayashi, Ann Pemerl, Paul Perdue, Robert Raleigh, Jennie Rough, Peggy Scudder, Mary Sifton, Jack Slatter, Cecil Swanson, Mary Thompson, Hartford Thune, Stanley Topping, Sylvia Wayne, David Wilson, Viola Spangenburg, Vernon Davis, Al Lee, J. Miyazaki, Leo Jablonski, Milt Woodard.

Other who should have been included in this group are: Iris Aldrich, Eunice Allen, John Aston, John Bardsley, Ann Bashford, Robert Bates.

Sophomore Class

It is said that “happy is the class without a history” but not so with the largest of all sophomore classes.

In activities the class of 1935 has been unusually successful. Members who have been accorded outstanding places in sports are: Kenneth Bourke, Jack Kimball, Carl McConnell, Jim Ennis. Others who have furthered the interests of the class in various activities are: Katharine Mann, Kenneth Powers, Thelma Melsnes, Creighton Flynn, Julian Davidson. Jeanette Amidon and Ora Wilmot, Puget Sound women who won first place in the Pacific Coast Pi Kappa Delta meet, are also members of the class.

Two years lie ahead of the class of ’35. May the good name that they have thus far gained be further enhanced by college leadership during this time.

Freshman Class

The Freshmen emerged victorious after a strenuous night of kidnapping in time to take part in and win the annual bag rush from the sophomores by a three to one margin. They also won the tug of war on Campus Day.

Freshmen were active in every branch of student activity and have well begun their four years’ course at the College of Puget Sound.

La Mesa Redonda

MEETINGS of La Mesa Redonda were twice a month during the year and their programs included Spanish plays, singing of Spanish folk songs, and talks on Spanish customs and land.

International Relations' Club

THE International Relations' Club, under the guidance of Elza Dahlgren, president, and Professor Frank Williston, adviser, met regularly twice a month, usually at the home of one of the members. At these times programs on current events put on by members or by outside speakers were enjoyed.

Five members and faculty adviser attended the International Relations' conference on November 26 and 27 at the University of Washington. Assistance to the Tacoma Peace Institute, held during spring vacation was given by the club in the form of a radio advertising play, under the leadership of Margaret Emilia Johnson and work on one of the committees by Howard Fisher.

The work of the year has included also the addition of several books from the Carnegie Foundation of Peace to the library.

The club's membership included: Elza Dahlgren, Margaret E. Johnson, Ruth Barter, Catherine Doud, Margaret Janes, Lois Twaddle, Howard Fisher, Arthur Harkonen, Jennie Rough.
Poetry Club

THE Poetry Club is the latest organized of the groups on the campus, having been started in February. Margaret Gilpatrick was the president and Betty Hassert vice president. Miss Linda Van Norden of the English faculty is the adviser.

The meetings were usually filled with readings of original poems and studies of verse form.

College Art Guild

THE College Art Guild was organized in the fall semester for the purpose of furthering interest in art at the college and for study of its various phases. Meetings have been regular throughout the year at the homes of the members.

The club advisers are Mrs. Ida Cochran and Miss Rowena Lung of the art department. The officers were: Harriet Magill, president; Jewel Morris, vice president; Louise Montgomery, secretary-treasurer. Other members are: Ward Alvord, Wilhelm Bakke, Elizabeth Bardsley, Virginia Bowler, Analois Hertzberg, Margaret Irwin, Delmore Martin, Ben Knoell, Donald Olson, Vendella Sterling, Reba Hall, Sara Lawson, Beverly Thompson.

Front row: Thompson, Hertzberg, Hall, Magill, Morris.
Third row: Knoell, Sterling, Bakke, Olson, Irwin, Alvord.
Christian Service Club

The purpose of the Christian Service Club is to promote Christian living and service. One of the greatest services given by the club this year was the sending out of 38 deputation teams to aid the various churches. Other services included work at the Community House and morning watch services in the little chapel during the Christmas and Easter periods. A picnic at Epworth Heights was the big social event on the club calendar.

The officers were: Lloyd Doty, president; Edythe Harlow, vice president; Phyllis Andrews, secretary; Charles Gibbons, treasurer; Professor Frederick, adviser.

Biology Club

The Biology Club is organized for students interested in biology, and each member is required to contribute to a permanent museum collection, started last fall.

The officers were: Margaret Irwin, president; Wilma Sells, vice president; Ann Pemerl, secretary-treasurer; Ray Chard, historian; Professor Slater, adviser; Bernice Martyn, recorder.
Kappa Phi

Chi chapter of Kappa Phi, national Methodist women’s organization, has just completed its first year as a member of this group. It has been a very eventful year, many new women being initiated and full programs being enjoyed by the members.

Among the most important events were: the “Fireside” in the fall to entertain freshman women; the traditional initiation ceremonies at the Epworth church; Kappa Phi Sunday in March, when the women attended the First Methodist Church and then dined at the Modern Inn.

The officers were: Elsie Mitchell, president; Eloise Tuell, vice president; Helen Calbraith, secretary; Muriel Suiter, treasurer; Mrs. A. G. Harrelson, adviser.

Y. W. C. A.

One of the main objectives of the Y. W. C. A. this year was to create a spirit of friendliness among the women of the college. The “Big Sister” movement was inaugurated for the first time so that during Freshman Week upperclass women acted as “Big Sisters” to the newcomers. Several social functions were also sponsored at that time, honoring the freshman women. Throughout the year Sunday afternoon “Firesides” were enjoyed at the homes of Y. W. members, when small groups would gather for music, games and friendly chats. The annual fall houseparty was held at the home of Bernice Martyn at Sunrise Beach, with Miss Marcia Seeber, national student secretary, as a guest.

Mrs. Harrie Chamberlin, national president, was a guest and speaker to the college women on April 25.

Such service has been accomplished by the Y. W. as providing Thanksgiving baskets for a score of families, helping with work at the Community House, giving support to the various college activities. The Seabeck summer conference is also supported by the local group and plans are being made to have representatives from C. P. S. attend it.

The officers and cabinet members were: Elsie Korpela, president; Eva Tuell, vice president; Ellen Jorgenson, secretary; Josie North, treasurer; Miriam Weigle, program chairman; Dorothy Foxwell, social chairman; Bernice Martyn, service chairman; Eloise Wood, room chairman; Haru Semba, publicity chairman; Lois Twaddle, Seabeck chairman; Mrs. Lyle Ford Drushel, adviser.
Honoraries

ALPHA PHI GAMMA

The national honorary journalism society has Psi chapter at Puget Sound. This year its activities included the initiation banquet in March and the publishing of the 45th anniversary edition of The Trail.

Milt Woodard was president; Howard Clifford, secretary-treasurer; Professor J. R. Roberts, adviser.

Other members are: Mildred Eaken, Margaret Janes, Marguerite McMaster, Thelma Melsnes, Elza Dahlgren, Edwin Honeywell, Fred Stockbridge, Dick Link, Kathryn St. Clair, Robert Sconce, Arthur Linn.

PI GAMMA MU

This is the national social science honor society. The purpose of the group is to promote scientific study of social problems.

Officers of the Washington Alpha chapter were: Professor Gordon Alcorn, president; Franklin Walbridge, vice president; Margaret C. Irwin, secretary-treasurer.

PI KAPPA DELTA

Pi Kappa Delta is the largest forensic fraternity of those organized for that purpose. Only those debaters and orators who have participated in one recognized inter-collegiate oratorical contest, have won two decision debates or have participated in three non-decision debates are eligible to membership.

Charles Thomas was president of the Washington Alpha chapter and Dr. J. D. Regester, adviser.

Old members are: Herman Mattson, Franklin Heuston, Pearl Disher, Bill LeVeque, Robert Burwill, Ruth Moline. New members are: Arthur Linn, Margaret Janes, Jeanette Amidon, Ora Wilmot, Kenneth Powers, Gladys Neff.

THETA ALPHA PHI

Morris Summers was president of Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatic honorary fraternity which has for its purpose the increasing of interest in dramatic work, and the honoring of students who were outstanding in dramatics. The members include: Lois Hoover, Kenneth Powers, Gladys Neff, Ellen Jorgenson, Marion Sherman, Morris Summers, Charlotte Cook.

In securing the capable services of Drs. Frank G. Williston and Marvin R. Schafer as faculty advisers the fraternity was extremely fortunate. The informal given at Fircrest resulted in a decidedly brilliant and successful affair. The Omicrons were well represented by outstanding men on the varsity squads, besides placing high in intramural competition. A commendable scholastic average was also attained.

The greatest achievement of the Sigma Zeta Epsilon fraternity was reached in 1929 when they purchased the house in which they are now residing. The history of the group dates back to the early days of the college.

The organization has grown as the college has progressed. Its activities have been varied, tending to give a well-rounded form of college life. This is evidenced by the possession of many intramural trophies, dramatic laurels, and high scholastic ratings.
During the past year Alpha Chi Nu fraternity has participated in the furthering of intramural activities, and the organization closely pressed the leaders in every field of collegiate activity.

However, the fraternity did not limit its program to athletics. The task of editing the college paper and the arduous and thankless job of leading yells at athletic contests were among the honors held by members of Alpha Chi Nu.

| Robert Strobel        | Sigma Mu Chi started its year with the usual rushing season, the highlights of which were a mountain trip to Lake George and yacht cruise to Horsehead Bay. The first social function of the year was the traditional pledge dance given in union with the pledges of Lambda Sigma Chi at Brooklake Lodge. Four other dances followed.

In the pep parade for the Homecoming game with Pacific, the noise float entered by the Mu Chis placed first.

Under the direction of Mrs. Raymond Seward as faculty adviser to the group, the Alpha Beta Upsilon sorority has continued its persistent participation in the activities of the campus.

A winter informal and a spring semiformal coupled with a houseparty and a St. Patrick’s Day affair were the climaxing points of the social calendar. Last fall the sorority refurnished its room and, prior to the Christmas holidays, held open house.

Kappa Sigma Theta this year won by close margins the scholarship, debate and basketball cups. Social affairs of the group included a series of dances, a houseparty, an alumni banquet, and several teas.

The year opened with a number of rush parties in honor of the freshmen women, and in the spring fifteen were initiated. Mrs. Homer Maris is faculty adviser for the sorority, together with Miss Anna H. Crapser.

One hundred women attended Lambda Sigma Chi’s celebration of its tenth anniversary as an established sorority last spring with an alumni banquet. One of the outstanding events of the year was the spring formal held in the Winthrop Crystal Ballroom. Other social dates consisted of three informal dances, a winter houseparty and the traditional pledge tea given for all the other pledges on the campus.

times looking like a championship quintet and at other times dropping into a slump the College of Puget Sound basketball team had a fairly successful season.

The Loggers went through the preliminary games with only one defeat, that an upset by Washington Hardware, county champions.

In the regular season opener the Maroons journeyed to Seattle and met the University of Washington Huskies and lost by a large score, but in the return game played in a local gym the Loggers held the University five until the final minutes when the Seattle aggregation put on a determined rally to win.

During the regular basketball season games were won from: Pacific University, 43 to 30 and 38 to 36; Meiji University of Japan, 62 to 34; Columbia, 47 to 29; Albany College, 45 to 34 and 34 to 23. Wins were also scored over Pacific Lutheran College and Nordstroms of Seattle, one of the outstanding independent teams in the state.

Columbia, Whitman, Willamette and St. Martins scored wins over the Lumber-

Basket Ball
Jack quintet during the season.

Members of the squad who graduate this year are Eddie McCoy, guard, who has been named on several all-conference teams and who has just completed his fourth year on the varsity, and Frank "Bo" Bowers, for four years one of the most dependable men to don a Logger uniform. Frank played forward.

Intramural Sports

Under Lou Grant, intramural director, this department has advanced considerably during the year although no new sports have been added to the list of activities. The past season saw many more students taking part due to the fact that both "A" and "B" Leagues have been formed in many of the sports.

The point system, devised last year, has undergone several minor improvements and this year greater interest has been shown and better support given by the student body.

In competition so far this year the Sigma Zeta Epsilon have won the Charles Maurman Trophy in indoor baseball by going through the season undefeated.

Volleyball again saw the Zetes cop the first place prize but in the "B" League competition the Barbarians pulled a minor surprise when they galloped away with top honors.

Intramural basketball this year was featured by fast and exciting play throughout with the Zetes capturing the Howard Armstrong cup, but only after their supremacy was threatened by other teams several times. The Hoskins-Mecca trophy for the runner-up position went to Delta Pi Omicrons who won in a playoff game with Alpha Chi Nu. The Chi Nus were undefeated in "B" League play, thereby taking the title.

At the end of the regular playing season the Trail picked its annual all star team and on it were placed two members of the championship quintet, Rex Weick and Otto Smith. Two members of the second place team and one of the Alpha Chi Nu outfit also received honor positions. The Omicrons were Burdette Sterling, who was named captain of the all stars and Fred Minitti. The Chi Nu player was Bill Gibson.

At the present writing the Delta Kappa Phis, last year's champions and Sigma Zeta Epsilon are leading the playground baseball loop. Last year the Delta Kapps captured the title and the Kimball Cup by winning a three cornered playoff from Sigma Zeta Epsilon and Delta Pi Omicron.

Delta Pi Omicron took first place in intramural track and Sigma Zeta Epsilon second.

Golf and tennis have been slow in getting under way because of wet weather, but this year's play is expected to be much closer than last year, when the Chi Nus led in golf and tennis.
A MASSING 95½ points to 50 and 26½ respectively for Bellingham and Ellensburg Normals, the Loggers won their initial track meet of 1933 with plenty to spare. The Puget Sounders dominated most of the events, and several exceptionally fine marks were made in the meet.

Coaches O. F. Hite and Raymond Seward were blessed with what appeared to be an excellent array of track material, with such men as Captain Stan Bates and Rex Weick in the hurdles, Al Seversen in the pole vault, Lloyd Doty in the dashes, "Pete" Piety in the broad and high jumps, Ed McCoy in the mile and two mile, Mark Whitman in the middle distances, and Roy Carlson in the weights returning to take up their duties as tracksters, in addition to an unusual group of first year men from which to choose.

In the second meet of the season the Lumberjacks took a jaunt to Seattle and came home, from the first varsity track meeting in the history of the University and College, on the short end of a 118½ to 12½ score. Rex Weick won six points for the losers by taking second place in both the high and low hurdles. The track was rather sloppy and the marks made in many of the events in the meet were considerably lower than those made by the Puget Sound athletes in the triangular meet of the previous week against Bellingham and Ellensburg. A dual meet on May 6 with Bellingham Normal was won by the Loggers 79½ to 46½. The Northwest Conference meet to be held at Forest Grove, Oregon, on May 27, remains on the schedule.
Baseball

THE baseball outlook for this spring was unusually bright, when, in addition to some five or six lettermen, a number of outstanding freshmen turned out. Several players of city league fame were attending school and considerably bolstered the Sandberg-coached machine.

The Loggers went through a couple of weeks of warm-up drill and then met some of the outstanding city league teams in a series of practice contests.

So far this season four intercollegiate games have been played. The first game of the year with St. Martins College was played on the Lumberjack field, with the Saints winning, 5 to 4. The return encounter saw things harmonizing for the Lacey boys by the tune of 20 to 7.

Another home and home series played with the University of Washington varsity found the Loggers playing a fair brand of ball, but errors coming at an inopportune time cost them victory. In the last of these games, which the University men won by a 9 to 2 score, the Tacomans outhit their opponents 7 to 6. The score of the first contest was 9 to 4.

With at least six more games, two with St. Martins, two with the University of Washington and two with Columbia University of Portland, on their schedule, at the time of going to press, the Loggers are determined to avenge their earlier defeats and bring in some victories.

Last spring the Lumberjacks won two out of nine encounters, defeating the North Pacific College 13 to 5 and downing Bellingham Normal 11 to 4. Puget Sound was on the short end of a game with the University of Washington, one with Bellingham, two with Pacific University, two with Willamette, and one with Columbia.
TAKING on one of the hardest schedules ever undertaken by a Logger team, this year’s tennis squad is doing much better than could be expected considering the conditions under which they are playing.

So far this team has met Ellensburg Normal, Bellingham Normal, the University of Washington, Yakima Junior College, St. Martins, and Reed College of Portland, winning from Ellensburg and the last two.

The first meet of the year went to the Loggers when they met and defeated the Ellensburg Normal squad by the score of 3 to 2. In this match Teats and Piety won their singles matches and then paired together to take one of the doubles.

Next the net squad journeyed over to Seattle and went down to defeat at the hands of the University. In the return match the Loggers again went down, but the outstanding feature of the day was when Piety, number one man for the Maroon and White, won from Briggs, top place man of the University.

After the University matches the locals lost a hard fought series to the Bellingham Normals on the CPS courts by the score of 4 to 3. Piety and Innis won for the College in the singles and Teats and Piety won their doubles match.

Having been host to the conference netters for five years, the school team of Piety and Teats will travel to Salem this year for the meet on May 26 and 27th. The hopes for a conference championship are very bright.
With another strong team in the making, the College of Puget Sound is practically assured of another successful year in golf competition. This year's team, while not composed of veterans which are known throughout the state, compares favorably with any previous team at the college.

In their first intercollegiate match the Loggers met and defeated the strong Bellingham Normal team and won by the overwhelming score of 12 to 3. Each man on the Maroon and White squad won his match while the most any man on the opposing group could make was one point.

In their first defeat in over three years, the Logger golfers dropped a close tournament to Pacific Lutheran College on May 11 by the score 11 to 7. This was played on the Parkland course. The best scores were turned in by Puget Sound men, however, Fred Renschler and Vernon Birch both carding 70's.

Matches were also played with Bellingham Normal in a return engagement and a home and home series with the University of Washington.

There was no golf team at the college last year but this year considerable interest has been showed in it by the men.
INTEREST in women's athletics has been high this year and a great percentage have turned out for one or more of the sports included in the calendar.

The following are the scores of the main sports:

A women's archery tournament was held to determine the high scorers in each class and all-college honors. The arrows were shot from the 30, 40 and 50 foot distances and each contestant was allowed 12 arrows from each line. The four women whose 36 arrows made the highest scores in their class went into the interclass tournament.

Tournament play in women's interclass tennis ended May 8 for the first and second rounds. Winners of these competed for the class championship and losers played again in a consolation meet. No intercollegiate matches were scheduled, but interest in this sport was evidenced by the number turning out.

Many of the women earned their letter requirements in hiking by going on private hikes or on the group hikes scheduled during the year.

"Troubles rarely come one at a time," says the proverb.
Example: Who ever heard of having one mump—or a measles?

It was approaching midnight and Boyd Dickenson still hovered around the door. The stillness was suddenly shattered by a loud crash upstairs.

"Gracious, dear," said the timid swain, "what could that be."

"Oh," replied Ruth Helen Evans, "that's father dropping a hint."

Would the holes Charlie Hall digs be called chuck-holes?

It's not the running downstairs that's so bad: it's the running up that gets Herb Phenecie down.

"Curses! Foiled again," murmured the wounded duelist.

HERMAN MATTSON:
As you will remember, after a short exercise of the memory, our late lamented was one of the foremost tombstone engravers in this, our fair city of Squeedunk-on-Puyallup. Little is known of his early life, but from his diary of the time we learn (Vol. xcci, page 14352): "of all sports, that most amusing was the practice, on hot summer evenings, of standing close to the grandstand where the band concerts were given and heartily sucking a lemon, fixing the French horn with an innocent eye. The result was immense." Herman died in punishment.

BETTY MANN:
(Our information concerning this charming lady was elicited from a recalcitrant Rectifier of Parsimonious Percentages, who was on an extensive investigation of Ratholes—Their Origin and Future, which business kept him occupied the greater part of the year; the rest of the year he spent in Santa Cruz—the Island capital, not the California city—where, we read the other night, frequent epidemics of yellow fever rage every once in so often, though not for very long, but none the less with extreme virility, and where thunderstorms often destroy large gardens of freesias.)

EUGENE PIETY:
An outstanding specimen of Homo Sapiens, a genius which roamed the earth in large numbers in past decades. Held prominent positions in several societies: attained role of Chief Gunny-Clutcher in a state of remarkable youth. Instructed in Beefing, Gormishness, and Franderation, and the greatest of these was Franderation. Had many curious and perverse practices, among which were looking out of his eyes, standing with his mouth full of teeth and such like. He attended C. P. S.—Crypt of Prevalent Surrration.

MARGARET GILLPATRICK:

You've heard the one about the lady with a lily in her fist? Well, Margaret forever held a volume in her paw, from which she quoted, at intervals, "and things being with T, such as Treacle,"—she never got farther than that because we fed her apple pie, with American cheese on it, with ice cream on top of that, and whipped cream on top of that, and chocolate icing on top of that, and a maraschino cherry on top of that, and a splatter of powdered sugar on top of that, and the whole garnished with parsley.

WARREN ZIEGAUS:

We take this opportunity of introducing Mr. Ziegaus to the student body because we're afraid perhaps you've never noticed him about. He's very busy, and rather shy, which qualities have prevented many a worthwhile character from being known. Warren is a Caesar for ambition, a Napoleon for organization, and a Marxist reformer. (There is an ugly rumor that he has read Marx's "Capital" but we assure you such a base libel is quite unfounded.) If you have time and tact, we recommend that you make the acquaintance of Warren Ziegaus.

DOROTHY KROGSTAD:

Now, Dorothy's all right, but what with her keeping robins, and having Purple Plush Rabbit Moods in a simple twist of the wrist, it's hard keeping track of her. She has a habit of demoralizing Earnest Young Freshman, and also disturbs the dignity of several Delightfully Entertaining People by evaporating into the air scene in a mad search for rubber dolls with green ears. All this goes into the making of a beautiful and noble character, whose inspiration fans into flame the literary aspirations of vast hordes of struggling anonymities whose one desire is the achieving of bigger and better publications for collegians—so what?

There were three hermits, Joe Rawlings, Cort Johnson and John Aston, playing pinochle on top of a mountain. One day a young lady mountaineer, Vendella Sterling, climbed the mountain, looked around and went down again. A year later one of the hermits said, "Nice looking blonde that went by."

Silence descended. A year passed. The second man said, "Blonde! She was a brunette."

Silence descended. Another year went by. The third pinochle player brushed the cobwebs off his bread and drawled, "Say fellows, if you don't quit scraping, I'm leaving."
A Mohammedan, a Christian and a Buddhist had occasion to travel together. As they rested in the shade of a tree, a little bird came and perched on a branch. The Mohammedan scowled and said, "Sing."

The bird regarded him carefully and said, "Thanks, I don't feel like it."

The Mohammedan shouted, "Sing."

The bird flew up higher. Then the Christian said, "Little bird, I will teach you to sing."

The bird made a little sound like a smile and didn't say anything. The Buddhist considered the Mohammedan and the Christian and the bird and sat back comfortably and said, "I will wait. Life is like that."
