

Wally Erwin Appointed New Basketball Coach

Former Clover Park Mentor To Take Over Hoop Duties

Wally Erwin, one of CPS's all-time athletic greats, is the newly appointed varsity basketball coach at Loggerville.

John Heinrich is relinquishing the post after 14 seasons' service but will remain as athletic director, varsity football coach and associate professor in the physical education department, which he heads.

Announcement of the division of coaching duties was made jointly by Heinrich, as athletic director and Dr. R. Franklin Thompson, CPS president.

The 29-year-old Erwin, a product of Bremerton High, where he won first-team letters in football, basketball and track during his sophomore, junior and senior years, earned 11 varsity awards in the course of his Logger athletic career, gaining four felts in both football and track and three in basketball.

Wally was chosen all - Evergreen conference fullback and captained the CPS football team as a senior. He also won the conference pole vault championship in his final year.

Served in Army

After graduation in 1954, he served in the army for 21 months, then accepted a position on the Clover Park High School faculty, where he remained for two years, during which time he was assistant basketball and head baseball coach.

Erwin signed on last fall as Heinrich's assistant in football and basketball and as varsity baseball coach. He recently became a bridegroom, marrying the former Nan Hurlbut.

Heinrich expressed himself as "confident Wally is ready for his new job."

"He was perhaps the finest competitor who ever played for me," the veteran mentor commented. "Additionally, he has been quite conscientious in his approach to coaching and I have found him an able, loyal and highly intelligent assistant. He was my first choice for the job, and I am happy he accepted."

Words of Praise

Dr. Thompson also had words of praise for Erwin.

"We were all aware of his exceptional talents as an athlete during his undergraduate years, and we are pleased with the manner in which he has developed in the teaching and coaching field."

"To say that Wally has merely 'sold' himself to the people in our education department would be an understatement and John Heinrich's recommendation of him as a coach provides adequate assurance of his capabilities in that connection."

Erwin was jubilant yet humble over "an opportunity which seldom is handed to anyone with as limited experience as mine."

"I feel greatly honored to be Mr. Heinrich's choice as his successor. It has been a distinct privilege to play for him and to serve as his assistant and he was won my admiration both as a coach and as a man."

CPS Daffodil Float Captures First Place in Division "6"

The efforts of over 100 CPS students and faculty members paid off Saturday when the CPS daffodil float was awarded first place in its division of the annual Puyallup Valley Daffodil Festival parade.

Faculty members as well as students pitched in Friday night to mount over 36,000 daffodils on the CPS entry.

The work was completed at Coleman's Sheet Metal Shop shortly after midnight Friday. The daffodils were fastened over a steel frame mounted on a jeep.

The float was 14 feet wide, and was 34 feet long. The theme of the Daffodil Festival parade, "Daffodils Salute Alaska" was carried out by a blue backdrop of an ocean with a map of Alaska protruding from it, a white star was set in front of the flag.

CPS's daffodil princess, Robbin Chervenka, sat in front of the start. Her attendants, Gail Pokela and Jan Hintch, also rode on the float.

The back of the float was solid yellow, with a white "CPS" standing six feet high.

The division CPS won (Division 6) was entitled "Education and Youth Groups." Pacific Lutheran College placed second in the division, with the Tacoma Vocational-Technical School placing third.

The grand sweepstakes award was won by the St. Regis Paper & St. Paul and Tacoma Lumber Co. for their float depicting the "Aurora Borealis."

The President's award was won by the Kiwanis Clubs of Tacoma.

The festival award was won by Shop-rite Food centers.

"Name the New SUB" Contest Announced

Twenty-five dollars can be yours if you can name the new SUB, Dr. Thompson's office announced recently.

A little originality and cleverness is all it takes to produce a winner.

Here's all you do: walk through the new SUB, catch the spirit of the building, and submit your name for it to Dr. Thompson's office.

"I have always felt that if the students are given a chance they will come up with exactly the right name for many of the college buildings or traditions," Dr. Thompson told the Trail.

"It ought not be called SUB, HUB, or any of the other common place names, but something that will exactly fit the architecture, structure, purpose and ultimate use of this building," he added.

The contest will close May 1st. The decision will then be made by a committee.

Playcrafters to Present Four One-Act Plays Friday

The CPS Campus Playcrafters will present four one-act plays Friday, April 17 at 8 p.m. in the Jones Hall auditorium.

The highlight of the evening will be the play "Winsome Winnie" produced, directed and enacted by the frivolous faculty force.

Every four years the CPS student body get a terrific wallop out of seeing their learned professors render an unusual Meller Drammer. "Can you imagine our stalwart hero (Dr. John Phillips) fervently seeking the hand of our lovely tall, heroine (Jeanne Davies) while lawyer bonehead (Dr. John Regester) and our dastardly villain (Prof. Norm Anderson) wickedly convince and scheme to undo our lovers," queried Dr. "Bur" Baisinger.

Jim Nelson, as Lord Dogwood, will play a dissipated peer. He, together with Dr. "Bur" who plays a "jaded diplomat" Frogwater, attempt to abduct the very charming heroine. Mrs. Budge (Mrs. Goman) tries to stop the villains while Lady Muddlenut, (Dr. Margaret Walker), helps untangle the plot.

"Meridian 7-1212"

Church Career Talks Listed

Five women, trained in specialized skills which they have chosen to relate the work of the church, arrived on the CPS campus yesterday.

They will be here today and tomorrow to talk to women students about church careers.

These "deaconesses" are Miss Eunice Allen from the Tacoma Community House, with training for urban work; Miss Ann Pearre of Elroy, Ariz., with concern for town and country work; Miss Jean Morgan of Hollywood, Calif. with knowledge about church homes; Miss Arlene Marner of Casper, Wyo., with guidance for local church work; and Miss Nola Smee, of Kansas, who specializes in educational work.

All CPS coeds interested in applying their professional training to the service of the church are urged to make arrangements with these visiting women for interviews and further knowledge through Rev. Albertson in the Religious Life Center.

Trail, Tamanawas Applications Wanted

Students interested in representing an ASCPS Department on Central Board are reminded that they should contact the advisor for the activity concerned IMMEDIATELY. Faculty appointments will be considered at Central Board tomorrow night, Wednesday, April 15th.

Qualified students are particularly urged to consider applying for Editor or Business Manager of the Trail or Tamanawas. (These positions, in addition to the manager of Men's Intramural, receive an annual salary.)

Dr. Thompson recently announced the acquisition of a new full-time faculty advisor for the Trail and Tamanawas, so I hope that competent students will consider applying for the Trail and Tamanawas positions," Dick Waterman, ASCPS president, told the Trail. "Only through strong leadership will our student publications achieve the esteem of which they are capable," Waterman added.

Persons interested in applying for one of the Trail or Tamanawas positions should submit a letter of application (typed in duplicate) to the ASCPS office by this Friday, April 17.

HEAR THIS . . .

To Editor of Trail:

I wanted to stamp my feet and whistle several times last week in Convocation while Bob McGill courageously evaluated his past year as the president of the student body. But I didn't, I'm ashamed to say, because nobody else did.

One of the points Bob discussed was the difficulty he experienced, as ASCPS President, in getting the faculty to listen to a "different" viewpoint. "Some of the faculty like to talk about you acting as an individual," he said, "but they don't want you to be one." His arguments, concerning student interests, were dismissed because he had not had "20 to 40 years experience at that sort of thing." The merit of his arguments was not the point, he said. It was his right to be heard!

If this state of affairs currently exists at a "democratic" institution like the College of Puget Sound, there is just one place to put the blame—THE STUDENT BODY. Bob didn't stand a chance of winning an argument because he didn't have any heavy ammunition—like the support of the student body. We are the ones who have allowed the faculty to become complacent and high-handed. They know that we will put up with anything rather than protest.

And how do they know this? They judge us by the way we act in class, that's how. A professor could say, "drop dead," and we would take notes! Why don't we ever argue in class? We wait until we are going down the hall—out of earshot—before we say,

A lot of comments have been circulating around school about the need for repairing our tennis courts and giving the tennis team a place to practice. Those students who have not seen the pertinent Central Board minutes may not know what the official student concern is in the courts, and may be interested.

Last spring and summer the ASCPS officers and Dr. Thompson discussed the courts, and he got estimates for repairing the present courts, rebuilding them, and building two new courts. Last fall we decided to get courts good enough for tennis matches to be played at home, and to give students ample space during good spring and fall weekends. On the basis of an estimate for building two new courts and rebuilding the two present courts, the student government in October voted money to equally share the costs with the administration, part of the student portion coming from the current budget and part from ASCPS reserves. There has been some delay in deciding the specific location of the new courts, some time required for the administration to raise matching money, and some delay from lack of complete understanding between the student body and the administration.

Because of the need for the fill dirt to settle, there has been little prospect of the courts being ready this spring, though we are still hoping they will be completed this year. The reason for not rebuilding the present courts and later building the new ones is that would cost about $500 more.

If anyone has a question about details of the courts, contact me; if ideas how to build or how to promote student use after they

The LUCKY LOGGER

By DOUG PERKINS

Things look bright at the CPS baseball camp this spring. Coach Erwin's crew started their Burns' Memorial Field schedule last week with a double, 10-9, 5-4, romp over St. Martin's College. Veteran Mike Donahue's long triple in the last inning pulled the nightcap out of the hat.

Along with Donahue, Dick Pruitt, Bob Hill, Mike Cranston, Dick Engels, and Tom Murray have returned for another campaign at Loggerville. Some freshmen have earned starting positions. The impressive newcomers are Larry Hosely, in the outfield; John Ratko, Jerry Hoxsey, and Don Weller in the infield; Frank Bower and Gene Bronk on the mound, and Phil Oches behind the plate.

Pitching was the biggest problem last spring. This year the hurling staff has more depth. Jim Galwas, who is considered one of the best (if not the best) pitcher in the conference, looked good in the 3-1 loss to powerful Seattle University. Incidentally, Galwas played ball for Seattle University during the O'Brien reign and led that team in hitting one year. After a hitch in the service, Galwas enrolled at CPS.

Freshmen Gene Bronk and Frank Bower have shown what it takes to be college pitchers as the duet beat St. Martin's in the second game of the double header. Lefty Donahue is back on the hill to give the Loggers four starters.

Earl Ellis, better known for his swimming talents, copped first place in the two-mile and mile run and second in the 880 to pace the CPS cindersmen in their 1959 track opener against PLC. Although the undermanned Logger team lost 77-48, the maroon and white won six first places. Other winners were Roger Pyle, 440, Richard Headrick, low hurdles, Don Francin, shot, and Tom Havel, javelin.

Hats off to Eddy Ang and Pari Alizaderk. The CPS twosome won the doubles championship at the Pierce County Daffodil ping pong tournament. Ang was also runner-up to Northwest champ Floyd Macey in the singles.

Coach MacDonald announced that there are still openings on the CPS intercollegiate golf team. Here is a chance to compete in college competition. There will be a meeting today, 2-p.m., at the physical education office in the Fieldhouse. Leave your name, address, and phone number at the office. There are 11 intercollegiate golf contests this year.

Yours truly has heard a lot of comments on the splendid job the Silver Seals did on the aquatic show, "South of the Border," last Friday and Saturday evenings.

Kappa Sigma Sweeps Track Tournament Again

Kappa Sigma triumphed in the intramural track meet held last week, making this the third year in a row they have won the trophy.

The trophy is now retired permanently in Kappa Sigma's possession.

Bob Hill started the Kappa Sigs on the road to victory by winning the 50 yard dash. John Pokela of Sigma Chi was second, Glen Kerrick of Phi Delta Theta third, and Larry Hosley of Kappa Sigma fourth.

Chuck Pyle then took a first for the Sigma Chis in the 440. Dick Headrick of Kappa Sigma was second, Earl Ellis of Indees third, and Weldon of Phi Deltas fourth.

Kerrick won the 75 yard dash, followed by Hosley, Hill and Mike Malan (Sigma Nu).

In the 880, Harvey of Sigma Nu was first, Ellis second, Ordal of Sigma Nu third, and Johnson of Phi Delta fourth.

The 100 yard dash was won by Headrick, followed by Pokela, Hosley, and Kerrick.

In the shot put, Bob Dunbar of the Indees emerged victorious. Dick Pruitt of Kappa Sigma was second, Barnard (Phi Delta) third and Peterson (Sigma Chi) fourth.

Kappa Sigma swept the 880 relay, followed by Sigma Chi, Sigma Nu, and Phi Delta Theta.

Phil Oke, Indees, out heaved all rivals to win the football throw. Carmichael of Sigma Nu was second, Dunbar third, and Pokela fourth.

In the standing broad jump, Oke was first, Fagerlan of Phi Delta, second, Clark of Sigma Nu third, and Dunbar fourth.

Final point standings were as follows:

Kappa Sigma	29
Indees	23
Phi Delta Theta	16
Sigma Chi	16
Sigma Nu	15

This week the Short-Timers found themselves on the other end of a forfeit, being handed a 4-0 blow by the Rear Guard. Paul Benefield led the Timers with 491 and Wayne Malray shot 474 for the Guardsmen. This kept alive the Timers' chances for finishing in fourth place.

Loggers Whip St. Martins Twice, Lose to Fort Lewis

Coach Wally Erwin's Logger baseball forces wound up their first two weeks play with two wins and three losses. The local club lost their opening double-header to the strong Seattle University; they dropped St. Martins in both ends of a twin bill, and then bowed to Fort Lewis' 4th Infantry team.

Chiefs 61-1, 3-1

Pitcher Jim Galwas was the Loggers' brightest star on April 3rd when the powerful Seattle U. Chieftains, playing their fifth game, downed the locals twice at Seattle.

The winners bombarded three CPS hurlers in taking the first game 16-1. In the nightcap, Galwas was razor sharp and the hosts were hard-pressed in winning 3-1.

CPS Raps Rangers

Base hits were a dime a dozen at Burns Field as the local Loggers came from behind to sweep a twin bill from the visiting St. Martins Rangers on April 7th.

Mike Cranston, John Ratko and Mike Donahue swung the most lumber in the games—Cranston went four for four in the opener; Ratko got three safeties, including a double and a run - tying triple, also in the first game; and Donahue starred in both contests, clubbing an amazing seven hits in nine times at bat. Galwas won the opener in relief, and Gene Bronk pitched a no-hit ball for the final two innings to win the second game.

Soldiers 7-6

Nine innings proved too long a game for Erwin's boys last Friday afternoon, for they made 8 errors in the last two innings and enabled the Fort Lewis 4th Infantry team to defeat them 7-6.

The Loggers had led throughout the game and enjoyed a 6-3 lead at the end of seven frames—most CPS games are scheduled for seven, but the soldiers scored four unearned runs from then on and held the sollegiates scoreless to ice the game. "Cowboy" Jim Galwas struck out 11 in losing the contest.

Tomorrow the squad will have an opportunity to avenge their latest defeat when they meet the 4th Infantry in a return contest at Western State field.

Coach Erwin listed Frank Bower and Herb Richey to share the mound duties in the nine inning affair. Dick Pruitt will handle the coaching chores, while the rest of the infield will be composed of Donahue, first base; Ratko, second base; Jerry Hoxsey, short; and Galwas, third base. In the outfield will be Bob Hill, left; Mike Cranston, center; and either Larry Hosley or Dick Engels in right.

The club will also play on Monday, April 20, when they meet the 12th Infantry team here. Worth noting in that game is the fact that Ray Mantle, younger brother of Yankee star Mickey Mantle, will be playing for the soldiers.

KAPPA PHI TO VISIT AT UNIVERSITY

Kappa Phi held the election of next year's officers April 7th. The new officers are Liz Beckman for President, First Vice President is Marjorie Carr, Second Vice President is Hull Bryan, Sue Clarke is our new Corresponding Secretary, and Margaret Langley our Recording Secretary. Jackie Vogt is Treasurer and Joann Mendel Editor. These new officers will be installed April 21.

On April 23 our chapter has been invited to visit Mu Chapter at the University of Washington. We will have a chance to meet some new girls and exchange Kappa Phi news and ideas at this time.

Seen and Reviewed

STEVE HARRIS

Musicianship that Tacoma has not heard in many a season delighted an enthusiastic audience in the Jones Hall auditorium last Sunday afternoon. The internationally famous Juilliard String Quartet lived up to its reputation by offering incomparable interpretations of the chamber music of three centuries.

Since performances of the Juilliard String Quartet are uniformly so excellent that a London critic quipped: "It is almost an impertinence to praise them," one approaches the task of reviewing their concert with some misgiving. However, with characteristic undergraduate presumption we will try. It should be understood first, though, that the adjectives which reviewers often apply so liberally to flatter local musical events all apply—without reservation—to the Juilliard Quartet. After hearing the music produced by this ensemble one regrets that such eulogistic terms as "brilliant," "superb," and even the rather schmaltzy "exquisite," have ever been used before to describe performances that did not deserve them nearly so well.

That the group was able to play with such grace and intensity in spite of a multitude of disturbances demonstrates not only their musical ability but their good-natured poise as well. First of all, after a student has opened every wind in the auditorium "to make sure there'd be enough fresh air," the incredibly loud noises made by a gang of small boys playing baseball and riding their bikes around Jones Hall drifted through the opened apertures with infinite clarity. (These small gangsters were chased away by threats of violence from some students during intermission.)

The next challenge of the players' composure occurred when a faculty member tried to sneak out of the auditorium during the finale of the Schubert quartet. This inexplicably early departure attracted particular attention, since the flight was made from the balcony down the proverbially creaky stairway. Every creak and groan of the aged wood was clearly audible.

As for the music itself, it could not have been played more beautifully. The instrumentalists appeared to be just as concerned about giving a praiseworthy account of themselves in Tacoma as they would have been at Carnegie Hall, New York.

Schubert's "Quartet in D Minor" ("Death and the Maiden"), easily ranked as the program's highlight. Alternating soft lyric passages with tempos of dramatic intensity, the composition provided a perfect showcase for the players' versatile art.

The 18th century Italian composer, Boccherini, wrote 91 string quartets, but none more beautiful than his "Quartet in D Major." It is impossible to imagine its musical subtleties, enunciated with greater skill and sensitivity than they were by the four Juilliard instrumentalists.

Exponents of contemporary atonal music received a temporal reward when they heard Bela Bartok's "Sixth Quartet" interpreted by these four musicians. The unconventional harmonies of the Hungarian folk music, upon which the work is based, were articulated vividly and yet with artistic restraint.

The four celebrated Americans, Robert Mann and Isidore Cohen, violinists, Raphael Hillyer, Violist, and Claus Adam, cellist, were brought to CPS by the newly-formed Artists and Lecture Series, which is composed entirely of undergraduate students.

We will live in hopes that next year the committee can sponsor another group of equal artistic stature. This will require more active support by the student body, however, for the approximately 300 persons attending Sunday's concert, about two-thirds of them were towns people.

Erwin Selected New Coach

"It's a reassuring thing to know too, that he will be available for advice and counsel, because he knows all the answers.

"Perhaps I'm speaking out of turn, but I don't think the coach has received the credit due him for the job he has done with limited material in football as well as basketball, while he has been at CPS—at times he must have been a magician to win with the talent at his disposal.

"But win or lose, no man who ever played for John Heinrich could help but benefit from the association—he's the greatest."

Both Erwin and Heinrich were agreed that better days are in store for Logger basketball. This year's squad, although finishing in last place in the Evergreen conference standings, was made up largely of freshmen and sophomores and only two players, Hal Ness and Dick Ballard, will be lost by graduation.

Improving Prospects

The improving prospects drew an additional comment from Erwin:

"With a chance to bow out after a somewhat better season than the last one, it was a generous thing for the coach to step aside at this time. Someone else would have waited until prospects were on the downgrade before moving out."

Highlights of Heinrich's 14-season tenure as CPS basketball coach were his guidance of the Loggers to berths in the National Association of Collegiate Athletics (NAIA) tournament in 1949 and 1950 and a Northwest conference championship in 1948, the school's final year in that circuit before joining the Evergreen conference.

Symphony to Play Final Concert This Evening

The CPS-Tacoma Symphony will play its fifth and final concert of this season Tuesday evening, April 14, at 8:15 p. m. in First Methodist Church. Professor Melvin Sipe will conduct.

This concert is of a popular nature, the audience having voted on the composers to be represented. The concert will open with Mozart's overture to his opera "The Magic Flute." The Symphony will then be joined by the 100-voice Tacoma Choral Society in Vaughn Williams' "Serenade to Music," a setting from Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" (Act V, Scene I). Four soloists will also be heard in this music. They will all be appearing as soloists with the Symphony for the first time. Jackie Pearson and Jean Sanders will take the soprano and contralto roles, while Reino Moisio and Dr. Pail Onclay will sing tenor and bass solos respectively.

The chorus has been trained under their regular director, Dr. Charles Fisher. Miss Pearson sang soprano solo portions of Haydn's Creation a year ago, and Jean Sanders was heard last spring in Verdi's Requiem. Reino Moisio, usually sitting in the trombone section of the orchestra, is well known on campus, having graduated a year ago. Dr. Onclay is not only a professional musician of many years, but he is also a sound engineers at Boeing. His wife is presently supplying the vacancy left by the illness of Professor John Cowell.

To end the first half of the concert the orchestra will play Sibelius' familiar tone poem "Finlandia." Wagner's "Siegfried Idyll" will open the second half, and Tchaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite" will end the concert. It is rumored that Dr. Leroy Ostransky's "Daffodil Festival March" will be played as an encore.
