

DR. R. FRANKLIN THOMPSON

Dr. Thompson Celebrates 20 Years as President of UPS

Dr. R. Franklin Thompson is now completing his twentieth year as president of UPS and will be honored at a banquet this Saturday which will commemorate this anniversary.

Dr. Thompson came to the College of Puget Sound in July of 1942 and opened the fall semester of that academic year. At the time the college had five buildings: Jones, Howarth, Anderson, the girls' gym, and a conservatory of music which has since been torn down and replaced by the present music building. Kittredge Hall, which was the student center, was opened that year and was not yet completely paid for.

There was no pavement on the campus and the only area that was landscaped was the quadrangle in front of Jones Hall. The book value of the plan and equipment at the start of the fall semester of 1942 was slightly under one million dollars.

Today there are 23 buildings, including the fraternity houses, and the building will continue indefinitely according to need and funds available. The present value of the plant and equipment is about $6,800,000, which is an increase of $5,800,000 from 1942.

The growth of the campus follows a definite master plan which Dr. Thompson has only changed once, putting the library facing another direction than that in the plan. Dean Regester said that the library, which was built in 1954, was one of the college's greatest needs, and enabled the library to expand greatly.

Not only has the campus increased in buildings under Dr. Thompson, but he also has developed the athletic area of the campus. According to Dean Regester (Continued on Page 3)

Hanson, Sorge Seek AWS Pres.

Sally Hanson and Diane Sorge have been nominated for president of Associated Women Students of UPS, and the elections will be held March 29 and 30. Vying for vice-president are Kay Lentz, and Sandy Proudfoot, and Sally Jo Vasicko and Barb Strickland are running for secretary.

Candidates for treasurer are Carol Leuning and Vicki Peterson.

Janice Eret and Ann Jubitz are running for publicity. The office of social chairman is sought by Linda Lepage and Louise Wakeman. Jay Harvey, Liz Powell, and Irene Saito are running for faculty relations.

"I urge all girls to vote because these are the girls who will plan your activities next year," Mary Algeo, AWS president, stressed.

A table will be set up next to the ASB voting machines in the Student Center, and paper ballots will be used.

The newly elected president will travel to Berkeley, California, for the national AWS conference at the University of California. It is planned for April 15-18.

Bev Scott is in charge of elections as vice-president of AWS.

The results of the election will be announced at the AWS banquet on April 12.

IK Duke and Queen Travel To Convention

Bob Sticklin, Intercollegiate Knight duke, and Marcia McLean, UPS Knight queen, will leave April 6 for the National Knight Convention at Pan American College in McAllen, Texas.

Miss McLean was chosen UPS Log Chapter queen earlier in the year. She then vied at Central Washington State College for regional representative and won over candidates from Washington, Oregon, and Idaho.

At Pan American College she will participate in three days of competition against candidates from all sections of the country. The competition includes modeling, talent (Marcia's will be drama), and three questions asked by professional judges. These questions will determine poise and speaking ability.

Frances Macdonald Degman the Log Chapter's first candidate, was chosen as national IK queen in 1959.

Sticklin will participate as representative from UPS on the National Executive Committee. This year's convention plans to seek ways of strengthening the local chapters, Sticklin said.

The constitution, by-laws, chapter affairs, national organization, and conventions will be discussed.

UPS Varsity Show, '20 to 1,' Proves To Be Successful

By E. Parker

The success of the 1962 Varsity Show with the worldwide theme of "20 to 1" held last Friday and Saturday night can be attributed first to the efforts of co-chairmen Jeff Smith and Karla Anderson, second to the overall talent which participated in the show, and third to the versatility of Smith, the master of ceremonies. The only bad element of the show was its location, the Fieldhouse, which does not lend itself to that type of performance.

The acts which will remain the longest in the minds of those who attended include the "Swan Lake Ballet," Dave Purchase, Beth Pederson, and "Four Hot Feet."

The ballet was introduced as being one which would interest only the sophisticated mind. This, however, turned out to be quite the contrary as 12 Sigma Nus leaped to the stage and looked more like members of Dante's Inferno than swans. The dancers were wearing an aborted version of traditional ballet costumes and were given props in the form of two balloons apiece to make them look feminine. The fellows seemed to have some sort of routine in mind and they carried it out as best as could be expected.

The legendary Dave Purchase talked about the shipwreck of Jayne Mansfield and the things which an entering freshman should bring to college. His humor was good and quite rank in parts and most of it was well received, especially the part about the entering frosh. He summed up his own act wondering whether or not he would be allowed to enter school again

Historian Scheduled For B&H Lectures

T. Harry Williams, one of America's greatest Civil War historians, according to Dr. Lyle Shelmidine, will be the guest speaker of this year's Brown and Haley Lectures on April 3, 4, and 5. The topic this year is three great Union generals: W. T. Sherman, U. S. Grant, and George McClellan.

Williams is the author of the book-of-the-month selections, Lincoln and His Generals, Lincoln and the Radicals, P. T. G. Beauregard, and others.

Williams is a past president of the Southern Historical Association, the editor of the Southern

Progress Good On UPS Float, Says Fulton

"Progress is coming along fairly well," said Gary Fulton when asked about the daffodil float which UPS is preparing for the Puyallup Daffodil Parade on April 7. Fulton is co-chairman of the float committee along with Sharon Crews.

Designed by Dave Cusato, the float is based on the Japanese Fountain found on the fair grounds of the Seattle Worlds Fair. There have been 58 thousand daffodils ordered to decorate the float. School participation for decorating the float is expected on the weekend of March 30.

The parade, under the theme of "Daffodils Salute Century 21," will begin in Tacoma and travel to Puyallup and Sumner. The floats will leave Tacoma at 10 a.m.

Biographers Series, and a member of the U. S. Army's historical advisory committee.

He has taught at the University of West Virginia, the University of Rhode Island, Tulane University, and Louisiana State University. He has lectured at Ohio State University, Rice Institute, the University of Kentucky, the University of Wisconsin, Gettysburg University, the Air Force Academy, and the Air War College.

The committee which chose Mr. Williams is composed of Mr. Robert Albertson, Dr. Gordon Alcorn, Dr. C. B. Coulter, Dr. John Regester, and Dr. Lyle Shelmidine.

The lecture series was established in 1951 by the Brown and Haley Confectioners, and the lectures are printed by Rutgers University Press. Some are available in paperback editions and have been translated into foreign languages.

ROTC Selects Coed Colonel Candidates

Fourteen UPS women have been selected by the Ralph Brown Squadron of the Arnold Air Society as candidates for Coed Sponsors of the Air Force ROTC group. One of the candidates will be chosen Coed Colonel at the annual Military Ball, to be held here April 6.

The candidates are Sue Baker, Alice Berglund, Beth Barnes, Sue Czech, Judy LaBeau, Donna Larson, Anne Martin, Julie Olander, Caye Ross, Lisette Shaw, Sheri Shores, Janice Smith, Bonnie Steussy, and Sheri Zabel.

The girls were honored at a tea last Wednesday at which Linda Eyerly, 1961 Coed Colonel, told the candidates of some of the duties and activities in which the new Coed Colonel and sponsors will participate.

LETTERS

Dear Editor:

Recently Central Board has discussed the advisability of regular convocations next year. Should they be required or voluntary? Should they be all-school or class convocations? Central Board is attempting to find the most satisfactory solution to the problem.

We feel that convocations would be extremely beneficial to our campus by increasing both school unity and communication. It should not be required; college students must be responsible for their own educations. If worthwhile programs can be planned, this should be weekly.

Convocations organized on a class basis would be a step toward making Central Board more representative. Presidents would have a chance to meet with their classes, thereby increasing communication. Closed circuit TV would enable the classes to meet separately yet view the same programs. This use of TV has been one of Central Board's suggestions.

In addition to this convocation program, we feel that a voluntary chapel service is an essential part of a Christian campus. University Chapel has offered a channel through which this school can express its Christian character. If classes are scheduled during chapel time, however, students no longer have a choice. At the present time eighteen classes meet during this same hour.

We realize that the press of scheduling necessary classes is great. However, the benefit derived from both Chapel and convocations justifies the effort. We suggest that ten o'clock on Tuesdays and Thursdays be left open for weekly convocations and chapel services. A growing campus needs the unity and other benefits inherent in such a program.

eral years, "I knew her when . . ."

The most professional act of the show was "Four Hot Feet" done by Dixie Schepper and her instructor from Seattle, Fran Wilcox. Her vivaciousness carried the audience completely and her enthusiasm for her work was obvious.

Gene Argel, playing a contemporary piano solo, could easily be classified as the most talented performer of the show. His number did not fit into the general atmosphere of the evening as well as did most of the others, but this certainly did not alter the deserved enthusiasm which the audience showed.

The other acts were good, and in many cases they provided a pleasant and tidy transition. One could sit back and relax as the Alpha Phis tricked the audience into believing they were more limber than is natural. Dick Sloane enjoyed a "hot meal" as the viewers were aghast and mystified when he swallowed burning flames.

Dave Ackerman's piano routine is a good idea; he made a good appearance on the stage and had a mellow speaking voice. All in all, however, he needs a new script writer.

The closing routine done by Sam Lassiter (incidentally he got his patent leather shoes for 88 cents at the Goodwill store) and Tom Jobe will not be forgotten soon as they appropriately ended the show by doing the Twist accompanied by the entire cast.

Comment

IN five or six years only a small percentage of the present UPS student body will remember or even be interested in the results of the forthcoming ASB election. The legislation enacted by the new student officers with the aid of Central Board will probably in no way affect the long-range plans of the average student on campus. Quite the contrary, new programs and changes of the old which affect the proverbial Joe College such as curricular, new faculty members, grades, recommendations, etc., are decided upon by the faculty, administration, and the board of trustees; and certainly this is the way it should be in an institution of higher learning.

If, then, student government has such a short-term influence on Joe College one might easily wonder if college elections are worth all the trouble the candidates and the student body must go through once or twice a year.

The fact remains, however, that student government does exist, and at the present time especially it is of interest and in some cases of deep concern who next year's leaders will be. The functions and duties of each of the executive officers and of the delegates-at-large and the class presidents are stated quite clearly in the UPS constitution. If these listed duties were the only ones carried on by the officers at Central Board student government would be a dull proposition, indeed.

The importance of the results of the ensuing elections, then, must lie in stall another area, and it is up to the voter to decide which of the candidates will make the best leaders in this third and most important area — unwritten as it is.

This important area is concerned with the enjoyability of a student's years on a college campus. It deals with the social life, the undefinable school spirit, the campus traditions, and a certain amount of outside-classroom intellectual life including such things as guest lecturers, jazz performance, art shows, etc.

Also, the student leaders on campus usually set the trend of general school geniality and friendliness. An example of this is easily seen in the persons of the present ASB president Tom Jobe, ASB first vice-president Sam Lassiter, and of course last year's president Larry Stenborg.

In electing new officers the members of the ASB should consider not only how the candidate of his choice will fill the bill of the qualifications as pointed out by the constitution but also how he will fill the bill in the unwritten functions and duties of his office.

800 Attend HS Debate Tourney

Seattle Prep took first place in five divisions at the twenty-ninth annual Washington High School Invitational Debate Tournament at UPS March 16 and 17. Franklin High School of Seattle took first place in the senior debate division.

About 800 high school students participated. The question for debate concerned the desirability of federal grants to the states to equalize educational opportunities. Mercer Island won in the junior division. Olympia and Sammamish teams were awarded certificates in the novice division.

Individual events at this tournament included oratory, extemporaneous speaking, impromptu speaking and oral interpretation. UPS speech students were judges. In senior oratory, Dan Coulter of Seattle Prep won. Jeff Carey of Seattle won junior oratory. Tom Trebon of Seattle Prep won in senior extemporaneous speaking. Jim Read of Shoreline, Seattle, won in the junior division of the same event. Tom Trebon also won impromptu. In the junior division, Esther Hartglass of Sammamish won. Jim Robinson of Seattle Prep won senior oral interpretation with Jim Bafus of West Valley taking the junior division.

Chapel Hosts Choral Readers

University Chapel will host the UPS Choral Readers this Thursday at 10 p.m. The Choral eReaders will present "Christ on the Cross," by Cheney; "The Crucifixion," by James Weldon Johnson; and the Easter Story from the Bible.

This year is the Choral Readers' 22nd anniversary. They are the only group of their kind west of the Mississippi River with a continuous record of performance for that length of time. Some of their presentations in the past have been Marc Connely's "Green Pastures," Alan Patton's "Cry the Beloved Country," and "He Who Must Die."

The Choral Readers are directed by Martha Pearl Jones, who founded the group. Dr. Wilbur Baisinger is the technical director.

UPS Student Wins Wilson Fellowship

Jim Green, a senior at UPS, has been awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship for 1962-63. The Fellowship, one of 1,058 awarded throughout the United States and Canada, covers a full year's tuition and fees at a graduate school of the Fellow's choice and a living allowance of $1,500. Green plans to study anthropology at Ohio State University.

Dr. Harold P. Simonson, representative on this campus for the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Foundation, nominated him for the award. Green then had to write a 1000-word essay on his intellectual history. On the basis of the faculty recommendations and the papers, a group was chosen from all the entrants for interview before a regional committee. The top candidates on the regional level were then judged on the national level, and winners were announced early this month.

The Fellowship Committee stressed the extreme difficulty in choosing winners this year because of the high quality of the applicants. Simonson said, "The competition was more intense this year than in any year since the program started."

Green is now majoring in sociology and will study anthropology at Ohio State. He has maintained a 3.3 grade point average at UPS, and he wrote an

Engle Speaks At Convo Here

Paul Engle, writer and poet, will appear in a convocation in the UPS Fieldhouse tomorrow. All operations of the school will be closed to permit students, faculty, administration, and staff to attend.

Engle is the director of the creative writing program at the State University of Iowa. This is the only program which offers a Ph.D. in creative writing. Engle has made the program famous with his lectures throughout the United States.

Engle has edited several books, has written for such magazines as the Kenyon Review, Harper's, the American Heritage, the New Yorker, and many others. He has been a reviewer for the New York Times, the New York Herald Tribune, and the Chicago Tribune. He has written several books of poetry including Worn Earth, Corn, and Poems in Praise, and he has written a novel, a book of reminiscences, and even an opera libretto.

He received his B.A. degree from Coe College in Iowa, and he received his M.A. from the University of Iowa. He studied for one year toward his Ph.D. at Columbia University. He was a Rhodes Scholar at Merton College, Oxford University, where he received two more degrees.

essay for Cross Currents last year.

Other Woodrow Wilson Fellows from UPS have included the late Robert Henderson, who graduated from UPS in 1957 and studied English at Stanford; Stephen Harris, a 1959 graduate who did graduate work at Cornell in English; Sharlene Armitage Rivers, graduated in 1960, who went to the University of Iowa to study music; and Andrew Raubeson, a 1961 graduate, who is studying English this year at the University of Washington.

gester, he has "done a tremendous job of the development of the campus and buildings."

Despite the impressive growth of the physical campus, Dr. Thompson feels his most important work has been in the academic program, said Dean Regester. The year before he came the college had a student body of 700 and a faculty of 51. However, due to the war, in 1942 the student body was only 375 and the faculty only 30. Now the student body numbers about 2400, with a faculty of over 100.

The college has always had a good academic standing and a sound and recognized program, being one of 300 colleges recognized out of the 1500 colleges and universities in the country by the Association of American Colleges and Universities. Under Dr. Thompson's leadership the college has progressed greatly. Selectivity of the students is encouraged to keep up the standards, and there has been an increase in the proportion of the faculty with doctoral degrees. The endowment to the college was then a little over $1,200,000; now it is a little over $3,100,000.

Twenty years ago there was no research program on campus; now research is encouraged among the faculty. The Occupational Therapy and Business Administration departments were added under Dr. Thompson's guidance, and the Alumni Association was given prominence and importance.

Three years ago the various departments became separate schools, and in January of 1960 the College of Puget Sound became a University. Just this year an honors program has been started.

Dr. Thompson came to the College of Puget Sound from Willamette where he was vice-president. He had been one of 80 or 90 candidates for the presidency when Dr. Todd retired. He was notified of his appointment as president on the 30th of May, 1942, which was his 34th birthday. He was one of the youngest college presidents in the country, according to Dean Regester.

Dr. and Mrs. Thompson moved into the new president's house in June of 1950. The house is used for public relations and student groups as well as the as the President's residence. Mrs. Thompson estimated that 10,000 people have been through the house yearly since it was built.

In his many travels for the University, Dr. and Mrs. Thompson are always running into alumni of the college. Dr. Thompson and his family have always been very close to the "college family" but Mrs. Thompson said that he missed the really close relationship which had been lost due to the growth of the college. She also said that teaching, which he loved, was one thing he really missed because of his administrative work.

The Lucky Logger

By STAN FARBER

CONGRATULATIONS to Coach Harry Bird and his track squad. While they lost to Pacific Lutheran last Saturday, the Logger thinclads turned in their top performance in recent years.

UPS managed to finally beat somebody — in this case, the Seattle Olympic Club — and also passed the "magic" 30 point mark. The final score was PLU 104, UPS 32, SOC 22. The Loggers were handicapped because ace sprinter Jack Higgins — a sure winner in both the 100 and 220-yard dashes — was not able to attend the meet. Bob King, a top freshman sprint prospect, pulled up lame last Thursday and will not be able to compete for a couple of weeks.

Low hurdler Ron Cultum and javelin tossers Ty Strohm managed to bring home first place awards. Darell Robinson turned in a top effort in the high jump, topping the six-foot barrier (6-0 $\frac{1}{4}$ ). Since Darell stands six feet tall, he jumped his height.

In the past, the Loggers have been severely handicapped because of a lack of facilities. The new track will be ready next spring, providing UPS students equipment to practice on campus and also the additional factor of being able to conduct meets on campus.

To the uninitiated, be sure and watch a Logger track meet this spring. Higgins, one of the world's fastest sprinters, is finishing up his track career at UPS. Next year? Jack may be seen running for the United States' Olympic team in Tokyo, Japan.

A bonus for Logger baseball fans is coming soon. Don't miss it.

UPS will play two double-headers with Fort Lewis — there next Monday and here April 9. Fort Lewis is "logged" and the word is that the soldiers have eight major leaguers on their roster, including star New York Yankee shortstop Tony Kubek.

Fort Lewis can send the following array of diamond talent against the Loggers: first base, R. C. Stevens, Pittsburgh Pirates; second base, Ray Webster, Boston Red Sox; third base, Gene Leek, Los Angeles Angels; shortstop, Kubek of the Yankees; outfielders Deron Johnson, Kansas City Athletics; Jim McAnany, Chicago Cubs; and George Thomas, Angels; and catcher, Bob Taylor, Milwaukee Braves. The soldiers will have to settle for a half-dozen triple-A throwers.

This is a chance to see big leaguers in action, right on the UPS campus. Never before — and possibly never again — will such a talented group appear on the UPS baseball diamond.

There is one problem. The UPS baseball field is still not in shape. If necessary repairs to the Burns Field diamond haven't been made by April 9, the game may be switched to Heidelberg Park. With all the money invested in each of the major leaguers by their National and American League owners, it would be foolish to take a chance of injury to one of these stars.

REMEMBER THE DATES. SEE YOU AT THE GAMES!

SHORT STUFF: Isadore Washington, four-year Logger basketball letterman, received a commission as a second lieutenant at Lackland AFB, Texas, last Tuesday. . . . Basketballer Gordon Pfeifer is raising some eyebrows around the UPS baseball team with his booming fastball. Gordy is a top natural athlete. . . . Bob Abelsett, tall Logger right-handed pitcher, was selected the Outstanding Player in the state prep classic last summer and thereby earned a pitching assignment in New York's Yankee Stadium.

Cherbas Slates Chopper Meeting

Determined to do something about the poor attendance at recent Chopper meetings, President Cherbas and Adviser Larry Stenberg have called an important meeting of the spirit club Wednesday night at the Student Center. Meeting time is 9 o'clock.

Cherbas points to the by-law which states that, after a member has missed a certain number of meetings, the member may be removed from the Chopper membership roster. So far this has not been enforced, but stricter attention will be given to this by-law in the future.

The Choppers will plan their annual spring activity — probably something connected with Century 21 — at the meeting as well as vote on freshmen and sophomores who have applied for membership in the club.

Tennis Team Is Improved

Tennis coach Lyle Morton expects his squad to improve upon the fifth place finish which the Loggers turned in at the Evergreen Conference meet last season.

Gary Carew, No. 1 Logger netman two seasons back and holder of the top-seeded racquet position at the University of Hawaii last spring, has returned along with Dave Wolf, a Logger letterman two seasons back. Carew and Wolf and freshman Neal Freeman are waging a battle for the top spots on the UPS varsity.

Sophomore Gordon Trunkey and junior Rich Lothian, the pair that alternated the No. 1 and 2 positions last spring, also return to the squad.

Morton, recently named as coach, has been a tennis player for 35 years and a pro for the last 20 seasons. He attended UPS in the 1930s. He is also instructing students who wish to learn the game, but do not desire to turn out for the varsity. For further information, inquire at the athletic department office in the Fieldhouse.

All-Intramural Squad Chosen

The intramural basketball champions, Phi Delta Theta, placed Bill Tipton and John Whalley on the first team all-intramural basketball squad. Tipton and Whalley were the number two and number three leading scorers in the league. Dave Smith, Independents, the number one scorer, was selected to center the team, with Gary Fulton, Sigma Chi, and Don Hoirup, Todd Hall, two able scorers and rebounders, taking up the forward slots.
