The annual College Banquet, which was held in the Little Hall of the First M. E. Church last Friday evening, was the largest and most successful affair of its kind ever given by the college. Several hundred were present, including students, faculty members, and alumni.

The room was beautifully decorated with evergreens and poinsettias. Among the guests were the Speaker for the Freshman Class, the President of the Student Body of the University of Washington, who spoke first of the friendly atmosphere which the University holds toward C. P. S. and in his interest in the college chapel Friday morning.

In regard to the Honor System, Mr. Little believes that it is necessary to have a system of honor in the college, but that we owe it to ourselves to make it more effective. He believes in the strength and democracy of our student body. It is nothing more or less than a high school attitude he says, to tell it as it is, when one student reports another for cheating exams.

The baseball team, which won the championship this year, had a great interest in the college and was cheered by his students. The team won the Newbegin Trophy, a large silver loving cup, was captured by the Amphictyon Literary Society, and the Sigma Zeta's, separate members in the Northwest Conference. It will almost be the natural thing for the College to furnish it. Never in the history of athletics has there been a more thrilling and exciting season than the one just past. The team has won many games and had a bright outlook.

The scheduling of the U. of W. games means the making of C. P. S. The program will bring many prominent athletes from the West to Washington. The team has worked hard to prepare for this season, and they are in the best shape to win.

How does the busy bee finish his work? The football team has completed their season with a 3-0 score in a debate with the A. M. and P. C. C. The team has won their last two games, and they are looking forward to their next game.

The Northwest Trip, a large silver loving cup, was captured by the Phi Lambda and Beauty Society for the second time in its history. The team played well against the Ambassadors Literary Society, and the Phi Lambda, winning the championship. The team will be playing three consecutive games. It will almost be the natural thing for the College to furnish it.

IN THE HOLIDAY SEASON

Today the college classes close their doors until after New Years. Many of the students will have this afternoons for their homes in other parts of the country. To be sure, it is the vacation season and we shall, for the time being, forget our books and plans during the weeks of relief from study burdens, but our good times, themselves, will give us a chance to be of service to all C. S. P. S. We naturally will be thrown in contact with young people who do not attend the college. Talk to P. S. is the same. They should be shown that they should be of service to others, and for whom. Fair exchanges in our home.

CHIVALRY BEHAVIOR

A failure among a certain group of students to maintain a dignified standard of conduct has been extremely noticeable lately. It seems to be characteristic of the Intelligent student, that he does not interfere, and that it is considered undesirable to cause the nuisance and speak to be conveyed.

What does Science say of God?

Men have failed to find God by scientific methods. This has led many men to deny the existence of God. Yet science itself is limited in its field.

Physicists have studied electricity until they know how much it has been proved that it is based upon the existence of ultimate causes.

The word "out" is what we have found out what electricity is. It is based upon the existence of ultimate causes.

The students of the University of Washington has set aside its day for "Hello" day. Each member of the class will be identified and the day will start just after a class meeting at noon.

"Student life is too strenuous." There are too many outside activities. Meetings of various organizations are much to the detriment of the student body. The report of the faculty committee which which habits students should be of at least with interest.

It must not be constructed that the student life is not to encourage outside activities. Such is not the case.

But it does appear that there are too many things asking for an intercollegiate debate competition.

At Baby's Shrine

Without the cares we grown folks meet,
Without a thought of pain.
The baby with its pattering feet
Goes to the shrine again
To stand, enraptured, gazing wide,
To worship there in glee,
Where super-joys of Christmastide
Reward the devotee.

Lighting the Pathway of Human Life

Life's shadows lengthen, Twilight is at hand and man's senses fail. Nature, calling for help, must be headed or happiness is threatened.

Particularly true is this of the senses of sight. When eyes grow dim, optical service must come to their rescue. Supplementary lenses, expertly ground glass and skillfully applied must re-enforce those provided by nature. Again, many a defective child has been placed on an equal footing with his school fellows by a right application of glasses, has been given the opportunities and pleasurable sensations which life owes him. Many a workman has been transferred from inefficient to efficient.

While immediate responsibility for this service rests with the eye specialist, he must be given suitable lenses with which to work or his skill is helpless. To provide such lenses is one of our endeavors, scientifically developing the various types required for the correction of any kind of eye error.
