FRESHMEN FASHION

In C.P.S. This Year

Coach McNeil prospers an all-Freshman Varsity team in his first season, with the only one being a Frosh, but the team may have some veterans. Congratulations to the head coach for his winning record. There will be a game against the alumni team this season, which will be held in the gym on a Friday night. The game starts at 8:00 p.m. and tickets are $1.00 per person.

All-College Banquet

Date Undecided

The date for the All-College Banquet has been postponed indefinitely. The all-college banquet is an annual event held in the gym at 7:30 p.m. It is considered one of the best events of the year and is attended by students, faculty, and alumni. The banquet is a great opportunity to come together and enjoy great food, music, and speakers. You won't want to miss it!

Choose Committees To Build Fires

Don't be surprised or alarmed if you see fires for the first time on the campus. These are actually built by the freshmen girls who have chosen to participate in the Freshman Association's "Build a Fire" program. This year, the program is called "Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. in Action." These fires are designed to provide a fun and safe way for students to enjoy the campus environment.

Curriculum To Expand Slowly Says Dr. Todd

President Adams to Students This Year

We're not going to try any new good experiences in the new year, and Dr. Todd, you will be our guide as usual. We must develop slowly and by a good foundation of education. The new year will bring the college to the stage of the college, and we will work through the election.

Fireshop Explains Health and Beauty

The mystery of the ray shop is revealed, as the fire shop is a great place to learn and experiment. The fire shop is also a great place to meet new people and make new friends. The shop is open every morning by the janitor and the fire shop is open every afternoon by the janitor.

Suffering of Russia

Told By Student

The condition in Russia during the war and the sacrifices of the people was clearly described by Boyd. The shop at the meeting of the Amphiately Literary Society last Monday night was held in the Chapel. There were some ties mentioned by the speaker, and the audience was greatly impressed by the speaker's words.

FRATERNAL WEEK

The freshmen frats, which have been in existence for less than a year, are being required to hold a meet and pledge every Friday night. The meet and pledge is a great opportunity for the freshmen to get to know each other and bond as a group. It is also a great way to show school spirit and support each other.

FRESHMAN FORUM

Has Unique Climax

A pilgrim party, appropriately called "Sweat," took place at the home of Mrs. A. J. Boll, November 29th. After the party was given, the guests gathered in the living room. The party was filled with novel and unusual decorations and costumes. The guests enjoyed the party very much and talked about it long after they had left.

The Newest Gift
by CLARABEL MACLEAN

Mr. Wagner saw the leathered stomacher before him as he stood in the shop in the west end of the city. The leather was of the ordinary sort, perhaps better not to say, but the fact was that he had bought it for good. He bought it for a fine young man. He had to give the money. He did not want to.
He would have had no money to give if he had not bought it for a fine young man. He had to have the money. He did not want the leathered stomacher. He had never in his life seen one before, and he had no inkling what to do with it. He would have been much better pleased to have had nothing to do with it.

He must have something to do with it. He could use it for something. He could use it to put something in. He must have something to put in it. He must have something to put in the leathered stomacher. He must have it. He could use it for something.

He had something to put in it.
He could give it to some young man. He could give it to a fine young man. He must give it to a fine young man. He must give it to some young man.

He must give it to a fine young man. He could not give it to a fine young man. He must give it. He must give it. He must give it. He could not give it. He must give it.

He must give it. He could not give it. He must give it. He could not give it. He must give it. He could not give it. He must give it. He could not give it. He
must give it. He could not
give it. He must give it.

He must give it. He could not
give it. He must give it.
He could not give it. He
must give it. He could not
give it. He must give it.

He must give it. He could not
give it. He must give it.
He could not give it. He
must give it. He could not
give it. He must give it.

He must give it. He could not
give it. He must give it.
He could not give it. He
must give it. He could not
give it. He must give it.

He must give it. He could not

A young lady was passing through a German village in the West recently, when a short chemist came to the door of the little shop in which she happened to be. "Good-day!" she said. "Come in and sit yourself! We've an old gentleman here, and he's half-pint.

"Good-day," he said. "Did you know that Yans taken to his shop?" "I don't know."

"Well, I'll tell you in two weeks."

The young lady went away. She was the last of a long line of school girls, and he would keep her. The young lady's last name was Maria, and she had appeared in the tiny village with a new cap, a new frock, and a new pair of shoes. She was the new girl in school, and she was already the object of much attention.

The young lady went to school every day, and she was always ready to answer any question the teacher asked. She was a good student, and she was always on time. She was popular with the other girls, and she was always ready to help them.
