Good basketball center this winter. C. P. S. would have been minus one but the professors have put the basketball season off until the end of the semester. We may now talk to the senior men.

The doors in the new building made us feel that they were made for a big, top-quality college as in the University of Chicago, Ohio State, and other places.

Phillip Stimson and Miss Hulda Topping, I may be dumb, but I'm not stupid.

A great deal of credit is due to all the men who are out for positions and the men who are giving us credit.

PEP RALLY IN STUDENT ASSEMBLY FRIDAY MORNING

College students reached a little over 200 at the Friday gathering at the Student Union. College pep talks were repeated by new talks taken from the radio, and several of the old talks taken from radio.

College Commons is Popular from First Class

The season so far has been interrupted at times as different prospects have found out of school, failed in their eligibility, or basically failed in their performance.

SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jens are proud of Miss Elma Efford, who has been made a "senior citizen," a recognized member of the National Society of Collegiate Nurses. She is a graduate of the Spokane General Hospital Training School. A recent television program mentioned Miss Efford, who has been a member of the nurses' association for many years, as having received many honors for her work. Mrs. Jens is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jens, and she has two children, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Jens. Miss Efford was presented with a beautiful gold watch and a lovely silver pen by her mother and father.

Upperclassmen Not at Home in New Building

Mighty Seniors Unable to Find Lost Freshmen To Find Out What They've Been Doing

The mornings of this past year have been filled with the sound of students retreating to their rooms. As the clock struck seven, the halls were empty, and well-groomed classmates of Dean Ogden found themselves alone in the building. The morning was bright, both inside and out. The students who had gathered in the lobby to socialize soon dispersed, and a sense of purpose filled the air.

There was an understanding that the previous night's events had taken place. The students knew that they had been part of something special. Some students reflected on the night's activities, while others looked to the future. The word "homecoming" was whispered among the students, and a sense of anticipation and excitement filled the air.

Seniors, Sophomores were seen walking the Junior class as though they were looking unconcerned, and forthright there was a natural freedom for frosh to be lost and be-er for frosh. Why did the enrollment cards and looking through other three classes seemed to have awkward and lost as usual, but the upper classes, particularly the Sophomores. But during the past two years the survivors of other years at college, Shirley Pannell and Miss Sylvia Jones, had been trying to feel at home in the long halls of the college, but the college is a big word and covers a large range of endeavor. It is hard to believe that the students who are attending the college today are the same as those who were teaching in the Summer School.

The same subject was taught last year by Miss Reneau, in connection with the Mountaineers. The students have had a wonderful trip to the National Park. The Mountaineers have been responsible for the students' development, and they have been a great source of entertainment to the college community. The Mountaineers have been responsible for the students' development, and they have been a great source of entertainment to the college community.

The next request to a larger success is to have the Mountaineers build upon the principle of their position. What matters to the business interest of the college is the satisfaction of the students. The success of the college is the satisfaction of the students.

To some of the students that I do not expect to touch in this paper, there is a great honor to be affiliated with the college as a member of the student body. We are glad you're here. We are glad to have you as members of our student body.

The campus of the college in its present period of growth and expansion represents a novel and unique feature of a college. The new buildings are designed to accommodate the needs of the expanding student body. The new University of Washington campus will be a place where students can find the atmosphere they need to grow and flourish. The institution is characterized by its spirit of Alma Mater, where the students and faculty work together to advance the college's mission. The new campus is a testament to the strength and determination of the university, which is dedicated to providing a world-class education for its students. The new facilities are designed to support the academic and extracurricular activities of the student body, ensuring that they have the resources they need to succeed. The new campus is a symbol of the university's commitment to excellence and innovation, and it will continue to be a source of pride for generations to come.
