President Todd Gave Address Explaining the Purpose of Annual College Exercise

The murder case of Professor John Huseby, president of the College of Puget Sound, and his wife, Miss Elma Huseby, was the subject of the annual College exercise on Thursday morning, when the college faculty and students gathered in the chapel for the annual College exercise.

Professor Huseby, who has devoted his life to the study of the murder case, gave a detailed account of the events leading up to the murder and the subsequent investigation. He also discussed the methods used by the police in solving the case, and the evidence that was gathered.

The exercise was attended by President Todd, who gave a brief address on the occasion. He stated that the murder case had caused a great deal of interest among the students, and that it was important for them to be aware of the facts of the case.

The exercise concluded with a prayer, led by the college chaplain, and the singing of the national anthem.

DRAMA OUTLOOK IS FAVORABLE

First Program To Be Held

The outlook for drama in the college for the coming season is bright, according to Professor Huseby. Only two plays, one by a resident of Puget Sound, and one by a visitor, are scheduled for the fall. The college expects to produce at least six plays during the winter season. The plays are expected to include a variety of genres, ranging from comedies to dramas to musicals.

LEARN TO STUDY MODERN POETRY

Modern Poetry is the subject of an upcoming program in the college library. The program will feature readings of modern poets, including T.S. Eliot, W.H. Auden, and Wallace Stevens. The program will be held on Thursday evening, and is open to the public.

Libraries Add 100 New Books

Thirteen New Magazines Have Been Subscribed for

The library has added 100 new books to its collection, including recent issues of the New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, and The Atlantic. The library has also added 13 new magazines, including the New Yorker, The New Republic, and The Atlantic Monthly. The library is open to the public, and welcomes all students and visitors.

SCIENCE WOMEN MEET MONTHLY

The program for the year has been planned, and the science women will meet monthly. The first meeting will be held on Thursday evening, and will feature a presentation by Professor Huseby on the latest developments in the field of science.

CHEMISTRY INCREASE

A CHEMISTRY INCREASE

The chemistry department has been expanded, and the number of students enrolled in the department has increased. The department is now able to offer a wider range of courses, and to provide more opportunities for students to engage in research.

EDITORIALS

The Puget Sound Trai

The home of the students. It was founded in 1887 as the University Daily, and has been the official organ of the university ever since. It is published daily during the school year, and weekly during the summer months.

Reading the paper is a part of college life for many students. It provides information about current events, local news, sports results, and other relevant topics. The paper is also a platform for students to express their opinions and ideas, as reflected in the Editorial Staff column.

The Editorial Staff is responsible for writing and editing the editorial content of the newspaper. They are selected based on their qualifications and contributions to the campus community. Their work is crucial in shaping the direction of the paper and in providing a voice for the students.

In this particular issue, the Editorial Staff writes about the importance of college career opportunities and the need for students to pursue activities that align with their interests.

Additionally, there is a column titled "FRESHMEN, READ THIS," which is likely aimed at新生, providing advice or guidance for new students.

The content of the newspaper is diverse, covering various topics such as campus life, sports, news, and even advertisements. The layout and structure of the paper are designed to ensure that students can easily find the information they need.

Overall, the Puget Sound Trai is a significant resource for students, providing both entertainment and valuable information.
