First Band Meet
Set For Thursday

With the blare of trumpets and the beat of drums the CPS band plans to hold its first rehearsal this coming Thursday. Mr. L. G. Werten, supervisor of music in public schools and leader of the 14th Field Artillery band, will again direct. Werten is an expert in drumming.

The band should be bigger and better than ever," he predicted in an interview. "Last year the band created much pub and enthusiasm at the games and now plans are being considered to uniform the members and take them on trips.

"There are still places for most instruments," he added, "and judging from reports there are many new students who play instruments but haven’t turned out as yet. If it isn’t possible to enroll in the regular class period, extra rehearsals will be held to accommodate those wishing to play for the games."

Mr. Werten stated that those desiring to become members of the band would see him from 8 until 9 o’clock on Tuesday and Thursday mornings.

Dr. T. Z. Koo explicated his audience of CPS students in Friday's assembly and spoke sincerely and simply of the worth of loving one’s enemies, when his wife and children were in China, separated by the present war. Dr. Koo, praised in the past, continues to be loved in China.

"We have tried many methods of preventing war," Dr. Koo said, "but a method to effect a spiritual bond of love has not been turned out as yet. If it isn’t possible to enroll in the regular class period, extra rehearsals will be held to accommodate those wishing to play for the games."

The Co-ed

By Charles McNary

Here we are. We love her; she loves us, and that is about all of everything we love her; she treats us well, she treats us rough; she loves us, she treats us mean.

She’s the most expensive star on the campus. We wonder how many times a figure such as she has been seen—she’s a good sight above the average co-ed, and the co-ed street college by-path.

And for just that reason the Co-ed

If you are carying how he is going to be worthy of publication—never fear there will be no dearth of material coming to make you out as a sore loser... The home is to be in fashion... we’ve seen— we love her!

Any similarities of characters that might be developed in this column or that might be contoured as your own, is definitely intended. If you think that you are doing this out of altruistic sentiment you’re crazy...

REFLECTIONS OF A FRESHMAN

By Margaret Wilson

My I. Q. was so low it would make a freshman smirk—Freshmen reporters getting on Gordon Turnell’s hair—skeptical Freshmen being told they are to use the latest form of decorum. Dr. Todd—Vivian Digneau still charming and charming. “You shall whole he cut with a freshman—graduate students polishing... Margaret Wilson and Eleanor Robinson setnewing. Jerry Cheek with his elephant-like memory, playing with the outcome on Beulah Robinson’s dress and reminding her he played by the same scrip last year in chapel—Jane Ogden just wandering around—Ronald Ruse receiving a speaking (the mother should have given him some age) from Lloyd Baker—Butterfly drawing a pencil. When she sings, where I first knew her.

Betty Jane Carpenter caught the eye of the campus. She is thrice lovely beauty. Bevy of Brunette campus girls... They are now enough to win her to see her do another dance another angle. Fuels, to the campus. She is the only woman you meet who is not mindlessly droning along a few fast steps.

Frankly, we are not going to attempt to make the Track adhere to a news paper which is possible only with a publication of a large unit... We shall attempt to feature the high lights of campus life and to reflect the thinking of the minds of the student body. We shall welcome student opinions and especially constructive criticism of college life and problems.

The second group of readers we can ignore unless they have something better in offer by way of a lousy machine which automatically please everybody.

We hope that the first two groups of readers can be, sometime during the year, united with the last. This will be the aim of the Track—Ruth Leon.

Promoting the ideal "a sport for every girl, and every girl in a sport," the Women's Athletic Association urges every girl who is interested to take part.

The woman's sports program for this year went into full swing Monday, September 20, when approximately 35 Fraternity and Upper-class women turned out for football the first sport of the fall season. "The girls seem to be more enthusiastic than ever," states Jean, manager for hockey.

Gridders Meet College of Idaho
For First Time in Three Years

Opening their 1937 conference football schedule, the Puget Sound Loggers will tackle the Coyotes of the College of Idaho Saturday night, October 2, in the Athletic Field.

For the first time in several years, two teams will get together in football and for the first time in Idaho football, there are in a quandary as to predicting the outcome. The Loggers wound up second in the league standings last year and the Coyotes finished two matches lower. Returning to football were this season with practically the same eleven as last year, the Loggers should be favorites by comparison. However, the unknown quantity enters into the picture in the form of the Coyotes from the hills of Idaho.

In their only game this season, Idaho was decisively dropped in the tune of 55 to 0 by San Jose. They will have the home court advantage next Saturday, and then, too, he expects won't be too severely handled.

The backfield, however, is another story. Russ Perkins, regular quarterback, for the Idaho game and possibly for the next two or three weeks. "Sandy" isn't meaning about this as he believes the team would have a very severe handicap, but topped with former Loggers Bill Madden, in the driver's seat, and then, too, he expects Russ back in harness in short order.

One Touchdown Defeats Loggers

A single touchdown made in the middle of the third quarter proved the margin of victory for the highly-touted Enumclaw Barons.

The game, the first for the Loggers under the Athletic Park lights, proved to the large crowd that the Tree Choppers are to be closely watched in the coming Northwest Conference race.

The score came on the 36 yard line, worked in through the efforts of Richs, Doan and McFadden, Marcon and White left end was ruled offside, giving the visitors five free yards. The following play sent McLeod, behind beautiful interference, around the left end of his own line for a touchdown. McLeod's try for point was wide.

The college boys played their best ball in the second quarter, driving deep into Enumclaw territory only to lose the ball on the Baron's 2-yard line. Alex Schwartz, all-conference back from the "36" team, and Gordon Fielder, freshman half back, were the outstanding backs for the Loggers. Nealy, former Army player did a capable job at the center spot. Bill Lloyd, reserve guard, turned in a nice performance.

"We'll be better this year." That's how "Sandy" named by the prospect of the M.

White for 1937. Last year, as you probably have heard, the Loggers were hazing in only one conference and Williams - last season's conference champions.

The Loggers headman rates Enumclaw, Thursday's opponent, one of the strongest teams in the Northwest. Correspondence touchdown defeat in the first tilt of the season by the Silver Ratty may not carry much weight in the tune of 55 to 0 by San Jose.
