Big Week-End Celebration Due

From October 28 to October 30 Pop can act as kittenish as the freshmen without being too much dignity, for it's Homecoming Week. That it will be the best yet is the hope of John Clarke, G. C. H. Chairman, of the Homecoming class.

Freshman class, with Tom as map, will lead the fun. Following will be a band. Thursday evening before the play, "The Forgotten." All donations in the symmetry rooms and fraternity houses must be up by 7:00 P.M. and remain up until midnight Saturday. The time of judging has not yet been announced.

Iceland Weaving

Here

Miss Blanche Reeves, head of the Home Economics department, of the Tacoma Weavers Guild, presented an unusual exhibition of Icelandic weavings last Thursday. It was reported that 92 students last year, 25 percent decrease from last year's figures, were participating in the weaving there. A dance was given on the Friday night preceding the conference to a group of the girls that night with Williamette University.

The exhibit, which was open to the public from 9 to 5 each day, was attended by many home economics teachers of the public schools.

The Stevens are playing hostess to Miss Joyce Workman, who is here on a visit from London, England.

Mater," a genuine glow of pride and school spirit is being after struggling for two weeks in an effort to learn "Alma Mater," a presentation of pride and school spirit is beginning to suffice even the most ritficult of freshmen.

So this Class of 1941 has come to feel itself to be a part of this great and wonderful student body. All that remains is for said student body to wake up to the fact and extend a hand of sincere cooperation for which this noble institution is famed.

Here we are, a group of bewildered freshmen, faced with a totally new environment and forced to make the best possible adjustment.

Men and women they call us. This must mean that we are on our own now.

Many and varied are the problems of the rushie. Thrown into a social whirl such as he has probably never seen before, and is at once on top of the world and lost in a fog. How to discriminate between the rival groups?

Each individual must figure out his own approach to this dilemma. But perhaps it would be well to repeat again that the best security or fraternity is the one in which you will be the happiest.

Again, "All Hail to Alma Mater!"

Freshman View

With tests safely (or unsafely, as the case may be) over and classes begun in earnest, freshmen are finding time to draw a breath and survey their new surroundings.

By Bob Price, Bob Gibson and Herb Clarke

A fter the first week we've decided that ability to write is the single most important feature. The prime essential is to be able to "Take It..."

"We were taking last week about school spirit...An innovation we've noticed is that the freshmen will be more spontaneous, informal, inexpensive get-togethers in the lower part of the Junior Hall. Open houses in the source rooms and in the Tri-offer. Harry Coleman and his "Rounded Tummers" might even be persuaded to swing it for us. Reeking and his letter writers are in the right direction with the mutual scheming of inter-omen's dates after the game next Saturday night. The success of Bob Rigs' chamber music last Thursday in the communal degree period proved in part what we mean."

Pione Dedicated to the Freshman.

Sing a song of six pants
Hear the freshmen sigh.

They'll think their pants are full of oats
When paddles start to fly.

"Ed. note—These guys copied this from the Kilbhill.

We were wondering how Duke Campbell felt, sans riding pants and shoes, riding home from Brown's Point with a strange lady...Don't tell anyone, but Ruth Raymond returned these articles of clothing to Mrs. Campbell. How did she get them? ? ? ? Price, Bevan, Stearns and Perry, also Ray, paid for the humiliation suffered by Dick Shaat on Saturday last by walking shamefully one-street.

Dick Hare and Ralph Beach have found the theaters excellent places to "shoot quail."

One romance we'd like to see break up, just to give us a chance, is the current North-Enlightment set.

Horch Hite please note: Annabell Miller and Harry Coleman were seen Friday night on Broadway watching to catch a glimpse of President Roosevelt...But all indications show that they were more interested in each other.

Bedtime Story: A roundhouse swing brought Paul Jutling out of a blissful slumber the other night...After placing a passionate kiss on his "Hobart" he was too weak to find that it was Malt, not the glamorous Anne Faye, his dream girl.

Dry your tears Paul, Batin, there is still another week to receive a sorority bid.

We only heard that...How were the Thetas going to know Clarence Hansen was a strapping six-footer and a gentleman ? ? ? ? He replied in their rush date promptly by writing: "I'm sorry I won't be able to attend your tea. I have six cords of wood to pile this afternoon..."

When asked by your inquiring reporters for the low-down on the Omicron house, Max Miller, the sage of CPS, replied: "The only dirt in the Omicron house is under the bed."

In conclusion we wish to ask you two favors.
1. Support Trafel admissions to we'll have to paint the column.
2. Don't do anything worthy repeating unless one of us is around to get it straight.

Oh, yes. Did you know how we "fixed it up" so that we may serve our S. C. P. X. earth for reduced rates at the Olympic Bowl when Mauro Posteros leave? You're welcome.

Now that rushing season is over the Freshmen, instead of being the salt of the earth will find they are being slightly peppered. Hahahah, don't you think.

CPS To Play Crucial Game Friday Night

Whitman Eleven Boasts Power On Front Line

Continuing their quest for the Northwest Conference football championship, the College of Puget Sound Loggers will meet Whitman Missionaries Friday night, October 8, at 8 o'clock in Athlfield.

The Sandberg-coached team is not only missing several starters but was also hit by a driving backfield composed of Sawyer, a three-year veteran, who has been switch-hitting, and Rediske, a plunging left-half, in his Fielder showed tremendous power in the two previous contests of the year, namely the Enumclaw tilt, the Silver Barons safety man had enough time after catching a Logger punt to run on an average of 12 yards. The same thing happened in a smaller degree against C. of E. . . .

The Makoons and W hites will be top-notch ball club this year if the backfield and a smooth line of improvement and will undoubtedly get plenty of work in practice this week.

Several long runs were made by Whitman's Ross and Remson of CPS and Fielder showed tremendous power in blocking the line but so as a whole the Logger playing was only mediocre and plenty of work seems to be required to smooth over the rough spots.

In the Enumclaw tilt, the Silver Barons safety man had enough time after catching a Logger punt to run on an average of 12 yards . . .

The plan behind the faculty-student tennis matches is not only to promote more interest in tennis but all in minor sports as well. Games between the faculty and students should help create in interest which seems to be sadly lacking in minor sports in our college at the present time.

So far a date has not been set for the proposed faculty-student tennis matches but it is hoped by all interested that this effort will take place in the near future.

The Makoons and White will be a top-notch ball club this year if two big "ifs" can be cleared up - If reliable reserve strength can be developed from the raw recruits that warm the bench at the present time, and IF the combination that rates the line against any local combat picks up that extra split-second of speed that means the difference between a mediocre and a premium team.

Saturday night we watched the fast-paced Puget Sound eleven roll over a week College of Idaho squad like a steam roller over a basket of eggshells... . That same night we watched the same week College of Idaho squad roll circles around a poorly-coordinated Makoons and White reserve machine ... Which all goes to prove - That CPS, at present, is strong only so long as too many substitutions do not have to be made.
