"SECOND CHILDHOOD" ON STAGE

By Kay Woods

It has been said that the fruit of the Prebache's Sophomore play, "Second Childhood," which is to be presented here today, will ripen within one year. This is because the play was written by Edgar E. Schenck, professor of English, who is to appear on the program today as a member of the faculty. Professor Schenck is also the author of the play, "Second Childhood," which was produced last year.

The play is a comedy of manners, dealing with the problems of an old man who is beginning to grow young again. It is a story of love, friendship, and adventure, and it is sure to please the audience.

The cast of the play includes several well-known actors, including Dr. Mary Courtland, Dr. John Brown, and Dr. James White. The play is directed by Professor Schenck, and it is scheduled to run for three performances.

U. S. Should Stay Out Is Consensus

By Kay Woods

The United States should stay out of war, that the administration's bill revising the Neutrality Act is desirable, and that President Roosevelt should be asked to go to the people for an election on the issue of war. These were the positions taken by a large number of students and faculty members who attended a meeting of the Associated Students' Government last night.

The meeting was called by the President of the Associated Students' Government, who said that the purpose of the meeting was to discuss the question of war and to decide whether or not the United States should enter the war.

The students and faculty members who attended the meeting were divided in their opinions, but most of them agreed that the United States should stay out of the war.

Recreation Musician's Find Ideal Rehearsal Hall

By Kay Woods

The Associated Students' Government has found a new rehearsal hall for its music group, "The College of Puget Sound Orchestra." The hall is located in the basement of the main building and is large enough to accommodate the entire orchestra.

The orchestra members are very pleased with the new hall, and they are looking forward to using it for a long time to come.

When the curtain rises on "Second Childhood" Anna M. B. Smith, who is to appear in the play, said in a recent interview that she has been preparing for the role for some time.

"I have been working hard on my lines," she said, "and I am very excited about the opportunity to act in such a good play."

The play is to be presented tonight at 8:00 p.m. in the College Theater.
Let's Keep Our Eyes Open

The best thing about living in America these days is that we can get all the news we need to take care of. At CPY, we can have hours of reading and researching to get a good perspective of what's going on. Germany is getting a place in the world as a great economic and political power. England and France are establishing themselves, and they are trying to preserve the pre-World war status quo in Europe. We have a chance to learn about the nation and develop an interest in it, and make sure that the future will not be as uncertain as it is now.

The importance of winning in the future is very difficult. Germany is fighting for a place in the world as a great economic and political power. England and France are establishing themselves, and they are trying to preserve the pre-World war status quo in Europe. We have a chance to learn about the nation and develop an interest in it, and make sure that the future will not be as uncertain as it is now.
