Campus Musicians Prepare Concert

The new Tacoma Symphony Orchestra will present its first concert Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. at Jones Hall Auditorium. The symphony of 65 members includes 11 CPS students and faculty members.

Concert maestro will be Leroy Ostransky, class of 48, entitled "Adagio" from the Romantic Symphony by Hanzo, and concluding with the "Marche Slave" by Tchaikowski.

There will be no charge. The public is invited. CPR Battles Linfield in Grid Finale

After a week of scrimmage and more scrimmage, Coach Patrick's charges are out to win the last one on the schedule. A victory tonight will mean a better than even break in the conference play, one notch ahead of Linfield. This evening's outcome means either the second division or among the top four.

Offense to Boost Speed

Those who have followed the Loggers faithfully through the ups and downs of the past season are in for a surprise tonight. Coach Patrick has indicated that he will start a pony backfield with speed to burn. The small boys will be running from a brand new offense.

That new backfield consists of Jack Fabullo, the spinner, at fullback, and Kirtland, at halfback. Jack Fabullo will likely get the nod for the signal calling berth with this outfit.

Line Remains Stable

Virtually the same forward wall will open with these new backs. Jim Rhee, one of the track stars on the campus, is the leader in the series of student recitals today at 4 p.m. in the Jason Lee Auditorium. The recital will feature an organ recital by Charles Leve, tenor; Betty Lou Fyke, mezzo-soprano, (continued on page 6)

Students To Give Recital Today at 4

Several concerts will present the third in the series of student recitals in Jones Hall at 3 p.m. today. For those who prefer voice there will be Howard Pullin and John Howard, the mezzo and soprano, in the female line. John Summerville, the tenor, will also sing. The French horn.

These concerts are presented primarily for the performers' benefit but the audience has been steadily growing. Last week they supplemented the staging of Arthur Knight, the solo playing of Charlotte Bearpaw, the piano of Jess Smith, and the organ selection by Edmond Reynolds, the last in a program of D. Robert Smith, music instructor.

The first major appearance of the band this year will be shortly after the Christmas holidays when the election a new Prince and Princess of Melody will be held.

Odd Jobs Held by CPS Students

Odd jobs can really be "odd" when we start asking students how they earn their spending money.

An odd standing in the odd job field is, of course, baby sitting. The girls at Aristocratic, Hall have been taking calls for child care but new note has been added. Several fraternity boys have decided that this is an excellent way to make money and still get their homework done. So far they have had no calls from relatives and friends but they still remain in contact.

Rush Print Shop

Dave Parker is one student who can't be beat for iniciative. Dave has his own print shop.

Loren Clark also has his own business in the form of a bicycle shop. He also advertises a shop in the Trail—pig, plug—and, incidentally, is on the Trail staff.

Top job of the week, however, is one held by Gordon E. Van Tuyl. Gordon is a stand-in for the bridge tender on Tacoma's three bridges, the 11th St., Puyallup River, and (continued on page 6)

OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY INSPECTOR VISITS SCHOOL

Miss Henrietta McNary, director of occupational therapy of Milwaukee Duerer College, arrived here last week to inspect the new occupational therapy department which is located in the basement.

After the inspection, Prof. E. E. Bell, director of the school of occupational therapy at CPS, conducted Miss McNary on a tour of hospitals in the vicinity and in Canada. CPS has the distinction of being the only school whose students train internationally. At present CPS students are receiving actual training in the vicinity and in Canada. Miss McNary is an accomplished therapist who has maintained an active and personal interest in horses since her childhood in Wisconsin. In her method she went the whole way by raising, breaking, and training. More recently she has added sculpture to her love of horses. One of her pieces is a marble figure fashioned from soapstone from the old Milwaukee court house.

While here Miss McNary was taken to the Junior League Polite, the proceeds of which are going in support of the occupational therapy work here in Tacoma. She left Tacoma on Monday to report back to the American Medical Association.

HITCH-HIKERS ATTENTION

The problem of finding a ride downtown after classes has been solved by the formation of a station wagon taxi between school and 8th and St. Helens. The last student to leave school at 4:00 p.m. between the hours of 11 of chock and 3, and is available to any remaining students. The fare? Very reasonable—just one pint of blood. So get there and give.

Did you know that CPS is going to be built into a memorial to the fallen heroes of the war? A fine idea. It was supposed to be a football stadium for the Physical Club, but then the faculty decided to build a memorial. It will be called the Brian McHenry memorial.

Is anybody making money in Prof. Battin's Econ class just this term? We have a question of the week—"Is it better to have a car during college or to go to college?" We'll know the answer for sure when this term is over. CPS has a typical cross section of college students: Jean McNary—Yes. Celeste Sawyer—No. Jean Binkley—Where haven't you been? Don Briggs—Yes, the campus looks swell. Harry Truman—What are Giraffes?

FOOTBALLERS Rout Firemen

Coach Don Dahlgren's fighting Army outscored the city firemen 24 to 0 in a scrimmage game on the CPS field last Friday.

Using their new formation, with Gary Hersey quarterback, the JVs had little trouble with a much heavier firemen eleven. Dick Qualls swept around left end and sprinted for yards at the first snap.

"John "Cookie" Taylor, former of Stadium, fumbled back on his own and passed to Ward Irwin, who grabbed it on the firemen's 26 and ran all the way. A few plays later Taylor sprinted around right end on a reverse and did a 60-yard clip from the sideline to the end zone.

The last JV touchdown came when Bert Ross, four-year letteer man at Vaughn High, intercepted a forward pass on his own 26 and streaked 80 yards.

The entire Junior Varsity squad played head-up ball and showed crisp blocking and hard tackling. Highlights for the JVs besides the ones already mentioned, were Tom Ruffin, Ed Drake, Jack Lowny, Dick Zetes Seize Titles

In Intercollegiate Loop

With a new formation line, guided by Al Dzielaslaw, in the third quarter, the JVs took the B league championship of the intercollegiate football championship. The game was tough. Two men were taken out with injuries in the wind, the contest was played deep and kicked long. Twice the firemen scored on both sides, gaining all-conference honors. Spencer is also married and a proud papa.

Everyone is eagerly awaiting the arrival of the new rug in the Beta room. It's rumored that shoes will not be checked at the door anymore.

Noticed Norm Willard helping the Gamma's cleaning their room recently. Couldn't think of a finer map pledge.

The prince and princess of melody contest is still going on and seems as though not too many have entered. There's lots of swell prizes being given on it might be worth your while to beam up those rusty vocal chords.

Joe Boyle's harp solo, or rather his imitation of one, was just picking up speed when Dean Regester walked in to the Sub. Seems as though Joe didn't see him and kept right on. Playing angel isn't exactly in your line, Joe!

We really leave you for the next two weeks (no issue next week, you know).

At Pledge Dance

Baggy pants, torn shirts and说什么 even keiys were the style for the Omicron's annual Purdue Dance held Saturday night at Lakewood Terrace.

Members and pledges danced to the music of Bob Dickinson and renditions of his featured vocalist—one other than a mysterious "Mr. Hush."

Featured number was the singing of several popular numbers by Miss Martha Edwards, a guest of Harvey Oka.

Professor and Mrs. M. E. Rich and Professor and Mrs. John Lantz attended the poor man's frolic. Guest judge president, arranged for the music and hall; Al Harris, refreshments; Dick Mercer, decorations; and Frank Springer, Emmie Johnson and Bill Millinger, cleanup. These programs were conducted by Dick Daken, Frank Dal Harris, and John Lantz.

Co-chairmen of this affair, which is an annual one of these two groups, are Margie Neun and John Parker. Decorations will lift the "fisherman's wheel" theme and Dave Ren's Jack Rabbit, Ann Vielhauer, Abbe Tubin and Buck Clippes will work on this committee. Tickets will be handled by Mrs. Guzi and Faye McGrady and entertainment by Jay Bell. Working on refreshments will be Helen Mason, Virginia Wiley, and Bob Kennedy.

Grad Roundup of Stadium Alumni

"Grad Roundup," annual informal dance sponsored by the Stadium alumni association, will be held Saturday, November 29, in the armory from 9:30 to 12. Try Conant's orchestra will provide the music. Tickets are one dollar a person and are being sold by Don Gilford, Jim Sundin, Don Belser, and Dave Silvers.

Sneak Preview

Choosing one of the most original spots of the season to hold their sneak, the Delts Kappa Phi judges held in the Police Station jail cell range. Access to the station was gained through the cooperation of Commissioner Primm. The members were suggested by Don Burnett, president of the organization, who was kidnapped. When Don attempted to escape, he was chased three blocks by a plainclothes man. He was handcuffed his wife for the remainder of the evening.

At 10 o'clock, Herb Stark and Fred Bane, co-chairmen of the sneak, called the members and invited them to come down and join the festivities.
