Students Vote To Raise Money For Field House

A committee has met to select a memorial field house for the present vacant lot, according to Mr. Eugene Fisk, president of the college. The bonds will be held in trust and not be utilized until such time as the students vote on the matter in a general assembly. The funds will then be utilized to construct the field house.

SIGN TO LIST CAMPUS EVENTS

For the next several weeks, the college is planning a series of events to promote student involvement and encourage participation in campus life. These events include concerts, plays, and lectures, as well as social gatherings and outdoor activities. The goal is to create a vibrant and engaging atmosphere on campus.

Chem, Geology Fellows Offered Now

Three students have been selected as fellows in the Chemistry and Geology departments. These fellowships provide financial support and research opportunities for the fellows. The recipients will be working closely with faculty members on various projects, and their contributions will be recognized in the college's annual publications.

U. S. Makes Mistake By Not Helping Russia, Says Prof. Tudor

"The fact that all important powers are vested in the central government and that there is only one present of the country is that the Russian government differs from that of the United States," declared Professor Hugh J. Tudor in the weekly ILC-SCUA sponsored coffee hour discussion Tuesday and Thursday meetings.

Hats Off to Chi Nu and O’Connor

The time-worn problem of school spirit, or rather the lack of it, is the issue in the mind of a few individuals at the college lately. First orders of the day are the Chi Nu’s and the pep and enthusiasm that is evident at the impromptu rally staged in the quad before the Williamette game. It’s too bad that the new students have not contributed.

Each one went on to explain that his being elected was only part of what he expected from the students. Each one gave his plans for the polls. But just give it a little bit of thought and you will see that the new students to contribute.
