The only way to win world peace is to go to war, according to Dr. Del. Em. Chapman, who addressed the general assembly, including representatives of scholastic organizations, yesterday. Mr. Chapman, a sociologist, was invited to plan next year's congress, but Mr. Chapman declined to accept the appointment.

No government shall be exempt from the demands of the Marshall plan aid program, it was said yesterday in a speech given by the president of the General Assembly, Dr. Lengyel. The speech was submitted by CPS delegates and was approved by central council, and the congress armed, and at the other conference.

The resolutions are expected to be submitted to the assembly for adoption, and the power to give the power to decide on some cases will be given by the authority to the congress. The power to judge on some cases of the Federal government will be done by a third party to the Bain of the Big Five.

The conference's resolution in international military force will be proposed in the assembly for the security council.

In the near future, the United States can take over the direction of a trade by negotiating with the other countries.

The war every night, the state of the scans in the assembly and the congress, the resolutions are expected to be held under the Marshall plan.

To government shall be excluded from Marshall plan aid to the political parties. This proposal was submitted by CPS directors and at the conference.

There shall be an equal sharing of scholarships requirements of the congress, and at the governments of Students on an international level.

And Where Were You??

Last week ASCPS held what is popularly supposed to be the final session of the year. Yet one would have thought the students were electing the college dog-catcher for the all the interest shown in the choices.

From a college of almost 3000 students, all eligible to vote, only 759 took time off to vote in the primary Monday and Tuesday. In the finals Thursday and Friday, only 671 votes were cast, 87 under the number for the primaries.

The candidates in the finals, the initiates, and by-laws to the constitution were listed. These proposals were all on the things that the students considered "big wheels" never get to express their opinions.

If you are one of the 100 that did vote yourselves.

A variance might be the moral plight of the student, that they are being fed to the United Nations. But there is a good and bad side to everything and the con- delegates argued over the fate of the world, being worried and pre- the whole thing.

The result is a hodgepodge of resolutions written in scholarly English that will mean little to the average student, who will drive home to the students attending, that they have been "unheard in the future of the government. At least they would be heard if the world was going to beat them.

Yet it is too bad, as the U of W Daily pointed out, that heavy students, professors and jazz books written think one must be profound and witty if he is to be known as "big wheel." The Daily also said that the delegates argued with their heads in the clouds and their feet in a vacuum by not cutting their language down from the obscure to the obvious and familiar words.

Still the Daily did give its purpose if no other reason than to show students that they too can make themselves heard above the general melee of inter- official desperate attempt in round numbers to make the world over.

If this bill passes the house it will probably be made suitable for use by the end of April, 1949 to coincide with the termination of the summer term.
