PETER, PAUL AND MARY — Some people question if there is an honest way to sing folk music in our cosmopolitan society. Peter, Paul and Mary may have found a way. From the Blue Angel to the hungry i, people find real rapport with a tall, silvery blonde who believes in looking as good as she sounds, and two young men who know how to wear Brooks Bros. suits with their beards and guitars.

The next three issues of the Trail will feature biographies of Peter, Paul, and Mary, who will be appearing on the UPS campus as part of Homecoming festivities this year. The well-known folksinging trio will perform in a special one-night concert Thursday, Oct. 24. Special student rate tickets are now on sale in the Student Store at $2 and $2.50. After Oct. 21 the rates will go up.

After taking his psychology degree in 1959, he moved to New York and, after playing he was an instructor in a folk ballad course, Peter Yarrow took his sensitive tenor voice and his chording guitar around New York with the Avin Theatre and the Negev Group.

He appeared on the CBS Spectacular, “Folk Sound, U.S.A.” in May 1960, where manager Al Grossman spotted him and signed him for the “Newport Folk Festival” that year. Followed a cross-country tour for “The Ash Grove” in Los Angeles to Chicago’s “Gate of Horn” and back to the Village.

New York has always been home for Peter, who was born there in 1937. As a youth he studied violin before moving to the guitar, and when he wasn’t playing he was developing a promising talent as a painter.

Peter recalls that Sigmund Menkes at the Art Students League bought a painting he finished at the age of 7. He later studied with Robert Laurent at Ogunquit, Me.

“My esthetic beliefs were established early through my painting,” Peter adds. “I’m a disciple of asymmetrical balance, which I found translatable to the guitar. It strongly shapes my approach to folk music.”

Peter, himself, was nearly shaped in another direction after Cornell. His training in psychology suggested a position with a television research firm.

“At the last minute I decided it wouldn’t work,” he explains. “I had been something of a heretic at college, but I had compromised for the sake of my education. If I had compromised any longer, I’d have only contempt for myself.”

A Proposal . . .

Two Sundays ago a very significant meeting occurred. The University Education Association sponsored a panel discussion on the current trend of "de-facto" segregation in the public schools in the northern United States. What was especially important about this meeting was the awareness on the panel. Jack Tanner, Tacoma lawyer and Washington State head of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and Fred Haley, Tacoma businessman and member of the Tacoma School Board, were the main speakers.

What they had to say was not just controversial in light of today's civil rights question. The important thing is that it offered the students of the University an opportunity to communicate and discuss rationally this vital question with men holding a very definite view on the problem. It was, in short, a chance to add to one's education in the best possible way — direct communication.

This meeting was not overly publicized by any means. Yet many of the students of the University showed interest. It was, however, held on a small scale and as a result only a small percentage of the whole student body could attend.

Several questions now are posed. Will more of these programs be held? Can they be held on a larger scale? What organizations should sponsor them? Dr. Nathan Gross, professor in the education department and U.E.A. advisor, has said it is up to the students to find the answers.

The Trail can offer some possible solutions. One, the Friday-at-four program could be expanded to include this type of program. In an era of complicated conditions, representing various groups interested in promoting such programs could be formed. Presently Artist and Lectures committee is the main group in this area, but other groups such as U.E.A. should be coordinated with A. and L. Communication is important, especially for the publicity needed. In this area, a central publicity committee could be formed to inform the ASB of the upcoming events.

These ideas may sound good on the surface, but they can only be a success if enough hard working people show a definite willingness to help. — w. h. baarsma

Love That Jazz . . .

Jazz, pure, sweet and swelling, energized the sedate atmosphere of Jones Hall last Sunday night as singer Teddy Ross and the Bill Ramsey Jazz Band took to the stage. A small but enthusiastic crowd attended the two-hour A.E.L. concert. Jazz critic Leroy Ostransky introduced the concert with a short spontaneous speech praising jazz as America's only true innovation. In an era of铺书面语ated by combos, trios and quartets it is a delight to hear the big-band sound. Ramsey utilizes many big-band arrangements of jazz leaders like Basie, Goodman and Quincy Jones. Let's have more jazz! — f. dennis hale

From the Corner

by CRUM

During the idle months of summer, the main topic of conversation at "Bob's Place" was often centered on a hot issue: the fifty-eight American "students" who defined the State Department travel ban on Cuba. This juncture was sponsored by the Permanent Student Committee for Travel to Cuba. Each of the "students" paid $100; the Cuban government paid the remainder — $2,000 per person.

Now even if you have trouble balancing your books you'll do, you can see that this $116,000 travel package was not exactly in the shape of the human race. It sounds like propaganda value for Fidel's Cuba was well worth the investment.

In part, this is why fifty-eight "students" are being branded as anti-American, etc., etc.

When the now infamous fifty-eight returned from Latin America, their passports were invalidated; they were subject to heavy fines; they traveled FAC (the House Un-American Activities Committee) began holding hearings for those of you who have been tried in San Francisco, you want to vomit. Get your brown bag for HUAC rides again.

I don't know what your various "concerns" are about Cuba, but "Bob's Place" supports these "students." O.K., so they are dirty, but who needs them and, as Emily Walker of a local newspaper stated, "are the scum of the human race." It sounds like she is advocating Clean-Up, Scrap-Shop, Paint-Up Week for America. Let's look out. Pop. Em, isn't that their business if they want and have E.O.? I've known a hell've lot of clean people in my day who were big zeros. So, I wouldn't be the members of HUAC bathe daily.

Moreover, "Bob's Place" can appreciate the State Department's concern over the safety of these "students." As citizens of this country, our government was responsible for their safety. But and please note, HUAC — they did return unscathed.

However, this "corner" believes that these "students" have been sorely mistreated. After all, they did go openly, which is more honor than sending U.S.'s over Russia secretly. Is our country so afraid for itself that it denies people the right to travel? Is it afraid of its own country or not? Have we arrived at the point where those that have done no wrong are guilty? Too often, it seems, that those who swim against the currents are regarded with suspicion. The idea that the main threads of our liberal education system is to compare and decide within socially acceptable bounds. And so often, these limits are so narrow.

And so, HUAC, operating under the guise of loyalty and decency, is out to crucify these "students." HUAC's method quite contrary to the American principle of free expression, because authorities feared a disturbance.

I do not agree with the sign which read, for example, "How the Fed Over America." I am only defending their right to express themselves in an orderly way.

Since I do not know any of the people who were involved, I am not criticizing them personally. However, some of the placards reflected at best the political understanding of a third grader. Certainly a small sign is not the place to logically describe a political philosophy, but these statements indicate a tendency of the far right to oversimplify and misrepresent. Such statements as "Get the US out of the UN and the UN out of the US" and "Better dead than red" are typical.

Within any extremist group there exists a small core of people who are psychologically suited for putting emotion above fact. There is also the large group of people who feel something should be done but lack the awareness of what action should be taken let alone an understanding of the real problem. This type person frantically searching for quick and easy answers grasps these catch phrases and slogans and convinced that he knows what the right thing to do is— his banner and closes his mind.

The freedom of expression everyone's right, carries with it the obligation of being aware.
Dr. Baskerville Speaks Before Honor Students

The first formal Honor Program banquet held on this campus took place Wednesday, Oct. 2 in the faculty dining room. Among the 109 in attendance were Dr. Ernest Karlstrom, chairman of the Honors Program, the Honors colloquial staff (Dr. Alcorn, Dr. Nelson, Dr. Frank Peterson, Professor Sinclair, Dr. Magee, and Dr. Umpierre), Dean Norman Thomas, Honors scholars (freshmen through juniors), and seniors taking independent study through affiliation with the Honor Program. After dinner folk music was provided by Beth Pederson.

The guest speaker was Dr. Barnett Baskerville, director of the Honors Program in Arts and Sciences at the University of Washington. He challenged his audience with an address entitled, "The Pursuit of Excellence." His address stressed the primary importance of our college education which, according to Dr. Baskerville, the learning of discerning excellence. Employing candor and wit, the U. W. professor of speech described ways by which the serious student may sharpen his educational tools.

INTRODUCING

He enjoys UPS and is looking forward to the building of the new Science Complex, and the years ahead. Welcome, Dr. Blood!

CAMPUS SHORTS
SPU-Rosalinthy is the theme set for the Region II Spur convention to be held in Ellensburg this weekend. Special guest at the convention will be the national Spur president. Representing UPS at the gathering will be Pat Michum, president; Kitty Zittel, vice-president; Heather Smith, historian; Cheryl Hult, editor; Sally Granquist, and Claire Myers. Chairperson of the group will be Spur advisor, Teach Jones and Mrs. Allard, representing the Dean of Women.

SPEECH DEPT. HIGHLIGHTS GREEK THEME

Deviating some from the Beat-Oriental theme which predominated last year, the Speech Department, under the direction of Jack Madsen, will present a Greek lecture recital this afternoon at 3 o’clock in Jones Auditorium.

Reading selections from the writings of Aeschylus, Euripides and Sophocles will be Dave Ackerman, Larry Shorno, Verna Peterson, Neva Reider, Mike Pettibone and Ted Monson.

A lecture recital is exactly what the name implies. That is, a combination of readings and explanations of the works read will be presented. This is the common form of exposition in oral interpretation.

The Greek lecture recital will be presented again on Oct. 23 in an all-day television broadcast on KTFT. A complete first-year class will present, along with this program, a show on the development of the alphabet.

Further, one live program is being planned for KTNT and several radio broadcasts are now in the planning stage.

These recitals and broadcasts are presented by the Speech Department and its classes in oral interpretation. A group of foremen, television and radio broadcasting and debate.

The Speech Department also handles speech and debate tournaments held on our campus. Oct. 5 brought a high school speech clinic to UPS.

Oct. 18 and 19 will begin the season of foremen, with a practice debate at UPS featuring critique judging for all events and all speakers.

The lure of a small private college, the Greek lecture recital, will present a complete first-year class.

Gonsalves Romps For 3 TD’s As Loggers Top Savages 21-13

By Art McLarney

Tony Gonsalves turned on the gas and ran away with the ball game as he opened the game with a sensational 84-yard touchdown jaunt with the opening kickoff and then, to the astonishment of everyone, returned two punts 39 and 53 yards for two more touchdowns. This paved the way for the University of Puget Sound in their 21-13 romp over Eastern Washington at the UPS field.

To open the game, UPS won the toss of the coin and elected to receive. Gonsalves scooped the ball up on the 16-yard line, scampered up the middle, then cut to the far sidelines picking up blockers and the momentum which enabled him to cross the goal line with out being touched. Jim McLean came on to kick the conversion making it 7-0 in favor of the Loggers with fifteen seconds remaining on the clock.

Dornfeld Lost

The next time UPS gained possession of the ball they lost the services of ace quarterback Dick Dornfeld. On the opening play from this series of downs there was a bad snap and in fighting off the Eastern team for possession of the ball Dornfeld injured his ankle and had to be helped off the field. From then on, freshman quarterback, Mike Burton took over on the signal calling position.

The Savages got their first break of the game when the ball and Burton were separated by a vicious tackle on the UPS 12-yard line with the Savages recovering the loose ball. The Loggers were separated by a vicious tackle on the UPS 12-yard line with the Savages recovering the loose ball. The Loggers were kept in the backfield for 11 yards on a fake punt. Burton was hit by two men as he ran for 3 yards, but the play was blocked.

Rompin’ Logger — Tony (Speedy) Gonsalves scored 3 TD’s on spectacular runs against Eastern Saturday.

Teammates — Gonsalves was named most valuable player in the game against Eastern as he ran up on the 16-yard line, and Burton were separated by a vicious tackle on the UPS 12-yard line with the Savages recovering the loose ball. The Loggers were separated by a vicious tackle on the UPS 12-yard line with the Savages recovering the loose ball. The Loggers were kept in the backfield for 11 yards on a fake punt. Burton was hit by two men as he ran for 3 yards, but the play was blocked.

Tough Defense Played

The battle of two good defensive units went on and into the second quarter with neither team emerging into a mistake on defense until Eastern was faced with a punt situation deep in their own territory. The punt was caught on the run by Gonsalves as the Eastern players were closing in. A key block which opened the way for Gonsalves as he broke into the open. He did the rest of it on his own as he ran over the last man between him and TD land. With the conversion UPS left the field 14-0 at halftime.

Seeing Varsity Taking

As the beginning of the second half drew near, dark clouds began to close in on the field. The people in the stands zipped their coats and got their rain gear ready as they awaited with anticipation of that which was to come. Yes, seeing believing, as Eastern was forced to punt. Gonsalves moved back into deep safety; he took the ball on the UPS 47-yard line and ran right through the entire Eastern team for his third touchdown of the day. Mancuso, again kicked the conversion giving the Loggers a comfortable lead of 21-0.

As the rains came so did the Savages from Eastern Washington. Upon recovering a fumble on the Logger 4-yard line, the Savages scored in three plays. The try for point was blocked and off to one side making the score 21-6.

Eastern’s final score came with fifteen seconds remaining on the clock. The play was a sensational 52-yard pass as the Eastern end got behind all the UPS defenders and caught the ball and went on into the end zone with none one near him.

This was a birthday present quite unsought for Coach Heinrick as he has lost only one game in thirty-seven years of coaching. The birthday, the Logger reported, with Coach Heinrick at the helm.

Gonsalves Romps For 3 TD’s As Loggers Top Savages 21-13

Loggers Will Meet Western In Bellingham Saturday

This Saturday the UPS Loggers will travel to Bellingham to encounter the Western Washington State Vikings at 7 p.m. in Civic Stadium. Recently the Loggers have held complete domination over their northern rivals by winning 10 out of the last 11 games played, five of them by shutouts.

However, coach Jim Lounsbury’s rebuilding program is beginning to pay off and this year’s game promises to be a close, hard-fought battle down to the final whistle. Last year UPS had to hang on to defeat the Vikings 13-7.

Western appears to be in much the same position as the Loggers, depth in the backfield but lack of experienced material in the line. The Vikings will be lead again this year by junior quarterback Terry Parker from Tacoma’s Wilson High School. Parker led the league in passing last year and second in total offense. Along with Parker the Western backfield will have Ron Roe, a second team All-Conference selection last year as a sophomore, and Dick Niebold, a transfer from the University of Washington two years ago and a member of Washington’s Rose Bowl team. The Viking backfield will be led by Dave Jansen, a second team All-Conference selection, his year as a sophomore.

Lounsbury will have to go with an inexperienced returner or a freshman as there are no returning lettermen at this position.

The Nordics in 1954 were an all-conference guard and team captain, Dave Alfred who stands only 5’9” but weighs 205. John Fullerton, another all-conference selection, will be back at tackle again this year.

Shelly Thiel, who has been the starting center for the last two years, will again handle the pivot position for the Vikings. Last year letterman Mylo Phipps, at 205, and Jim Jean are expected to handle a tackle and returner respectively. John Stotslud, though only a sophomore, may break into the starting lineup Saturday as the biggest man on the squad at 6’1” and 235.

The remaining end and guard will be Captain Bob Glyn and Gary Kinch who have the inside track to be the respective positions. Since the game is an even contest a large delegation from Tacoma is expected to attend. Civic Stadium, a two-year-old, covers concrete structure that affords a very good view of the playing field which is usually filled to near capacity so those driving from Tacoma are urged to leave early enough to obtain good seats and spur the Loggers on to another Evergreen Conference victory.

It Was Hard, But Oarsmen Get Shells

By JOHN J. ULLIS

Driving thru red lights, cars stopped by the police, stopping cars in Seattle and on the Seattle-Tacoma Highway by being stopped by the police, the University Varsity Boat Club had promised to UPS to deliver two crew shells to Tacoma.

Last Tuesday, the UPS varsity shell crew went to Seattle to obtain the two crew shells that the Green Lake Rowing Club had promised to UPS.

There was so much trouble beginning on the shells that the shells were 64 feet long. The truck that they were hauled in was only about 20 feet long. Over the end of the trunk were about 20 feet of boat stuck on the trunk. Everytime a corner had to be turned traffic had to be stopped. The shells did hit the cars. The drive from Seattle to Tacoma took three and half hours because of the shells. Some times other cars had to be stopped so the truck could get through. The two shells for the crew team was a great challenge. The problem that faced the crewmen was getting on each of the shells. Since each of the crewmen costs about $55 dollars the crew team was in no financial position to buy them now. Jim Wyman, University Varsity Boat Club president stated that he can probably borrow oarsmen from other crew clubs until the Boat Club can afford to buy their own oars. Crew turnouts were held every day at the Field House. No one showed up for the last time because the site was taken place at the boat house on American Lake. Any male student interested in turning out for crew can contact Jim Wyman at 605 Tension 660, or Ned Johnson at 615. The next crew meeting will be held Thursday at 6 o’clock in room 213. All interested students are urged to attend.

But Oarsmen Get Shells

By JOHN J. ULLIS

Driving thru red lights, cars stopped by the police, stopping cars in Seattle and on the Seattle-Tacoma Highway by being stopped by the police, the University Varsity Boat Club had promised to UPS to deliver two crew shells to Tacoma.

Last Tuesday, the UPS varsity shell crew went to Seattle to obtain the two crew shells that the Green Lake Rowing Club had promised to UPS.

There was so much trouble beginning on the shells that the shells were 64 feet long. The truck that they were hauled in was only about 20 feet long. Over the end of the trunk were about 20 feet of boat stuck on the trunk. Everytime a corner had to be turned traffic had to be stopped. The shells did hit the cars. The drive from Seattle to Tacoma took three and half hours because of the shells. Some times other cars had to be stopped so the truck could get through. The two shells for the crew team was a great challenge. The problem that faced the crewmen was getting on each of the shells. Beginning this week the "Sports Line" will be a regular feature on the TRAIL sports page. Due to an unexpected amount of advertising and the importance of President Kennedy's Tacoma appearance, this column, along with several other sports items were deleted from the first issue. Beginning with this edition and continuing throughout the remainder of the year the TRAIL editorial staff will resume its liberal and generous policies in regard to the UPS sporting world. This policy includes depth and detailed coverage of all Logger games, complete coverage of the intramural scene, and feature stories on players, coaches, and the team itself, as space permits. Also letters dealing with topics of general interest will be discussed and treated openly in this column. However, anonymous, non-constructive letters will be ignored. Your opinions and views, as well as suggestions, are invited.

LOGGER TACKLE Ralph Bauman, No. 60, cuts down another Eastern Washington Savage in last Saturday's 21-13 win for UPS. Bauman was a standout on defense.

Again this year the University of Puget Sound will be competing for the Clifford Olson Sportsmanship Award. This award, symbolic of athletic sportsmanship, is highly coveted by the various Evergreen Conference schools because to a large degree it reflects the character and personality of the schools involved. Not only the coaches and the team are rated by the game officials, but the actions, support and enthusiasm, or lack of it, of the fans influence the vote to a great degree. As in the past it will be the sportsmanship shown by the fans and students that will determine the outcome of the voting, since over the course of the season the total balloting based on players and coaches is usually very close.

"I was quite pleased with the student showing at the PLU game," commented head football coach John Heinrick. "Yells criticizing the opposing schools or players can only hurt us in the voting," he continued. Last year Whitworth nosed out UPS in an extremely close race for the Olson Award. One or two careless actions on the part of the student body as well as the various Logger players evidently cost us this prized award. This year it will be the responsibility of each student not only to support the Loggers but to help UPS win the Clifford Olson Sportsmanship Award in 1963-64.

Dr. Ostransky Likes Local Weather, Finds Work Easier

By Dennis Hale

Incessant overcast, caused by a low, dark gray, formless cloud layer called nimbostratus, delights Professor Leroy Ostransky as the solitude of Walden pond thrilled Thoreau. "The weather here is great. It is depressing only when the sun is shining," Professor Ostransky explains that this ability to music composition, this season.

Dr. Ostransky has an impressive 25% of his compositions. Besides the music-publishing world, Dr. Ostransky contributes frequently to the prose-publishing world. He has supplied articles for the North American News Alliance and The Atlantic Monthly. The column, "Notes and Comments," appears weekly, Sundays, on the "Music and Fine Arts" section of the Tacoma News Tribune. Dr. Ostransky publishes another weekly column in the Argus, a slick-paper, quality weekly. In 1968 the University of Washington Press printed his most laudable volume, "The Anatomy of Jazz." The work drew unanimous praise from magazines like Nation, Downbeat and Library Journal and newspapers like the Baltimore Sun and the Berkeley Daily Gazette. The book admirably deviates from previous factual compilations on jazz because it is written, not by a journalist, but by an educated musicologist. Dr. Ostransky's academic treatment of jazz relates it to classical music using classical terms. John Goodspeed, a reviewer for Downbeat, in an editorial for the ProMusician, noted: "The book is well written, and the author has a deep knowledge of music, which makes it a good read for anyone interested in jazz."

"Laser" beams of visible light have recently been sent to the moon and back, and it may soon be developed into an important research device.

The greatest discoveries, however, await the first men to land on the moon, according to the speaker. He pointed out that we are living in a unique age: for we will soon make the first space explorations away from the earth to the moon, and not long thereafter we will probably reach out for Mars — the only celestial object to which we are likely to have any sort of life as we know it.
