We Get Letters...

To the Editor:

I cannot let another Trail go by without expressing my views on the way Ed Adams has handled the job of Sports (Editor) this year.

I have witnessed in the past year a deterioration of the Trails sports page from two full pages down to a half page (The other half of this single page was used for advertising.) If this isn’t bad enough, half of this half page is occupied by an article every week entitled Lock Room by ED ADAMS. Does this article pertain to sports? No! It pertains to petty slams against the faculty, the university, the Chips, the Choppers, etc.—Graaaand! maybe next year the Trail will add a group column and move Mr. Adams (or should I say Mr. Eds) column to where it belongs. And possibly they can come up with a person capable of being Sports Editor. One who has an understanding of sports, who will devote the sports section to sports who will interview the players and coaches, give the results and various team standings and have thus far been finding their way to the waste basket but not the Trail. (Or haven’t the Sigma Nu’s been winning?)

As quickly as possible Sugarlocky Room last week: “To you members of the Associated Student Body I humbly give my apologies for not being able to cover the number one event in the athletic fields this year.” Man, he missed them all.

Sincerely,

Jerry Boyd

Men’s Intramural Director

P.S. Did you know ED EDAMS is considering being Sports Editor again next year?

Reality Seminar To View Report

A discussion on “de facto” segregation has been scheduled as part of reality seminar, for May 12 at 7 p.m. in the Student Center.

The discussion will center around a report made by the Tacoma Public Schools and studies the practices which contribute to racial segregation and factors in the community which cause it. The report also considers ways in which the school system is compensating for the educational deficiencies among disadvantaged groups and suggests steps which could be taken to promote full development of equal educational opportunities in the school system. (The suggestion is to enlist volunteer tutors from UPS to help these disadvantaged students.)

The causes and effects of national, western and local segregation will be discussed as well as ways in which citizens and particularly students can help remedy the situation.

Friends of SNCC Blasted In National Publication

By Layne Alexander

Last semester, the coffee cup critics in the SUR were complaining about the tyranny of the UPS administration. At that time the administration failed to recognize a group of students that called themselves Friends of S.N.C.C. Without the administration’s recognition, Central Board could not ratify this group as a part of the student government at UPS, and would not allow them to use Central Board funds.

This action coincided with the free speech demonstrations at the Berkeley campus and naturally a comparison was not isolated. Soon Friends of S.N.C.C. became the favorite campus underdog and the administration considered them fiends. However, protest never left the morning coffee sessions.

In the May 15 Thursday Evening Post S.N.C.C. is discussed in the feature article, “Explosive Revival of the Far Left.” The Post calls the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (S.N.C.C.) “the most radical of the civil rights groups.” The article goes on to say, “S.N.C.C. is a wonder, perfectly designed to fit the anarchic student temperament of today. It has a full-time staff of 200 but no membership. Its broad base is a separate group called Friends of S.N.C.C. which has 150 members, two thirds of them on campus. A chapter on one campus may be controlled by young socialists and on another by young democrats, and S.N.C.C. has been ‘thoroughly infiltrated’ by Communists.” Perhaps the years have brought wisdom to the administration.

Newly elected Chip officers include: Judy Lindberg, president; Betty Briggs, vice president; Sue Holz, secretary; Kathy Bice, treasurer; Amy Carlson, historian; Levie Robert, songleader; and Marisa Hammon, publicity.

Here again is the Trail’s answer to the same-old little used column that’s still not filled to print. Those who were born have always had to study or be poor. Those who are young must study or they will be poor. Those who are young have always had to study or some should exist like that. Those who are young do have to study and nobody has ever really wanted to study. Therefore the point of difference between kid and older is just that one. Then, you see, the older can’t fix too much sense of it. The younger generation is present, and the older generation is present, and they are different, and the younger generation is present, and the older generation is present, and they are different. Everything is different. More but Gordon is naming my arm and this is a really bad thing. (War is...)

Editorial Comment

Few of you realize the work which goes into putting out a college newspaper — even an eight-page weekly such as ours. There’s never enough money, never enough time, and never enough people willing to do the work. At UPS it is especially difficult to recruit reporters because no class credit is given. Many who want to work like a dog week after week for a name on the masthead? Nevertheless there are always a few dedicated people who come through week after week with or without acknowledgement.

Who were these unheralded (clique) workers? Rich Mulkey, (my sometimes emotional, irrational associate editor who could almost call the Trail office his home; Doug Smith, (photographer, business manager; jack of all trades); the Buell twins, Georgia and Suzie, (my poor confused news editors who could never figure out what their editor was doing); Davey Jones (the “Locker” boy who added so much to the late nights with his dry, subtle humor); Kathy Goria, (typist, attendance clerk, handy greeted and inspiration to us all); Judi Lindberg, Layne Alexander, Dave Locey, Frank Harmer, Ken Foust, Kris Butler, (a representative cross-section of the campus — a poet, BA man, an up and coming BMOV, a dramatist, an artist and a reporter — all of whom were around when need ed most).

And what have I learned from my year as editor-in-chief? First of all I have learned that there are at least seven opinions (or one every on every issue — the faculty’s, the administration’s, the Greeks, the Indies, the reformers, the conservatives, and the Board of Trustees. The value of each must be considered carefully before deciding which position the Trail should take.

Secondly, I have learned that to have a good paper, the dedication of the editor must never falter. When it does, the quality of the publication will fall. The paper must come first — before sorority, before social life, and even (unfortunately) before studies. (So, folks, when the Trail was “hurting” it was either because I was “in love,” or cramping for a test covering 500 pages that I hadn’t even looked at!)

Would I do it again? Each Tuesday night at 2 a.m. I vow I wouldn’t, but when I look back on the experiences I’ve had and the people I’ve met, I know I wouldn’t have given up this year for the world. edh

VALENTINE

There once were two people named WE
Who were, quite obviously,
So enamored at being
A part of the same team
That they figured it was worth it to be UPS students number 35460321 and number 47894011
As computed by the IBM digital analyzer and catalogued accordingly.

AMERICA CULTURE TRILOGY

I
The busy, dizzy, fizzy ad man
Sold a million Chinese sampans,
Sold a billion fruity toothpastes
(All with sunsets glowingly
And status symbols sexily Displayed.)
For who will be dismayed
If Asia falls to China
When the monthly bills are paid?
Back-rakers pilfering hole
And sterilize.
Castrate
And kill —
Catalogue,
And cannonize,
And classify
They will
With IBM computer
And contraceptive pill,
And get rich quick
With Bobby Baker,
Alter Uncle's will.
(And make a million dollars more Off Jack Daniel's whiskey still.)

And so I bought a candy bar
To become an American consumer — great institution

the greatest thing to be!
And you don't even have to

It's art is beer-can garbage.
It's poetry is tin.
It's music is the crinkling

"Where the hell you been?"
