Join the Collins Memorial Library, Centro Latino, and members of the Latinos Unidos student group at the University of Puget Sound for a student-led panel discussion focusing on the Latino community in Tacoma. Meet individuals that help our local community thrive, hear personal narratives about the local Latino experience, and contribute to a dialogue addressing current issues in our community.

This event is presented in partnership with Tacoma Art Museum, Centro Latino, and Pacific Lutheran University. Programs are supported by Latino Americans: 500 Years of History, a nationwide public programming initiative produced by the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) and the American Library Association (ALA) to engage people in examining and documenting the histories of Latino Americans in their communities and facilitate informed discussion about Latino history and culture.
